PREFACE TO VOL. XXXVIII

Following is a synopsis of the documents contained in the present volume:

LXXXI. The first seven chapters of the Relation of 1651-52 were given in Vol. XXXVII.; we here present the remainder of the document. Chaps. viii.—ix. are written by the superior Ragueneau; the final chapter is compiled (apparently by the Paris editor) from a biographical memoir of Mother Marie de St. Joseph,—assistant in the Ursuline convent, who died April 4, 1652,—written by her superior, Mother Marie de l'Incarnation.

The account of the Abenaki mission, begun in the preceding volume, is here continued by Ragueneau—recounting the readiness of that tribe to receive the faith, and their earnestness and zeal in following it. Visions and miraculous cures have often rewarded their devotion. They are exceedingly attached to Druillettes, their missionary, and hold him in great honor,—a feeling which the English settlers on the Kennebec also share. The Indians of Narantsouak (Norridgewock) publicly adopt the Father as a member of their tribe, and regard him as its head. The leading men denounce drunkenness, sorcery, and polygamy. They beg Druillettes to remain with them, and only the command of his superior induces him to leave these disciples.

The ninth chapter describes the attacks with which the Iroquois have harassed the French settlements during the summer, especially that at Three Rivers,—for which material is furnished by a letter received from that place. Nearly the same ground is traversed herein as in the Journal des Jésuites (in the volume preceding this), but with more detail of circumstance. As a climax to all their anxieties and dangers, the report comes that the Iroquois clans are preparing for a general and united attack upon the French settlements during the coming winter. The writer appeals for aid from France in this time of need,—saying that the country is now practically self-supporting, and that it needs only to have a few hundred workingmen sent hither each year; these would be at once an aid in the development of the country, and a defense against the Iroquois. A similar request is also made by Noël Tekwerimat, the Sillery chief, in a letter which he writes to Father le Jeune.

Thus far the Relation proper; it is followed by a long account of Mother Marie de St. Joseph, the Ursuline nun. Her childhood is characterized by devoutness and purity, and she would rather read the lives of saints than play with her comrades. Having been sent to an Ursuline convent for her education, she resolves to become a nun; and, although she has not reached the age required for the novitiate, her entreaties are so importunate that she is admitted thereto. A dream sent from Heaven gives her strength to resist the efforts made by her family to keep her with them; and, at the age of sixteen, she takes the veil, in the Ursuline convent at Tours, where she greatly edifies all. At the call for nuns to go to Canada with Madame de la Peltrie, Marie de

St. Joseph is chosen as the companion of Marie de l'Incarnation, and goes with her to Ouebec. Her intense devotion to the Holy Family is rewarded with visions and ecstasies, even more than ordinary. Her virtues are described at length, notably her humility, obedience, and purity. In Canada, she learns both the Huron and Algonkin tongues, and instructs the savages in the faith, becoming the spiritual mother of many souls. The attacks of the Iroquois upon the French, and this nun's failing health, lead her relatives to entreat that she will return to France: but her devotion to her work is so great that she steadfastly refuses to leave it. In one of her visions. her Lord tells her that hereafter she will "live only by faith and crosses;" from that time, she begins to fade away, and dies from consumption and asthma, at the last, suffering intensely, but evincing the utmost patience and resignation. After her death, her spirit holds communication with a friend in Ouebec. and saves his life by warning him of approaching danger.

LXXXII. The Journal des Jésuites (kept by Ragueneau, until August 9; during the next ten days, by Jerome Lalemant; and thereafter by François le Mercier) gives but a meager record for the earlier months of 1653; there is but one entry previous to April 10. On the 21st of that month, news comes from Three Rivers that sixteen Frenchmen there—servants, sailors, and others—have run away, intending to leave the country. Two months later, Indians from Gaspé tell at Quebec the disastrous result of this escapade; several of these French fugitives have died from hardship and privation, "and there were indications that they had eaten one another." On May 12, Jacques Junier, a Jesuit donné, runs away from Sillery, after having been in the service of the mission for twenty years. A fortnight later, some Massachusetts Indians bring a letter from Rev. John Eliot, asking for the release of certain savages, their allies, captured last year by the Algonkins,—a request which is granted.

With the coming of summer, the Iroquois again infest the river, directing their murderous attacks against isolated farm-houses, laborers in the fields, fishermen setting their lines, and stray Huron and Algonkin savages, even when in considerable bands. The danger and loss are greatest at Three Rivers, and aid is quickly sent thither. News is brought, July 20, that the New England colonists are undertaking war against the Dutch and the Iroquois; and, ten days later, that the Algonkin tribes of the North, with the remnant of the Tobacco and Neutral tribes, are assembling beyond Sault Ste. Marie, to unite against the Iroquois.

August 6, the mail from France arrives, in which are received letters appointing Father le Mercier as superior in Canada. Pending his arrival (about ten days later) from Three Rivers, a vice-superior is named, Jerome Lalemant. Lalemant, in this brief time, writes in the Journal a full and highly interesting account of the ecclesiastical status of the Jesuits in Canada, and the relations of the church there to the diocese of Rouen,—matters regarding which much dissension has already arisen, and which are to bring about, but three years later, an entire reorganization of ecclesiastical affairs in Canada. Le Mercier continues the record, beginning August 21; his first entry describes a battle near Montreal, in which the Iroquois are defeated by the Hurons, losing several of their number. From the captives, the French learn much news from the South, - one item, of alarming import, that a troop of 600 Mohawks had started, thirty days before, to attack Three Rivers. But an hour later, the tidings come that Father Poncet and another Frenchman have been carried away as prisoners by the enemy. A party of Frenchmen at once start in pursuit of the captors; but, on the next day, they hear that Three Rivers is already besieged by the Mohawk band just mentioned, and they at once go to the relief of the town. The siege lasts over eight days, and the cultivated lands around the fort are laid waste; but the enemy begins then to talk of peace, and presents are exchanged on both sides. The Mohawks raise the siege, and the chief at their head sets out to pursue Poncet's captors. Ambassadors from the Onondaga tribe come, about this time, to treat for a peace. They reach Quebec soon after the beginning of a church jubilee; processions march through the streets daily, conspicuous in which are "more than four hundred fusiliers, in fine order,"-a sight which must have confirmed the peaceful predilections of the envoys.

Father Poncet arrives at Montreal, October 24, "in a wretched canoe, and dressed in Dutch fashion." He is conducted by some Iroquois, with whom, again, presents are exchanged; and feasts are made for them by the Jesuits and the Hospital nuns. Various complications arise in the relations between the Hurons, Iroquois, and French; and a council thereon is held at the Jesuit residence, November 19.

LXXXIII. The Relations of the Jesuit missions in Canada, being written in French, had, of course, but a limited circulation in other countries than France, outside of ecclesiastical circles. These missions had now been carried on for twenty years, and the Roman Catholics of Europe felt general interest in them, as conducted by priests of an order within that church. To satisfy this interest in Italy, Francesco Bressani - who had been one of the missionaries in Huronia, from 1645 to 1649 - wrote, after his return to his native land, the Breve Relatione. It gives, in popular style,—and often abridged from the Relations and other contemporary documents, an account of the Canadian Indians (especially of the Hurons); of the Jesuit missions among them, and the difficulties incident to their conversion; and of the death of Jogues, Daniel, and other missionaries who have fallen at their posts in this arduous service. He begins with the situation and natural features of the country called New France, - discussing at length the causes of its extremes in climate; with a brief mention of its earliest discovery, and of the French settlements thus far made therein. He then describes the Huron country, and enumerates the tribes beyond it; and gives an account of the customs, clothing, characteristics, and government of the savages among whom he had labored during four years. In the main, these chapters traverse the same ground as do the Huron Relations of 1636 and 1639 (Vols. X., XVII.).

The first seven chapters of the Relation were given in Volume XXXVII.; we here present the remaining three chapters, thus concluding the document.

[92] CHAPITRE VIII.

DES BONNES DISPOSITIONS QU'ONT LES ABNAQUIOIS
POUR LA FOY DE IESUS-CHRIST.

E P. Gabriel Druillettes nous donne dans fes Memoires quatre ou cinq belles marques des riches dispositions, & des grandes inclinations qu'ont les peuples qu'il a visitez, à la foy de Iesus-Christ.

[93] La premiere est tirée de leur foy, qu'ils ont conferuée, & qu'ils ont augmentée pendant trois ou quatre ans, quoy qu'ils n'ayent eu aucun maistre, ny aucun Docteur pour cultiuer cette premiere graine, & cette premiere semence qu'il auoit iettée dans leurs cœurs, comme en passant, & fort à la haste. Cette foy leur fait croire que celuy qui se plaist dans les ames simples, les auoit extraordinairement fortifiez dans leurs tentations, & qu'il les auoit gueris miraculeusement de plusieurs maladies.

Ceux que j'auois instruits fort legerement, dit le Pere, ne faisant encore que begayer en leur langue, ont recité constamment tous les iours les prieres que ie leur auois enseignées. Ceux que j'auois baptisez en des maladies que ie croyois mortelles, n'ofant pas dans ma premiere visite confier ce Sacrement à ceux qui iouyssoient d'vne pleine santé: ceux-là, dis-je, publicient par tout, que le Baptesme leur auoit donné la vie; & comme ils auoient appris qu'il falloit confesser les pechez où l'on tomboit apres la reception de ces eaux salutaires, ils n'attédoiét pas qu'ils

OF THE GOOD DISPOSITION SHOWN BY THE ABNAQUIOIS TOWARD THE FAITH OF JESUS CHRIST.

FATHER Gabriel Druillettes gives us, in his Memoirs, four or five beautiful proofs of the abundant disposition and cordial inclination felt for the faith of Jesus Christ by the peoples whom he has visited.

[93] The first is drawn from their faith, which they have preserved and increased for three or four years, although they have had no master or Teacher to cultivate that first germ and seed which he had sown in their hearts in passing, so to speak, and very hastily. That faith made them believe that he who takes pleasure in simple souls had, in an extraordinary manner, strengthened them in their temptations, and had miraculously cured them of many diseases.

"Those whom I had instructed very cursorily," says the Father, "who at that time could only stammer in their own language, have recited every day, without fail, the prayers that I had taught them. Those whom I had baptized in cases of sickness that I thought mortal,—not daring, on my first visit, to administer this Sacrament to those who were enjoying perfect health,—those persons, I say, proclaimed everywhere that Baptism had given them life. And, as they had learned that one must confess the sins into which he fell after receiving those waters of salvation, they did not wait until they were on their fuffent à genoux aux pieds du [94] Prestre; ils s'en accusoient tout haut, demandans qu'on les punist pour des fautes bien legeres.

L'vn d'eux guary affez foudainement f'efcrioit: Ie marchois comme les bestes à quatre pieds, ie ne pouuois me tenir debout: & aussi tost que j'ay receu le Baptesme, j'ay couru & chassé comme les autres. Les peres & les meres me venoient presenter leurs petits enfans, que j'auois regenerez dans les eaux du Baptesme, croyant qu'ils estoient prests d'expirer: Voila (me disoient-ils) celuy que tu as resuscité par ces eaux importantes que tu as versées sur leurs testes.

Quelques-vns m'entretenoient iufques à minuict, me rendans vn compte fort naïf de leur conscience: Ils me racontoient les attaques que les Iongleurs leur auoient bien fouuent liurées à l'occasion de leurs maladies, les voulans penfer à leur mode, par des cris & par des heurlemens, & par des inuocations du Demon. Ils ont esté cause (disoient-ils) que nous auons redoublez nos prieres, dem[an]dans à Dieu la fanté de nos malades, afin qu'on ne nous preffast point de les mettre entre les mains de ces Iongleurs, & fouuent [95] nous auons esté exaucez sur le champ. Apres auoir dit à celuy qui a tout fait, ce que nous fçauions, & ce qui nous venoit au cœur, nous adjouftions ces paroles: Tu connois nos cœurs, nous voulons faire pour le bien des malades, ce que fait le Patriarche; nous te disons ce qu'il te dit, tu le fçais, nous ne le fçauons pas: regarde ce qu'il fait, & ce qu'il te dit, c'est cela que nous voulons faire, & que nous te voulons dire.

l'ay rencontré vn vieillard, aagé à peu pres de cent ans, ie l'auois baptizé dés l'an 1647. le croyant knees at the [94] Priest's feet; they accused themselves aloud, asking to be punished for very light offenses.

"One of them, who had been cured rather suddenly, cried out: 'I was walking like the four-footed animals and could not stand upright; but, as soon as I received Baptism, I ran and hunted like the rest.' Fathers and mothers came to present to me their little children, whom I had regenerated in the waters of Baptism when I thought them at the point of death. 'Behold' (they would say to me), 'the one whom thou hast restored to life by those important waters which thou didst pour upon its head.'

"Some talked with me until midnight, rendering me a very ingenuous account of their consciences. They told me about the attacks very often made upon them, on the occasion of their ailments, by the Jugglers who wished to attend them in their fashion, - with cries, and howls, and invocations of the Demon. 'They were the cause' (said they)' of our redoubling our prayers, asking God for the cure of our diseases, in order that we might not be urged to put them into the hands of those Jugglers; and often [95] our petitions were immediately granted. After saying to him who made all things what we knew and what our hearts prompted, we used to add these words: "Thou knowest our hearts: we wish to do for the good of the sick what the Patriarch does; we say to thee what he says to thee; thou knowest it, we do not. Do thou give heed to what he does and what he says to thee; that is what we would do and would say to thee."

"I met an old man, almost a hundred years of age, whom I had baptized in the year 1647, believing him fur le bord de sa fosse: ce bon Neophyte, que ie nommay Simeon, receut la vie du corps & de l'ame si foudainement, apres trois ou quatre ans de langueur dans vne extreme vieillesse, qu'il causa de l'estonnement à tous ses compatriotes. Vous sçauez bien, leur disoit il, que j'estois mort deuant mon baptefme, ie ne viuois plus, ie ne pouuois me remuer. & deux jours apres on me vid en fanté. I'ay tué cet hyuer quatre Orignaux, que j'ay attrapez à la cousr]se: I'ay assommé deux Ours, & mis à mort quantité de Chevreux. Ie pense incessamment à celuy qui a tout fait: Ie parle fouuent à Iesus, [96] il me fortifie, il me console, ie suis demeuré seul de ma famille, j'ay veu mourir mon fils, & ma femme, & mes petits nepveux: j'en ay ressenty quelque douleur au commencement, mais si tost que ie me suis mis en prieres, mon cœur a esté consolé, sçachant que ceux qui croyent, & qui font baptizez, vont en Paradis. I'ay remercié celuy qui a tout fait, de ce qu'ils estoient morts Chrestiens, & ie sens vne iove dans mon ame, de ce que ie les verray bien tost dans le Ciel. Ouand mon cœur se veut égarer dans la triftesse, ie me mets à genoux deuant Dieu, & la priere me fait retrouuer mon cœur.

Vn autre encore plus aagé, est si fort adonné à l'oraison, qu'il passe vne partie de la nuict s'entretenant tout seul auec Dieu, pendant que les autres prennent leur repos. Estant couché dans sa cabane, j'entendis vne sois qu'il se leuoit à la dérobée, les tenebres le déroboient de mes yeux, mais non pas de mes oreilles. Il commença son oraison par les prieres que ie luy auois enseignées, il en adjousta d'autres si à propos, & forma des actes si amoureux, qu'ils me rauirent: Il taschoit de parler bien bas, & to be on the brink of the grave. This good Neophyte, whom I named Simeon, was so suddenly revived in body and soul, after three or four years of weakness, in an extreme old age, that he caused astonishment to all his fellow-countrymen. 'You well know,' he would say to them, 'that, before my baptism, I was dead - I had ceased to live, I could not move; and, two days later, I was seen to be in health. This winter, I have killed four Moose which I hunted down; I have slain two Bears, and put to death a good many small Deer. I think unceasingly of him who made all things; I often speak to Jesus, [96] and he strengthens and comforts me. I am the only one left of my family, having seen my son, my wife, and my little nephews die. At first, I felt some sorrow at these deaths; but, as soon as I had begun to pray, my heart was consoled, knowing as I did that they who believe and are baptized go to Paradise. I thanked him who made all things that they had died Christians, and I feel a joy in my heart at the prospect of seeing them soon in Heaven. When my heart is inclined to lose itself in sadness, I kneel before God, and prayer makes me find my heart again.'

"Another man, still older, is so greatly given to prayer that he spends a part of the night in private intercourse with God, while the others are taking their rest. On one occasion, when I had lain down to sleep in his cabin, I heard him get up stealthily, hidden by the darkness from my eyes, but not from my ears. He began his orisons with the prayers that I had taught him, adding others so appropriate, and rendering acts of devotion so tender, that they delighted me. He tried to speak in a very low tone, moy de l'escouter bie [97] fort attentiuemet. Ses ges me dirent que Dieu exauçoit souuet les prieres qu'il faisoit pour des malades, ou pour d'autres sujets. I'ay remarqué cy dessus, qu'vne partie de ceux que le Pere auoit baptizez, dans l'extrémité de leurs maladies, retournans apres en santé, attribuoient cette faueur à leurs Baptesmes. Ceux qui sont morts, adjoute le Pere, n'estoient pas moins auantagés, ils publicient par leurs actions ce que les autres preschoient par leurs paroles. Premieremet ils rebutoient tous ceux, qui leur parloient de faire venir leurs medecins, ou leurs Iongleurs, pour les soussels, en par leurs actions ce que les autres preschoient par leurs paroles. Premieremet ils rebutoient tous ceux, qui leur parloient de faire venir leurs medecins, ou leurs Iongleurs, pour les soussels, en par leurs paroles des sous leurs sons leurs leur tambours afin de chasser le Demon, comme ils disent qui leur veut oster la vie.

En fecond lieu ils faifoient paroiftre fur leur vifage, & par leurs difcours; qu'ils partoient de ce monde, pour aller au Ciel, auec tant de paix, & tant de ioie, que non feulement ils empefchoient les pleurs, & les lamentations de leurs parens, mais ils leur donnoient en outre vn ardent desir de fe faire instruire en la foy de Iesus-Christ, pour jouir d'vne si douce mort.

Quelques femmes bien agées, malades [98] depuis deux ans, ne pouuant empescher que les Iongleurs du pays inuités par leurs parens, n'appliquaffent sur elles leurs superstitions, demandoient à Dieu pendant leurs hurlemens, qu'il luy pleut de consondre leur Demon: en effet, elles se trouvoient plus mal apres ces tintamarres, & lors que ces beaux Medecins les abandonnoient, comme des personnes qui auoient desia vn pied dans le pays des morts, ces bonnes ames demandant la vie, & la fanté à nostre Seigneur, la recouuroient soudainement à la veuë de ces Iongleurs.

and I to listen very [97] attentively to him. His people told me that God often answered the prayers that he offered in behalf of sick persons, or for other purposes." I have noted in this connection that a part of those whom the Father had baptized in the extremity of their illness, upon being restored afterward to health, ascribed that favor to their Baptism. "Those who died," adds the Father, "were not less benefited; and they published by their deeds what the others preached by their words. In the first place, they repulsed all those who spoke to them about summoning their physicians, or Jugglers, to blow upon them, and sing over them, and beat their drums, in order to drive away the Demon, as they say, who wishes to take away their lives.

"In the second place, they made it manifest in their faces and by their conversation that they were leaving this world, to go to Heaven, with so much peace and joy that not only did they check the tears and lamentations of their relatives, but they also gave them an ardent desire to be themselves instructed in the faith of Jesus Christ, in order to enjoy so easy a death.

"Some very aged women, who had been ill [98] for two years, not being able to prevent the Jugglers of the country, who had been summoned by the relatives, from practicing their superstitions over them, asked God, during their howling, to be pleased to confound their Demon. In fact, they found themselves worse after this uproar; and when these fine Physicians were giving them up, as persons having already one foot in the land of the dead, those good souls asked our Lord for life and health, which they

Quantité de ces bonnes gens (pourfuit le Pere) m'ont affuré, que leurs enfans morts incontinent apres le Baptesme, leur auoiet parus venir du Ciel, pour les encourager a embraffer les verités Chrestiennes. Cette veuë, disoient-ils, nous combloit d'vne iove que nous ne pouuons exprimer, & quelques-vns de nous estans malades guerisoient quasi tout à coup. Ces pauures Neophytes, me menoient fur le tombeau de ces petits Anges, pour me faire remercier Dieu de les auoir pris pour fes enfans. La les meres me dechargeoient leur cœur, me racomptans les recours qu'elles auoient eu a Dieu, & le fecours [99] qu'il leur auoit donné. Nous estions inconfolable deuant qu'on nous eut parlé du Paradis. nous pleurions tous les matins & tous les foirs la mort de nos moindres parens, mon cœur est maintenant tout changé, il ne ressent plus ces angoisses, mesme à la mort de mon mary, & de mes enfans; mes yeux iettent bien quelques larmes, au commancement, mais aussi tost que ie viens à penser que leurs ames font au Ciel auec Dieu, ou quelles y entreront bien tost, ie fens vne ioie dans mon ame, & toute ma pensée n'est que de le prier, qu'il les mette bien tost auec luy. Oue si le Demon veut par fois me ietter dans la triftesse, comme si i'auois perdu ceux que i'aymois, I'ay aussi tost recours à celuy qui a tout fait, lequel me fait connoistre que celuy qui est auec luy, n'est pas perdu.

Le fecond indice de l'amour qu'ont ces peuples pour Iefus-Chrift, & pour fa doctrine, est fondée sur leur ferueur, & sur quelques actions tres-remarquables, pour des hommes conceus au milieu de la Barbarie, l'ardeur estoit si grande pour retenir les prieres, où les verités que ie leur enseignois, dit le suddenly recovered before the eyes of these Jugglers.

"Many of these good people" (continues the Father) "have assured me that their children, dving immediately after Baptism, had appeared to come down to them from Heaven, to encourage them to embrace the truths of Christianity. 'The sight of them,' they would say, 'overwhelmed us with a joy that we cannot express; and some of us who were ill were almost immediately cured.' Those poor Neophytes conducted me to the grave of these little Angels, for the purpose of having me thank God for having received them as his children. There the mothers unburdened their hearts to me, telling me how they had had recourse to God and [99] he had given them aid. 'We were inconsolable, before we were told about Paradise; we used to mourn the death of even the most distant of our relatives, every morning and evening. My heart is now wholly changed, and no longer feels that anguish, even at the deaths of my husband and my children. My eyes, indeed, shed some tears at first; but as soon as I come to think that their souls are in Heaven with God, or that they will soon be there, I feel a joy in my soul, and all my thought is to pray that he will soon take them to himself. But if, at times, the Demon wishes to make me sad, as if I had lost those that I loved, I immediately have recourse to him who made all things, and he makes me know that one who is with him is not lost.""

The second proof of the love felt by these peoples for Jesus Christ and his doctrine is based on their fervor, and on some acts that are very remarkable for people conceived in the midst of Barbarism. "Their Pere, qu'ils passoient les [100] nuicts à repeter leurs leçons: les vieillards fe rendoient efcolier[s] de leurs petits enfans: les Catechumenes tres-peu versez en nostre science, estoient contraints de faire les Docteurs. Quelques-vns escriuoient leurs lecons à leur mode, ils fe feruoient d'vn petit charbon pour vne plume, & d'une escorce au lieu de papier. Leurs characteres estoient nouueaux, & si particuliers, qusel l'vn ne pouuoit connoistre, ny entendre l'escriture de l'autre: c'est à dire, qu'ils se seruoient de certaines marques felon leurs idées, comme d'vne memoire locale, pour fe fouuenir des points, & des articles, & des maximes qu'ils auoient retenuës. Ils emportoient ce papier auec eux pour estudier leur leçon dans le repos de la nuict. La ialousie & l'emulation se mettoit parmy eux, les petits combattoient auec les plus grands, à qui auroit plustost appris les prieres; & ceux à qui ie ne pouuois pas donner tout le temps qu'ils me demandoient, m'en faisoient des reproches.

Mais il me femble que les Anges prenoient fur tout vn grand plaisir de voir l'ardeur & le courage des plus petits enfans: Ils couroient tous apres moy pour [101] estre instruits: Ils venoient aux prieres tous les foirs & tous les matins: Ils ioignoient leurs petites mains, ils se mettoient à genoux, ils prononçoient apres moy fort posément ce que ie leur faisois dire, ils continuoient tous les iours cet exercice, de leur propre mouuement, ou plustost par le mouuement de celuy qui commanda aux Apostres de les laisser approcher de sa personne, puis que le royaume des Cieux leur appartient.

La troisiefme marque consiste en l'amour qu'ils ont pour leur Pere & pour leur Patriarches. Les Sauuages, qui pour l'ordinaire sont assez froids dans leurs ardor was so great," says the Father, "for retaining the prayers or the truths that I taught them, that they spent the [100] nights in repeating their lessons. The old men became pupils to their little children. The Catechumens, very little versed in our science, were forced to play the Doctor. Some would write their lessons after a fashion of their own, using a bit of charcoal for a pen, and a piece of bark instead of paper. Their characters were new, and so peculiar that one could not recognize or understand the writing of another,—that is to say, they used certain signs corresponding to their ideas; as it were, a local reminder, for recalling points and articles and maxims which they had retained. They carried away these papers with them, to study their lessons in the quiet of the night. Jealousy and emulation sprang up among them: the little ones vied with the older ones who should soonest learn his prayers; and those to whom I could not give all the time they asked me for, reproached me therefor.

"But it seems to me the Angels took especially great pleasure in seeing the ardor and spirit of the smallest children: they all ran after me to [101] be instructed; they came to prayers every morning and evening; they clasped their little hands, knelt down, and pronounced after me very sedately what I made them say; and they continued this exercise every day, of their own impulse, or, rather, by the impulse of him who bade the Apostles to let them come unto him, since theirs is the kingdom of Heaven."

The third proof is found in the love they feel for their Father and Patriarch. The Savages, who are commonly rather cold in their passions, have very often made him feel the warmth of their affection. passions, luy ont fait bien souuent ressentir la chaleur de leur affection. Ils l'honoroient dans leurs festins, du mets qu'ils donnent ordinairement à leurs Capitaines. S'il faifoit voyage auec eux, on choisiffoit le meilleur Canot, on luy presentoit la place la plus commode; & f'il vouloit manier l'auiron, ils luy arrachoient des mains, difans que fon occupation estoit de prier Dieu. Prie pour nous, & nous ramerons pour toy, disoient-ils. Aux endroits où il falloit porter leur petit Nauire, & tout leur bagage, pour passer [102] d'vn fleuue à vn autre, ou pour éuiter des precipices, & des cheutes d'eau, ils portoient fon lict, fon manteau, & bien fouuent fa maifon, & tout cela confistoit en vne couuerture, ou vne castelongne, qui luy feruoit à tous ces vsages. Or comme il fe chargeoit toujours de fa Chappelle, quelques-vns le prioient de la mettre fur les facs, ou fur les pacquets qu'ils portoient fur leurs espaules, disans que ce petit fardeau de Iefus foulageoit la pefanteur de leur Quelques-vns, pour l'obliger à demeurer toujours parmy eux, f'offrirent de luy défricher de la terre. & de luy donner des champs pour les faire cultiner.

Si quelqu'vn moins affectionné à nostre creance, laissoit eschaper quelque parole contre le Patriarche, il estoit aussi tost releué. Voicy vn exemple bien remarquable pour des Sauuages. Le Pere estant en vne bourgade affez voisine des habitations Angloises, le valet d'vn Anglois se trouua certain iour dans vne cabane, où il instruisoit ses bons Catechumenes. Cet homme, ou par malice, ou pource qu'il n'entendoit pas bien la langue du pays, rapporta par apres à son maistre, que le [103] Pere auoit parlé contre les Anglois; ce qui n'estoit pas veritable. Ces braues

They honored him at their feasts with the viands that they ordinarily give to their Captains. If he went on a journey with them, the best Canoe was chosen, and he was given the most comfortable seat: and if he wished to ply the paddle, they snatched it out of his hands, saying that his occupation was to pray to God. "Pray for us and we will paddle for thee," they would say. In the places where it was necessary to carry their little Boat and all their baggage, in order to pass [102] from one river to another, or to avoid steep descents and waterfalls, they would carry his bed, his cloak, and very often his house,all that consisting of a covering, or blanket, which served him for all these uses. Now, as he always loaded himself with his Chapel, some begged him to put it on the sacks or packets which they bore on their shoulders, saying that this little burden for Jesus lightened the weight of their load. Some, in order to oblige him to remain always among them. offered to clear some land for him, and to give him some fields to have tilled.

If any one not well-disposed toward our faith let fall some word against the Patriarch, he was immediately checked. Here is an example, which is very remarkable for Savages. When the Father was in a village quite near the English settlements, an Englishman's servant chanced to be present one day in a cabin where the Father was instructing his good Catechumens. This man—either from malice, or because he did not understand the language of the country very well—reported to his master afterward that the [103] Father had spoken against the English, which was not true. These worthy Neophytes, learning that this master was offended at that,

Neophytes apprenans que ce maistre s'en formalisoit, fe transporterent en sa maison, & luy tinrent ce langage: Nous entendons mieux nostre langue que ton feruiteur: nous estions proches du Patriarche quand il parloit, nous l'escoutions attentiuement, toutes ses paroles font venuës droit dans nos oreilles, fois affeuré qu'il n'a iamais dit aucun mal de vous autres. Il nous enfeigne que celuy qui a tout fait, haït, & condamne, & punit le mensonge, puisque nous voulons receuoir fa loy, & luy rendre obeyffance, prends ces penfées dans ton cœur. Ces gens-là ne mentent point. Au reste, il est bon que vous sçachiez que le Pere est maintenant de nostre nation, que nous l'auons adopté pour nostre compatriote, que nous le considerons, & nous l'aimons comme le plus fage de nos Capitaines, & nous le respectons comme l'Ambassadeur de Iefus, auquel nous nous voulons donner entierement, & par confequent quiconque l'attaque, attaque tous les Abnaquiois. Le Capitaine qui prononca cette petite harangue, le fit d'vn si bon accent, que les [104] principaux Anglois, qui demeurent fur la riuiere de Kenebek, l'ayant ouye, firent venir le Pere, & le prierent par la bouche d'vn Anglois venu depuis peu de Boston, lequel parloit fort bon Francois, d'oublier tout ce qui f'estoit passé, l'asseurans qu'ils n'auoient plus aucune creance aux faux rapports d'vn valet estourdy: Qu'ils voyoient bien que tous les Sauuages l'aimoient, qu'ils auoient de grands respects pour luy, qu'eux-mesmes l'honoroient comme vn Ministre du fainct Euangile: que la confiance que ces peuples auoient en luy, nourriroit la bonne intelligence entre les François, les Anglois, & les Sauuages de ces contrées; & là desfus parurent les repaired to his house and addressed him as follows: "We understand our language better than thy servant does. We were near the Patriarch when he was speaking: we listened attentively, and all his words came directly into our ears. Be assured, he has never said any ill of you people. He teaches us that he who made all things hates and condemns and punishes lying; and as we wish to receive his law. and render him obedience, take these thoughts to thy heart,—those people yonder do not lie. And, furthermore, it is well for you to know that the Father is now one of our nation; that we have adopted him for our fellow-countryman; that we pay him consideration and love, as the wisest of our Captains, and respect him as the Ambassador of Jesus, to whom we wish to give ourselves entirely; and, consequently, whoever attacks him, attacks all the Abnaquiois." The Captain who delivered this little harangue uttered it so emphatically that the [104] principal Englishmen dwelling on the river Kenebek, having heard him, had the Father come to them, and begged him — through the mouth of an Englishman recently arrived from Boston, who spoke very good French to forget all that had passed, assuring him that they gave no further credence to the false reports of a thoughtless servant. They added that they clearly saw that all the Savages loved him, and had great respect for him; that they themselves honored him as a Minister of the holy Gospel; and that the confidence which these people had in him would foster a good understanding between the French, the English, and the Savages of those regions. And thereupon appeared bottles and cups, and the Father's health was generously drunk; and, as they were from different bouteilles & les taffes, & l'on beut largement à la fanté du Pere. Et comme ils eftoient de diuers endroits, chacun prioit le Pere de luy donner vne visite en son habitation, l'affeurant qu'il y seroit toujours receu auec honneur. En effect, autant de sois que le Pere nauigeant sur le fleuue de Kenebec, où ils habitent, les alloit salüer, ils le receuoient auec des témoignages d'vne sensible bienueillance; & depuis ce temps-là, ils ont toujours parlé de luy fort auantageusement aux Sauuages.

[105] Ceux de Naranchouak, qui font de tout temps les plus confiderables de cette contrée, & qui ont de grandes alliances auec plusieurs nations de la nouuelle Angleterre, voulans donner des preuues de l'amour qu'ils portoient à leur Patriarche, & à fa doctrine, l'ont publiquement dans vne grande affemblée, naturalisé, & incorporé à leur Nation. Capitaine Oumamanradok qui harangua, dit hautement, que le Patriarche estoit non seulement leur maistre en la foy, mais qu'il estoit encore la meilleure teste du pays pour parler, & pour determiner de leurs affaires; & qu'encore qu'il y eust long-temps qu'il regardast le Soleil, qu'il n'estoit neantmoins qu'vn enfant: que le Patriarche estoit vn vieillard tout remply de fagesse: cet homme est le meilleur cerueau de tous les Abnaquiois, & le plus affectionné à nostre creance.

La quatriesme preuue des affections qu'ont ces peuples pour Iesus-Christ, est tirée de leurs actions. Capit Iesus facere, & docere: Iesus commença d'operer nostre salut par ses actions, & puis par ses documens. Il ne veut pas que tous ceux qui luy appartiennent, soient des Docteurs, [106] mais il les veut tous places, each one begged the Father to pay him a visit at his settlement, assuring him that he would always be received there with honor. Indeed, whenever the Father, in his journeys on the Kenebec river, where they dwell, went to greet them, they received him with marks of cordial good-will; and, since that time, they have always spoken of him to the Savages in very complimentary terms.

[105] The people of Naranchouak,—who are at all times the most influential of this region, and have strong alliances with several nations of new England,—wishing to give proofs of the love that they bore to their Patriarch and his doctrine, publicly naturalized him in a great assembly and received him into their Nation. Captain Oumamanradok, who made the harangue, declared openly that the Patriarch was not only their master in the faith, but that he was also the best head in the country for speaking, and for giving decisions in their affairs; and that, although he himself had been looking at the Sun for a long time, he was nevertheless only a child, while the Patriarch was an old man, full of wisdom. This man has the best intellect of all the Abnaquiois, and is the most devoted to our faith.

The fourth proof of these peoples' love for Jesus Christ is drawn from their actions. Cwpit Jesus facere et docere. Jesus began to accomplish our salvation by his deeds, and then by his teachings. He does not desire that all those who belong to him should be Doctors, [106] but he wishes them all to be obedient. "Thou dost bid us combat and resist the Demons that attack us" (they said to the Father). "They are many in number, but their strength is obeyffans. Tu nous commandes (difoient-ils au Pere) de combattre, & de refister aux Demons qui nous attaquent: Ils font en grand nombre, mais leurs forces diminuent de iour en iour, & nostre courage augmente.

Le Demon qui excite, & qui fomente les querelles & les inimitiez, est banny d'entre nous: Tu n'entends point de bruit dans nos cabanes: Les femmes ne s'ecrient point les vnes les autres. La mort foudaine de l'vn de nos Capitaines, en fuite d'vn different qu'il auoit eu auec le Capitaine de ceux qui habitent fur l'embouchure de nostre Riviere, nous a fait croire que cet homme tenu pour vn grand Sorcier, l'auoit tué fecretement par fes fortileges: Nostre cœur réueilloit déja les anciennes inimitiez que nous auons euës auec ces peuples, & nous estions sur le point de nous couper la gorge, & de nous faire la guerre: mais tes paroles ont banny ce Demon. Tu es nostre Pere, sois aussi nostre Arbitre: Parle dans nos confeils, tu feras efcouté; nous remettrons toujours nos differens entre tes mains; nous voyons . bien que tu nous aimes, fouffrant, & ieufnant, & priant iour & nuict pour nous autres.

[107] Pour le Demon de l'yurongnerie que tu auois chaffé de nos cabanes en ton premier voyage, les Anglois l'ont ramené si tost que tu nous a quittez, mais il faut maintenant l'exterminer pour vn iamais: car il nous oste la vie, il nous cause des meutres, il nous fait perdre l'esprit, nous rendans semblables à des enragez. Allons presentement trouuer le Commis des Anglois, & luy tenons ce discours: Toy Commis de Pleimot & de Boston, peins nos paroles sur le papier, & les enuoye à ceux de qui tu dépends, diminishing from day to day, and our courage is increasing.

"The Demon that excites and foments quarrels and enmities is banished from among us: thou hearest no noise in our cabins, and the women do not scold one another. The sudden death of one of our Captains, following upon a quarrel that he had had with the Captain of the people living at the mouth of our River, made us believe that that man, who is regarded as a great Sorcerer, had killed him secretly by means of his sorcery. Our hearts were already arousing the old-time hatred that we had had for those peoples, and we were on the point of cutting one another's throats and making war on one another; but thy words banished that Demon. Thou art our Father; be also our Umpire. Speak in our councils; thou shalt be heard. We will always refer our disputes to thee. We see well that thou lovest us, suffering and fasting and praying for us as thou dost, day and night.

[107] "As for the Demon of drunkenness that thou hadst driven out of our cabins, on thy first journey, the English brought it back as soon as thou didst leave us; but it must now be exterminated forever, for it deprives us of our lives, causes murders among us, and makes us lose our wits, rendering us like madmen. Let us go this moment and find the Deputy of the English, and speak to him as follows: 'Thou Deputy of Pleimot and Boston, paint our words on paper, and send them to those on whom thou art dependent; and say to them that all the allied Savages dwelling on the river Kenebek hate fire-water,' or brandy, "as much as they hate the Hiroquois; and that if they have any more of it

& leur dis que tous les Sauuages alliez, qui demeurent fur le sleuue de Kenebek, haïssent autant la boisson de feu, ou l'eau de vie, come ils haissent les Hiroquois; & que f'ils en font encore apporter pour en vendre aux Sauuages, qu'ils croiront que les Anglois les veulent exterminer. Peins ces paroles. & nostre Patriarche nous feruira d'Ambassadeur, il les portera à vos Gouuerneurs, accompagné des principaux d'entre nous: & apres cette defense, si quelqu'vn f'envure en cachette, on le fera punir felon que nostre Pere en aura ordonné.

Le Demon qui nous donne de la crainte de nos Sorciers, & de la creance pour [108] nos Pythonesses, qui deuinent les choses futures, & qui connoissent (à ce qu'elles difent) les chofes abfentes, ce Demon a perdu fon credit. Tes prieres, & celles des petits enfans, & le recours que nous auos à Dieu, nous font voir la vanité, & l'impuissance de ces Iongleurs, & de leurs fortileges. Combien de fois auons-nous veu des personnes aux abois, que nous croyos enforcelées, reuenir en fanté, ayant prié celuy qui est le maistre de tous les Demõs? Il est vray que tous les Sorciers auoüent maintenant leur foiblesse, & le pouuoir de Iefus. Quelques-vns mesme inuitent le Pere en leurs cabanes, & le traitent fort honorablement. Le plus remarquable, & le plus redouté d'entr'eux, nommé Aranbinau, qui autrefois auoit leué la hache fur le Pere pour l'affommer, l'ayant trouué catechifant vn sien neveu, s'est rendu si docile aux paroles du Pere, qu'il fait maintenant profession de l'auoir pour amy intime.

Quant au Demon (disoient-ils) qui nous a fait aimer la polygamie, il est fort décrié parmy nous, puisque brought hither to sell to the Savages, the latter will believe that the English wish to exterminate them. Paint these words; and our Patriarch will act as our Ambassador, and will carry them to your Governors, accompanied by our chief men; and, after that prohibition, if any one gets drunk in secret, he shall be punished according as our Father shall decree.'

"The Demon who gives us fear of our Sorcerers and faith in [108] our Pythonesses," who divine future events and have knowledge (according to their own account) of things absent, "this Demon has lost his credit. Thy prayers, and those of the little children, and the recourse that we have to God, make us see the vanity and powerlessness of those Jugglers and of their sorcery. How many times have we seen persons in the last extremity, whom we thought bewitched, restored to health upon praying to him who is the master of all the Demons!" It is true that all the Sorcerers now acknowledge their weakness, and the power of Jesus, - some even inviting the Father into their cabins, and treating him with high honor. The most noted and the most feared of their number, named Aranbinau,—who had, in time past, raised his hatchet against the Father to kill him, upon finding him catechizing a nephew of his, - has shown himself so docile to the Father's words that he now makes profession of having him as an intimate friend.

"As to the Demon that makes us love polygamy" (they said), "he is in great discredit among us, inasmuch as we see clearly the inconveniences and disorders which arise from a plurality of wives. [109] He who claims to have been elected Captain in this village will never be Captain if he does not give up nous voyons bien les inconueniens & les defordres qui prouiennent de la pluralité des femmes. [109] Celuy qui dans cette bourgade pretend d'eftre éleu Capitaine, ne le fera iamais, f'il ne quite l'vne de fes deux femmes; & quand quélqu'vn ne voudroit pas auoir de l'efprit, cela n'empefcheroit pas que les autres ne fe fissent Chrestiens. Ils adjoûterent en fuite de ces discours apostrosans le Pere.

Prends donc courage, demeure auec nous, puisque nous fommes prests de t'obeyr. Tu es nostre compatriote; nous fommes tous de mesme nation. Tu es nostre maistre; nous sommes tes disciples. Tu es nostre pere; nous sommes tes enfans, ne nous abandonne pas à la furie des Demons. Ne croy pas qu'ils foient allez bien loing: ils nous viendront efgorger fi toft que tu feras party: deliure-toy, & nous aussi, de la peine de tant de voyages, & si longs, & fi fascheux, qu'on ne sçauroit rien porter auec soy, ce qui nous met fouuent en danger de mourir de faim. Nous fommes tefmoins que les principaux Anglois de ces contrées te respectent. Les Patriarches de l'Acadie nous ont dit qu'ils t'auoient efcrit, que tu pouuois reuenir en nostre pays quand tu voudrois. Que deuiendront ceux qui mourront fans bapteime, [110] ou fans confession en ton absence? Ie vous aduoüe, dit le Pere, qu'ils m'attendrirent, & fi ie n'eusse creu que Dieu me r'appelloit à Kebec par la voix de mon Superieur qui me mandoit, les trauaux les plus horribles ne m'auroient iamais arraché du pays de ceux que j'aime plus que moy-mesme.

La derniere marque de la bonté de ces peuples pour la foy, est leur esprit desinteressé. Les Sauuages Hurons & les Algonquins peuuent attendre quelque one of his two wives; and even if some one person should fail to have sense, that would not prevent the rest from becoming Christians." Then they added the following address to the Father:

"Take heart, then, and stay with us, since we are ready to obey thee. Thou art our fellow-countryman; we are of the same nation. Thou art our master; we are thy disciples. Thou art our father. and we thy children; do not abandon us to the fury of the Demons. Think not that they have gone far away; they will come and cut our throats as soon as thou leavest us. Deliver thyself, and us too, from the trouble of so many journeys, which are so long and so difficult that one can carry nothing with him — which often exposes us to the danger of dying from hunger. We are witnesses that the principal Englishmen of these regions respect thee. The Patriarchs of Acadia have told us that they had written thee that thou couldst return to our country whenever thou shouldst choose.2 What will become of those that shall die without baptism [110] or without confession, in thine absence?" "I confess to you," says the Father, "they touched me; and if I had not believed that God was recalling me to Kebec by the voice of my Superior who was summoning me, the most frightful labors would never have torn me from the country of those whom I love more than myself."

The last proof of these peoples' favorable attitude toward the faith is their disinterested spirit. The Huron and Algonquin Savages can expect some help from our Fathers and, through their mediation, from the French; but the Abnaquiois can claim from us only their instruction, pure and simple. They see in fecours de nos Peres, & par leur entremife, des Frãçois: mais les Abnaquiois ne peuuent pretendre de nous que leur instruction toute pure; ils voyent parmy eux vn Pere & fon compagnon dans la necessité de toutes choses, n'ayant pour maison que leurs cabanes d'efcorce, pour leur lict que la terre, pour leur nourriture que leurs falmigondis. Ils n'attendent aucune grace des Anglois, par la faueur des Iefuites: Ils n'ont point la penfée de venir en marchandife à Kebec, leur ayant esté declaré dés l'an 1646. qu'vn ou deux Canots fuffisoient, pour venir tous les ans renouueller les alliances qu'ils ont auec les nouueaux Chrestiens de fainct Ioseph. Si bien [III] qu'ils n'ont point d'esperance, ny pour le particulier, ny pour le public, de tirer aucune vtilité temporelle de la venuë de nos Peres en leur pays. C'est Dieu seul qui leur a donné la grace, & la force de perseuerer si long-temps dans des actions de pieté, fans maistre, fans docteur, & fans guide. C'est luy feul qui leur fait receuoir auec ardeur les enfeignemens qu'on leur donne: C'est luy seul qui leur imprime au fond du cœur l'estime & l'affection qu'ils ont pour leur Pere; c'est luy seul qui les fait resister si fortement, & si constamment aux Demons dont ie viens de parler, qui en verité paroiffoient infurmontables, en vn pays où il n'y a point de loix portées contre les Sorciers, ny contre l'yurongnerie, ny contre la polygamie, ny contre les inimitiez & les haines mortelles: Dieu est leur seule & vnique loy. Or iugez maintenant, dit le Pere, si on peut abandonner ces peuples, à moins que d'abandonner Iefus-Christ, qui prie fortement en leurs personnes, qu'on le tire du danger d'vn precipice eternel. Peut-on their midst a Father and his companion in need of all things, having for house only their bark cabins. for bed only the earth, for food only their own salmagundis. They look for no favor from the English through the Jesuits' mediation. They have no thought of coming to Kebec to trade, for they were notified in the year 1646 that one or two Canoes were enough for coming every year to renew the alliances which they have with the new Christians of saint Joseph. Consequently [111] they have no hope, either as individuals or as a people, of reaping any temporal advantage from the coming of our Fathers to their country. It is God alone who has given them the grace and strength to persevere so long in acts of piety, without master, without teacher, and without guide. It is he alone who makes them receive with ardor the teachings that are given them. It is he alone who plants deep in their hearts the esteem and affection which they have for their Father. It is he alone who makes them offer such strong and unceasing resistance to the Demons of whom I have just spoken, and who in truth appeared unconquerable in a country where there are no laws directed against Sorcerers, or against drunkenness, or against polygamy, or against enmities and mortal hatreds. God is their sole and only law. "Now judge," says the Father, "whether one can forsake these peoples without forsaking Jesus Christ, who earnestly prays, in their persons, to be rescued from the danger of eternal destruction. Can one leave as prey to the Demons so many persons, and so many nations, each composed of ten or twelve thousand souls, without [112] having compassion on them? To leave them is to leave Jesus Christ; to laisser en proye aux Demons tant de personnes, & tant de nations, composées chacune de dix ou douze mille ames, sans en [112] auoir compassion? Les quitter, c'est quitter Iesus-Christ: les abandonner, c'est abandonner celuy qui nous dit aussi bien qu'à son Pere: Vt quid dereliquisti me? Pourquoy m'abandonnez-vous? Ces conquestes sont dignes des Princes & des Roys Chrestiens: mais bien peu se rendent dignes de recueillir ces palmes. On se bat bien souuent pour des roseaux, & on mesprise les lauriers & les palmes.

forsake them is to forsake him who says to us, as well as to his Father: Ut quid dereliquisti me? 'Why hast thou forsaken me?'' These conquests are worthy of Christian Princes and Kings, but very few render themselves worthy of receiving such palms. People fight very often for reeds, and despise laurels and palms.

CHAPITRE IX.

DE LA GUERRE DES HIROQUOIS.

NE lettre enuoyée des Trois Riuieres, nous fournira vn Iournal, de ce qu'ont fait cette année les Hiroquois en ce nouueau monde. Les voyes de Dieu ne font pas moins iustes, pour estre cachées. Il abbaiffe fouuent ceux qu'il veut exalter. Il enuoie vn homme chercher des Anesses pour luy faire trouuer vn Royaume. Il exerce vn berger à tourner vne fronde, pour luy donner la victoire d'vn Geant, les Hiroquois ont quasi iusques à present, fait plus de bien en la Nouuelle [113] France, qu'ils n'y ont fait de mal. Ils ont deliurés quantité d'ames des feux de l'Enfer, bruslans leurs corps d'vn feu elementaire. Car il est vray qu'ils ont conuertis quantité de personnes, & qu'ils sont les instrumes, dont Dieu f'est seruy pour tirer le doux de l'amer, la vie de la mort, la gloire de l'ignominie, vne eternité de plaisir d'vn moment de fouffrances, rudes à la verité; mais recompensées au centuple. Les Hurons estans dans l'abbondance, & les Algonquins dans la prosperité, fe rioient de l'Euangile. Ils vouloient maffacrer ceux qui la publioient en leur païs; ils les accufoiet d'estre des sorciers, qui leur faisoient perdre secretement la vie, qui gastoient leurs bleds, qui causoient les feichereffes, & les intemperies de l'air, ils les tenoient pour des traitres qui auoient communication auec leurs ennemis pour vendre leur païs. Chofe

OF THE WAR WITH THE HIROQUOIS.

LETTER sent from Three Rivers will furnish us a Journal of what the Hiroquois have done during the past year in this new world. God's ways are none the less just for being hidden. He often humbles those whom he intends to exalt. He sends a man in search of She-asses, in order to make him find a Kingdom. He trains a shepherd in the use of a sling, to give him the victory over a Giant. Up to the present time, the Hiroquois have done almost more good than harm in New [113] France. They have delivered many souls from the fires of Hell, while burning their bodies in an elemental fire. For it is true that they have converted many persons, and that they are the instruments which God has used for deriving the sweet from the bitter, life from death, glory from ignominy, an eternity of pleasure from a moment of suffering,—severe indeed, but recompensed a hundredfold. When the Hurons were in affluence, and the Algonquins in prosperity, they mocked at the Gospel, and tried to murder those who proclaimed it in their country,—accusing them of being sorcerers, who made them lose their lives by secret means, spoiled their grain, and caused drouths and inclement weather; and regarding them as traitors, who held communication with their enemies for the purpose of selling their country. A strange thing, but truly worthy of note, and showing etrange, mais à la verité tres-remarquable, & qui fait voir que Dieu sçait bien par où il faut prendre les hommes, pour les attirer à fa connoissance, & à fon amour! Si tost que les Hiroquois (vaincus pour l'ordinaire par nos Sauuages, deuant qu'on leur portaft les bonnes nouuelles de l'Euangile) [114] les eurent iettés dans le precipice où ils font encor, ces pauures gens fe font venus rendre entre nos bras. demandans l'abry & le couuert, à ceux qu'ils tenoient pour des traitres: recherchans l'amitié de ceux qu'ils auoient voulu maffacrer, comme des Sorciers: preffans qu'on leur accordast, la vie de l'ame, puis qu'ils perdoient celle du corps: fouhaittans l'entrée du Ciel, puis qu'on les chaffoit de leurs terres. Et il me femble que ie peux dire, auec vne tres-grande apparence de la verité, que les Algonquins, & les Hurons, & quantité dautres Nations, que nous auons instruites, estoient perduës, si elles n'eussent esté perduës; & que la plus part de ceux qui font venus chercher le baptesme dans l'affliction, ne l'auroient iamais trouué dans la prosperité, & que ceux qui ont rencôtré le Paradis das l'Enfer de leurs tourmens, auroient trouué le veritable Enfer, dans leur Paradis terrestre. Difons donc que les Hiroquois ont rendu des hommes riches pensans les rendre pauures: qu'ils ont fait des faints, penfans faire des miferables: en vn mot, qu'on leur doit (fans toutefois qu'on leur en ait aucune obligation) la conversion, & la fanctification [115] de plusieurs ames. Mais il faut que ie confesse, que s'ils ont fait du bien par cy-deuant, qu'ils paroiffent maintenant à nos yeux comme des monstres, qui font prests de nous engloutir. Qu'on perde les biens, qu'on perde la vie, qu'on foit tué, qu'on foit massacré.

that God knows well how men must be taken, in order to draw them to a knowledge of himself and a love for him! As soon as the Hiroquois (who, before the good news of the Gospel was carried to them. were, as a general rule, subdued by our Savages) [114] had cast them into the abyss where they still are, these poor people came to throw themselves into our arms,—asking shelter and protection from those whom they had regarded as traitors; seeking the friendship of those whom they had tried to murder as Sorcerers; urging that the life of the soul might be granted them, since they were losing that of the body: and desiring entrance into Heaven, since they were being driven out from their own lands. And, it seems to me, I can say, with a very great appear ance of truth, that the Algonquins, and the Hurons, and numerous other Nations whom we have instructed, would have been lost if they had not been ruined; that the greater part of those who came in quest of baptism in affliction, would never have found it in prosperity; and that those who have found Paradise in the Hell of their torments, would have found the true Hell in their earthly Paradise. Let us say, then, that the Hiroquois have rendered men rich, thinking to make them poor; that they have made saints, thinking to make victims of wretchedness; in a word, that we owe to them (without, however, being under any obligation to them) the conversion and sanctification [115] of many souls. But I must confess that if they have done good, as indicated above, they appear now in our eyes like monsters ready to devour us. Let people lose their property, let them lose their lives, let them be killed. massacred, burnt, roasted, broiled, and eaten alive,— qu'on foit bruslé, rosty, grillé & mangé tout vif, patience: il n'importe, pourueu que l'Euangile ait fon cours, & que Dieu foit connu, & les ames fauuées: on gagne plus en ce trafic qu'on n'y perd. Mais que la porte du falut foit fermée aux nations plus peuplées qui habitent les riues de la mer douce des Hurons? Que les nouuelles Eglifes de Iefus-Chrift, fondées & establies par la pieté de la France, soient ruinées, & tant de nouueaux Chrestiens liurez à la gueule de ces Lions? Que les ouuriers Euangeliques, & les Pasteurs de ce bercail foient bannis & chaffez d'aupres de leur troupeaux: C'est ce qu'on appelle vn grand malheur, auquel neantmoins les hautes puissaces penuet aifémet remedier, nonobstant les desordres de la France, caufez par des Hiroquois auffi barbares que ceux de l'Amerique: mais c'est trop s'écarter de mon but, entrons en discours.

[116] Le fixiefme de Mars de l'année derniere 1652. les Hiroquois, qui ont rodé tout le Printemps & tout l'Esté à l'entour des habitations Françoises, défirent vne Escoüade de Hurons qui les alloient chercher bien loing, & qui les trouuerent bien pres sans y penser. Ils estoient en embuscade à la riuiere de la Magdelaine, six lieuës ou enuiron au dessus des trois Riuieres: Cette Escoüade commandée par vn nommé Toratati, tomba entre leurs mains, & sut entierement désaite.

Le 10. de May, le Pere Iacques Buteux (comme il a esté remarqué au premier Chap. de cette Relation) fut mis à mort auec vn François qui l'accompagnoit, nommé Fontarabie.

FACSIMILE OF HANDWRITING OF PAUL RAGUENEAU, S.J.

Selected from the MS, of his deposition relative to the martyrdom of Jogues, written in 1652, and preserved in the archives of st. Mary's College, Montreal.

patience! that matters not, so long as the Gospel takes its course, and God is known, and souls saved. The gain is greater than the loss in this traffic. But that the door of salvation should be closed to the more populous nations dwelling on the shores of the fresh-water sea of the Hurons; that the new Churches of Jesus Christ, founded and established by the piety of France, should be ruined, and so many new Christians delivered to the jaws of these Lions; that the Gospel laborers and the Pastors of this fold should be banished and driven away from their flocks,—that is what may be called a great misfortune, which, however, the high mightinesses 3 can easily remedy, notwithstanding the disorders of France, caused by Hiroquois as barbarous as those of America. But that is straying too far from my goal; let us begin our narrative.

[116] On the sixth of March of last year, 1652, the Hiroquois, who prowled around the French settlements all the Spring and all the Summer, defeated a Squad of Hurons who were going in search of them at a great distance, and found them very near, without expecting it. They were in ambush at the river of la Magdelaine, six leagues, or thereabout, above three Rivers. That Squad, commanded by a man named Toratati, fell into their hands and was entirely defeated.

On the 10th of May, Father Jacques Buteux (as related in the first Chapter of this Relation) was put to death, with a Frenchman accompanying him, named Fontarabie.

On the 13th of the same month, a band of Algonquins, on their way to the country of the Attikamegues, were surprised and defeated when they were le lieu où le Pere Buteux auoit esté massacré, furent furpris, & défaits. Vn ieune homme ayant tué vn des Hiroquois qui les surprirent, fut au mesme lieu brussé, & tourmenté d'vne façon horrible.

Le 16. du mesme mois, les Algonquins des trois Riuieres ayans appris la désaite de leurs gens, s'en allerent attendre les [117] Hiroquois au passage: mais ils tomberent dans les pieges qu'ils vouloient tendre à leurs ennemis, vne autre bande d'Hiroquois cachée dans le Lac de S. Pierre, où ils alloient dresser leur embusche, les tailla en piece pour la pluspart.

Le mesme iour arriua à Montreal vn soldat Huron, de la compagnie de Toratati, qui s'estoit sauué des mains des Hiroquois; il rapporta que ce Capitaine auoit esté brussé, & qu'on auoit donné la vie à ceux qui restoient de sa bande. C'est ainsi que les Hiroquois grossissent leurs troupes.

Le 15. du mesme mois, vne semme Huronne trauaillant à Montreal à cultiuer du bled d'Inde, sut enleuée par les Hiroquois, auec deux de ses enfans. Ces miserables se cachent dans les bois, derrière des souches, dans des trous qu'ils sont en terre, où ils passent les deux & trois iours quelquesois sans manger, pour attendre, & pour surprendre leur proye.

Le 21. vn foldat François & vn Sauuage trauerfans le grand Fleuue dans vn Canot, deuant le Fort des trois Riuieres, furent attaquez, & tous deux bleffez; le Sauuage mourut deux iours apres de fes bleffures.

[118] Le 26. du mefme mois de May, vn François qui gardoit du bestial à Montreal, fut mis à mort, & vne femme Françoise fut blessée de cinq ou six coups passing the place where Father Buteux had been murdered. A young man who had killed one of the Hiroquois who surprised them, was burnt and tormented in a horrible manner, on the same spot.

On the 16th of the same month, the Algonquins of three Rivers, having learned of the defeat of their people, went out to lie in wait for the [117] Hiroquois as they passed; but they fell into the trap which they intended to set for their enemies, for another band of Hiroquois—concealed near Lake St. Pierre, where they were going to lay their ambuscade—cut them into pieces, for the most part.

On the same day, there arrived from Montreal a Huron soldier of Toratati's company, who had escaped from the hands of the Hiroquois. He reported that this Captain had been burnt, and that those of his band that were left had been given their lives. It is thus that the Hiroquois swell their troops.

On the 15th of the same month, a Huron woman, who was working at Montreal cultivating Indian corn, was carried off by the Hiroquois, with two of her children. These wretches hide in the woods, behind tree-trunks or in holes which they make in the ground, where they pass two and three days sometimes, without eating, in order to lie in wait and surprise their prey.

On the 21st, a French soldier and a Savage—crossing the great River, in a Canoe, before the Fort of three Rivers—were attacked, and both wounded, the Savage dying of his wounds two days afterward.

[118] On the 26th of the same month of May, a Frenchman who was tending cattle at Montreal was put to death; and a French woman received five or six wounds,—not dangerous, however, since she bien fauorables, puis qu'elle n'en mourut pas, fon courage la tira du danger. Ces Lutins font par tout, & en tout temps.

Le 8. de Iuin, deux Hurons tendans vne ligne pour prendre du poisson, proche des Isles du sleuue appellé les trois Riuieres, furent massacrez. Comme ce lieu est tout proche des habitations Françoises, on accourut au bruit, on poursuiuit les Hiroquois, qui se fauuerent, abandonnans leur bagage, & les cheuelures de deux hommes qu'ils auoient tuez.

Le 19. du mesme mois, trois Canots arriuerent par le fleuue des trois Riuieres, portãs nouuelle que les Hiroquois estoiet entrez bien auant dans le pays des Attikamegues, & qu'ils les auoient défaits pour la troissesme fois.

Le 2. de Iuillet, à cinq heures du matin, quelques Hurons f'en allans à la pesche vis-à-vis du Fort des François, à l'autre bord du grand fleuue, qui est affez large en cet endroit, les Hiroquois qui estoiet en embuscade, leur courent sus: mais ils [119] se ietterent dans la chaloupe des François, qui les estoient venus efcorter. Les Hiroquois montent das leurs Canots, ils font feu de tous costez, poursuiuans cette chaloupe; qui mettant la voile au vent, se tira de ce danger. Estant abordée proche du Fort des François, quelques foldats f'embarquent, les Sauuages les fuiuent dans leurs Canots, ils donnent la chaffe aux Hiroquois, les pressent de fort pres: mais comme ils font adroits, ils firent alte, fe mettant à l'abry de nos armes à feu; & voyans que la peau de Lyon ne les pouuoit pas couurir, ils fe voulurent feruir de la peau du Renard. Ils enuoyent vn Canot vers nos gens, pouffé par deux homes, qui demandent à parledid not die of them; her courage brought her out of the danger. These wanton Rascals abound everywhere, and at all times.

On the 8th of June, two Hurons who were stretching a line to catch some fish, near the Islands of the river called three Rivers, were butchered. As this place is very near the French settlements, some men hastened hither, on hearing the noise, and pursued the Hiroquois, who made their escape, leaving behind their equipage, and the scalps of the two men whom they had killed.

On the 19th of the same month, three Canoes arrived by the river of three Rivers, bringing word that the Hiroquois had made their way very far into the country of the Attikamegues, and had defeated them for the third time.

On the 2nd of July, at five o'clock in the morning, when some Hurons were going out to fish opposite the Fort of the French, on the other side of the great river, which is of considerable width at this place, the Hiroquois, who were in ambush, rushed upon them; but they [110] jumped into the shallop of the French who had come to escort them. The Hiroquois took to their Canoes and opened fire in all directions, pursuing the shallop, which spread its sail to the wind and extricated itself from this danger. Having reached land, near the French Fort, some soldiers entered it; the Savages followed them in their Canoes, and they gave chase to the Hiroquois, pressing them very hard. But as they are adroit, they halted, protecting themselves from our firearms; and seeing that the Lion's skin could not cover them, they tried to use that of the Fox. They sent a Canoe toward our people, propelled by two menter. On leur enuoye vn Canot de nostre costé, conduit par deux Hurons, & vn Algonquin: ces deux Canots fe parlerent enuiron demie heure, éloignez l'vn de l'autre de la portée d'vn pistolet. Les Hiroquois dirent qu'ils estoient conduits par vn nommé Aontarifati, leur Capitaine, & qu'il vouloit parler aux François & aux Sauuages leurs alliez. On leur fit response qu'ils descendissent vis-à-vis le Fort des François, & que là on leur parleroit: Ils f'y [120] transporterent en vn moment, & de là ils enuoyerent deux Canots au quartier des François: l'vn portoit vn ieune Huron qu'ils auoient pris, & qu'ils mirent à terre en vn lieu vn peu au desfus du Fort, pour aller voir ses parens qui estoient parmy les François, c'estoit pour les folliciter à quiter leur party. L'autre Canot n'approcha pas de la terre, il f'escria de desfus l'eau, & demanda que les trois Capitaines, des François, des Algonquins, & des Hurons passassent la riuiere, pour aller traiter auec leurs gens, & qu'ils enuoveroient de leur costé les trois hommes les plus confiderables d'entr'eux. On fe mocqua de cette proposition, & cependant quelques Canots f'approchans pour desbaucher nos Hurons, & les tirer à leur party, on en prit vn qui portoit trois Hiroquois, dont les deux estoient Capitaines fort signalez pour leurs meutres, en toutes les habitations Françoifes. Ils furent plus heureux que les autres: car nos Peres les instruisirent, & les baptiserent deuant leur mort.

Le 25. du mefme mois de Iuillet, vne Efcoüade compofée de plus de cent Sauuages, fe doutans bien que les ennemis [121] eftoient refpandus en diuers endroits, partirent pour en découurir quelques-vns, men, who demanded a parley; a Canoe was sent to them from our side, in charge of two Hurons and an Algonquin; and these two Canoes parleyed for about half an hour, keeping the distance of a pistol shot apart. The Hiroquois said they were led by a man named Aontarisati, their Captain, and that he wished to speak to the French, and to the Savages who were their allies. They were told, in answer, to go down opposite the French Fort, and there they should receive an interview. They [120] repaired thither immediately, and from that place sent two Canoes to the quarters of the French. One carried a young Huron whom they had captured, whom they put ashore at a spot a little above the Fort, to go and see his kinsfolk who were among the French; this was in order that he might incite them to desert the French side. The other Canoe did not approach the land, but called out from its position on the water. and asked that the three Captains - of the French, of the Algonquins, and of the Hurons - should cross the river in order to go and treat with their people; and they said that they would, on their side, send the three most prominent men of their number. This proposal was ridiculed; and, meanwhile, some Canoes approaching for the purpose of corrupting our Hurons and bringing them over to their side, one of them was captured, which carried three Hiroquois; two of these were Captains, who were notorious on account of the murders they had committed in all the French settlements. They were more fortunate than the rest, for our Fathers instructed and baptized them before their death.

On the 25th of the same month of July, a Squad composed of more than a hundred Savages, strongly ils firent deux rencontres, se battirent fort & ferme, fans que nous fçachions auec quel fuccez du costé des Hiroquois; pour nos gens, ils retournerent le feptiesme d'Aoust, avant perdu deux hommes, & rapportans force bleffez.

Le 18. d'Aoust, quatre habitans des trois Riuieres descendans vn peu au dessous de la demeure des François, furent pourfuiuis des Hiroquois, qui en tuerent deux, à ce qu'on dit, & emmenerent les deux autres pour les facrifier à leur rage.

Le 19. l'eschec fut bien plus grad. Monsieur du Plessis Kerbodot, Gouverneur des trois Rivieres. prenant auec foy quarante ou cinquante François, & dix ou douze Sauuages, les fit embarquer dans des chaloupes, pour donner la chaffe à l'ennemy, & recouurer, si on pouuoit, les prisonniers, & le bestial des François, que l'on croyoit enleué. Ayant vogué enuiron deux lieües au dessus du Fort, il apperceut les ennemis dans des broffailles, fur le bord des bois: il met pied à terre dans vn lieu plein de vafes, & fort defaduantageux. Quelqu'vn luy reprefente l'auantage [122] de l'ennemy, qui auoit la forest pour retraite; il passe outre, marche teste baissée: mais fon courage luy fit perdre la vie, & à quinze François. Pendant ce cobat, quelques Hiroquois destachez de leur gros, cafferet la teste à vn pauure Huron & à fa femme qui trauailloient en leur champ, non loing des habitations Françoifes. Dieu qui balance les victoires, & qui leur donne des limites, monstra dans ce desastre qu'il nous vouloit conferuer: car si les Hiroquois se fussent seruis de leur auantage, comme la terreur s'estoit iettée parmy nos suspecting that the enemy [121] were scattered in various places, started out in order to find some of them. They had two encounters, and fought stoutly and resolutely, without our learning the degree of success on the side of the Hiroquois; as for our own people, they returned on the seventh of August, having lost two men, and bringing back many wounded.

On the 18th of August, four inhabitants of three Rivers, on going down a short distance below the settlement of the French, were pursued by the Hiroquois, who killed two of them, as it was reported, and carried off the other two, to sacrifice them to their wrath.

On the 10th, the repulse was much greater. Monsieur du Plessis Kerbodot, Governor of three Rivers. taking with him forty or fifty Frenchmen and ten or twelve Savages, had them embark in shallops to give chase to the enemy, to recover, if possible, the prisoners and the cattle belonging to the French, which, it was believed, had been carried away. After sailing to a distance of about two leagues above the Fort, he perceived the enemy in the undergrowth at the edge of the woods, and landed in a place that was full of mud and very disadvantageous. Some one pointed out to him the advantage [122] of the enemy, who had the forest for shelter. He went forward, advancing headlong; but his ardor made him lose his life, as well as those of fifteen Frenchmen. During this engagement some Hiroquois, detached from their main body, slew a poor Huron and his wife who were at work in their own field, not far from the French settlements. God, who balances victories and confines them within limits, showed in this disaster that it was his will to preserve us; for, gens qui auoient perdu leur Chef, ils auroient bien efbranlez les habitans des trois Riuieres: mais ils fe retirerent comme des gens qui ne fçauoient pas iouyr de leur victoire, & laifferent les Frãçois acheuer leurs moiffons, & faire leur recolte en paix, mais non pas fans douleur.

Le 23. du mesme mois d'Aoust, on alla visiter le lieu du combat, l'on trouua ces paroles escrites sur vn bouclier d'Hiroquois: Normanville, Francheuille, Poisson, la Palme, Turgot, Chaillon, S. Germain, Onnejochronnons & Agneehronons. Ie n'ay encore perdu qu'un Normanville ieune [123] homme, adroit & vaillant, qui entendoit la langue Algonquine & l'Hiroquoife, auoit escrit ces paroles auec vn charbon, voulant donner à entendre que les fept perfonnes dont on voyoit les noms, estoient prifes des Hiroquois, appellez, Onnejochronnons, & Agneehronnons, & que l'on ne luy auoit fait encor autre mal que de luy arracher vn ongle. Ie crains fort que ces pauures victimes ne foient immolées à la rage, & à la fureur de ces Barbares. Vne Dame honorée pour fa vertu, a escrit à quelque personne en France, qui auoit connoissance du sieur de Normanville, qu'il fembloit auoir eu quelque presentiment de sa prife. Il est probable (disoit-il à cette Dame vn peu deuant que de tomber entre les mains de ces Barbares) qu'estant tous les iours dans les occasions, ie pourray estre pris des Hiroquois: mais j'espere que Dieu me fera la grace de fouffrir constammet leurs feux, & que j'auray le bonheur de baptiser quelques enfans moribons, & mesme quelques malades adultes, que j'instruiray dans leur pays deuant ma mort.

if the Hiroquois had followed up their advantage,—as panic had been spread among our people, who had lost their Chief,—they would have wrought havoc among the inhabitants of three Rivers. But they retired, not knowing how to make use of their victory, and suffered the French to finish their harvests and garner their crops in peace, but not without sorrow.

On the 23rd of the same month of August, a visit was made to the scene of the engagement, where these words were found written on a Hiroquois buckler: Normanville, Francheville, Poisson, la Palme, Turgot, Chaillon, St. Germain, Onneiochronnons and Agneehronons. I have as yet lost only a Finger-nail. Normanville, a young [123] man of skill and bravery who understood the Algonquin and Hiroquois languages, had written these words with a piece of charcoal, wishing to convey the information that the seven persons whose names were seen, had been taken by the Hiroquois known as the Onneiochronnons and Agneehronnons, and that he had himself up to that time received no further injury than the tearing out of a finger-nail. I greatly fear that these poor victims have been sacrificed to the rage and fury of those Barbarians. A Lady, honored for her virtue, has written to some one in France, who was acquainted with the sieur de Normanville, that he seemed to have had some presentiment of his capture. "It is probable" (he said to this Lady a short time before falling into the hands of those Barbarians) "that, as I am every day exposed to danger, I may be captured by the Hiroquois. But I hope God will give me the grace to endure their fires with constancy, and that I shall have the good fortune to baptize some dying children, or even some adult sick Le 30. du mesme mois d'Aoust, les Hiroquois prirent encore vn ieune Huron, [124] & l'emmenerent tout vif en leur pays.

Vne lettre dattée du premier de Nouembre, parle en ces termes. Quelques Hurons nous viennent d'apprendre, que deux Frãçois ont esté recêment tuez aux Trois Riuieres, & que deux autres ont eu les bras cassez. Ils adjoustent qu'en passant la nuict vers la Roche brussée, ils ont ouy chanter les Hiroquois, come ils ont coustume de chanter quand ils tourmentent leurs prisonniers.

Vn Algonquin vient d'arriuer à Sillery, qui dit que ces mesmes Barbares se faissirent hier, vis-à-vis de faincte Croix, d'vn Sauuage & de deux semmes de sa nation. Quantité de nos Neophytes sont allez à la chasse en ce quartier-là, ie crains fort qu'ils ne donnét dans les paneaux de ces chasseurs d'hommes. Noël Tekoüerimat s'en va promptement armer la ieunesse, qui est icy en assez bon nombre, pour obuier à ce malheur: mais il souhaiteroit bien que Monsieur nostre Gouuerneur luy donnast vne escorte Françoise. Voila ce que porte cette lettre.

Pour comble de toutes nos calamitez, on nous affeure que les Hiroquois veulet raffembler toutes leurs forces, pour nous [125] venir perdre l'Hyuer prochain, c'est le rapport qu'en ont fait les fugitifs, & la raison qu'ils en donnent, est fort probable. Ils disent donc que les Hiroquois d'enbas, nommés, Agneehronnons, demanderent l'an passé, du secours aux Hiroquois des pays plus hautes, nommés les Sontouaheronnons, pour venir combatre les François: mais que les Sontouaheronnons, repondirent qu'ils auoient des ennemis voysins sur les bras, & que s'ils persons whom I shall instruct in their own country before my death."

On the 30th of the same month of August, the Hiroquois captured another young Huron, [124] and carried him away alive to their own country.

A letter, dated the first of November, conveys the following information: "Some Hurons have just apprised us that two Frenchmen have recently been killed at Three Rivers, and that two others have had their arms broken. They add that, when spending the night near the burnt Rock, they heard the Hiroquois singing as they are wont to sing when they torture their prisoners.

"An Algonquin who has just come to Sillery says that yesterday, opposite sainte Croix, those same Barbarians captured a Savage and two women of his nation. A good many of our Neophytes have gone out hunting in that direction, and I greatly fear lest they may fall into the snares of those hunters of men. Noël Tekouerimat is setting out immediately to arm the young men, who are here in considerable numbers, in order to avert such a disaster; but he would very much like to have Monsieur our Governor give him a French escort." Those are the contents of that letter.

To crown all our calamities, we are informed that the Hiroquois intend to rally together all their forces, in order to [125] come and destroy us next Winter. Such is the report made by the fugitives, and the reason which they give is very probable. They say, then, that the Hiroquois of the lower country, who are called Agneehronnons, asked aid, last year, from the Hiroquois of the upper districts, who are called Sontouaheronnons, in order that they might les vouloient venir aider à les destruire, qu'ils se ioindroient à eux par apres, pour perdre les François. Les Hiroquois Agneehronnons, ont accepté la condition, ils ont enuoié leurs trouppes auec celles des Sontouaheronnons, qui, auec ce secours, ont detruit la nation Neutre, qui leur estoit voisine. Si bien qu'ils sont obligés de se ioindre auec les Hiroquois nommés Agneehronnons, pour venir combattre les François, voila ce que portent les memoires qui ont servey de materiaux, pour bastir ce Chapitre.

Le Demon fçait bien prendre fon temps. Voyant que l'ancienne France est dechirée par ses propres enfans, il veut destruire la nouuelle, pour retablir fon Domaine [126] & fon Royaume, qu'il va perdant tous les iours, par la conuersion de ces pauures Americains feptentrionaux, dont desia quelques Milliers font entrez au Ciel, par la porte de la foy, du Baptefme, & d'vne faincte vie. Ceux qui restent & qui forment vne Eglise fort innocente, s'ecrient, fecourés nous vous autres, qui dites, que vous estes nos freres: ne laissés pas estouffer par les Hiroquois le germe de vostre creance, & la graine de la foy, & la femence de l'Euangile, que nous auons receuë par vostre entremise. Si vous aymez Iesus-Christ deffendez ceux qui l'ayment, & qui font baptifez en fon nom.

Il y a quelque temps qu'on demandoit des foldats; & leur folde: ou leur appointemens, on demandoit leurs viures, & leurs armes, & leur passage, à present que le pays donne des bleds: pour nourrir ses habitans, & qu'il se fait tous les iours, on ne demande plus pour le foutient de ces grandes contrées, que le payement du passage de deux ou trois cens hommes de trauail, come to fight against the French. But the Sontona-heronnons made answer that they had upon their hands enemies near home; and, if they would come and help destroy these, they themselves would join them later on for the purpose of destroying the French. The Agneehronnon Hiroquois accepted the condition and sent their troops to join those of the Sontonaheronnons,—who, with this assistance, have destroyed the Neutral nation, which was on their borders. Consequently, they are obliged to join forces with the Hiroquois called Agneehronnons, for the purpose of coming to make war on the French. Those are the contents of the memoirs which have served as material for writing this Chapter.

The Demon well knows how to seize his opportunity. Seeing that old France is rent asunder by her own children, he wishes to destroy the new, in order to reëstablish his Dominion [126] and his Kingdom, which is steadily going to ruin, owing to the conversion of these poor north Americans, of whom some Thousands have already entered into Heaven by the door of faith, of Baptism, and of a holy life. Those who remain, forming a Church of great innocence, cry out: "Help us, ye people who call yourselves our brothers. Let not the Hiroquois stifle to death the germ of your belief, and the seed of the faith, and the plant of the Gospel, which we have received through your agency. If ye love Jesus Christ, protect those who love him and are baptized in his name."

Some time ago, there was a request for soldiers, and for their pay, or salary; their provisions were asked for, as well as their arms and their passage. But now,—when the country is yielding grain for chaque année: les habitans du pays, les nourriront, & payeront leurs gages. La France, qui se descharge incessamment dans les pays [127] estrangers, ne manque pas d'hommes pour dresser des Colonies, Dieu vueille qu'elle ait assez de charité, pour les faire passer en vn lieu, où ils viueront plus faintement, & plus à leur aise, & où ils feroient, la dessence, & le secours, de Iesus-Christ, qui honore tant les hommes, qu'il les veut sauuer par le secours des hommes. C'est asses, finissons ce Chapitre par vne lettre, qu'vn Capitaine Sauuage, & bon Chrestien, à enuoyée au Pere Paul le Ieune, qui trauaille en l'ancienne France pour le falut de la nouuelle.

Pere le Ieune il me femble que ie te voy quand on me lit ta lettre, & il me femble que ie fuis auec toy, quand ie te parle, par la bouche, ou par la plume du Pere de Quen. Ie ne mens point, il me femble que c'est auiourdhuy que tu m'as baptizé, ie vieilly, mais la fov ne vieillit point en moy. I'ayme autant la priere au bout de quinze ans, que le premier iour, que tu m'as instruit. Nous Changeons en tout, nous autres gens de ce pays cy, mais ie t'affure, que ie ne changeray iamais, en ce que tu m'as enseigné, & en ce que nous enseigne celuy qui nous gouuerne en ta place. Voire mesme ie ne change quasi [128] plus de lieu, ie pafferay l'Hyuer prochain à Ka-Miskouaouangachit, que vous nomez S. Iofeph, comme j'y ay passé le precedent. Ie suis quasi tout François. I'ay ris quand le Pere de Quen m'a dit que tu auois monstré la robe que ie t'enuoyay l'Automne passé, à des Dames d'importance de vostre pays, & qu'elle leur auoit agrée: Ce n'est pas qu'elle soit belle, c'est qu'elles aiment, & qu'elles voyent volontiers ce qui the feeding of her people, and this is being done every day, - the only thing demanded for the maintenance of these vast regions is the payment of transportation for two or three hundred workmen each year; the inhabitants of the country will feed them and pay their wages. France, who is constantly emptying herself into foreign countries, [127] does not lack men to build up Colonies. God grant that she may have charity enough to send them to a place where they will live holier and easier lives, and where they would be the defense and aid of Jesus Christ, who honors men so highly that he chooses to save them by the help of men. That is enough. Let us finish this Chapter with a letter that a Savage Captain, a good Christian, sent to Father Paul le Jeune, who is laboring in old France for the salvation of the new.

"Father le Jeune: I seem to see thee, when thy letter is read to me; and I seem to be with thee, when I speak to thee by the mouth, or the pen, of Father de Ouen. I do not lie; it seems to me only yesterday that thou didst baptize me. I am growing old, but the faith is not growing old in me. I love prayer as much, at the end of fifteen years, as on the first day when thou didst instruct me. We are Changing in all things, we people of this country; but I assure thee that I never shall change in regard to what thou didst teach me, and what we are now taught by him who governs us in thy place. Indeed, I make hardly any further change, [128] even in my location; I shall pass the coming Winter at Ka-Miskouaouangachit, which you call St. Joseph, as I passed the last one. I am almost wholly French. I laughed when Father de Quen told me vient de nous autres. I'eusse volontiers veu la robe que tu m'enuoyes; on dit qu'il y a de l'or dessus. N'as-tu point eu cette penfée, Noël deuiendra orgueilleux quand il f'en feruira. Ne laisse pas de l'enuoyer le Printemps prochain, si ie meurs cet Hyuer, mon fils, quand il fera plus grand, la portera, & il logera dans la maifon qu'on a fait pour nous au Fort de Sillery: haste-toy de venir, & de nous amener quantité de porteurs d'espées, pour esloigner de nos testes les Hiroquois. Nous ferons bien tost des ames de trefpassez: n'attends pas que nous soyons au tombeau pour nous venir voir, c'est ton bon amy Noël Tekouerimat qui t'escrit, & qui te dit, qu'il priera toujours Dieu pour toy, & pour ceux qui nous affistent. [129] Parle au grand Capitaine de la France, & luy dis que les Hollandois de ces costes nous font mourir, fournissans des armes à feu, & en abondance, & à bon prix, aux Hiroquois nos ennemis. Dis-luy qu'il donne fecours à ceux qui font baptifez. C'est la fin de mon discours.

thou hadst shown the robe that I sent thee last Autumn to some Ladies of importance in your country, and that they were pleased with it. That was not because it is beautiful, but because they like, and are glad to see, what comes from us. I would have been pleased to see the robe that thou art going to send me: it is said that there is gold upon it. Didst thou not have this thought: 'Noël will become haughty when he uses it?' Do not fail to send it next Spring; if I die this Winter, my son, when he grows up, will wear it, and he will live in the house that has been made for us at the Fort of Sillery. Make haste to come, and to bring us many sword-bearers, in order to drive away the Hiroquois from our heads. We shall soon be departed souls; do not wait until we are in the grave before coming to see us. It is thy good friend, Noël Tekouerimat, who writes to thee, and who says that he will always pray to God for thee, and for those who give us aid. [129] Speak to the great Captain of France, and tell him that the Dutch of these coasts are causing our destruction, by furnishing firearms in abundance, and at a low price, to the Hiroquois, our enemies. Tell him to give aid to those who are baptized. That is all I have to say."

CHAPITRE X.

DE LA VIE & DE LA MORT DE LA MERE MARIE DE S. IOSEPH, DECEDÉE AU SEMINAIRE DES VRSULINES DE KEBEC.

A Mere Marie de l'Incarnation, Superieure du Seminaire des Vrfulines de Kebec en la nouuelle France, voulant confoler fes Sœurs fur la mort de la Mere Marie de fainct Iofeph, leur a enuoyé vn abregé de fa vie, de fa mort, & de fes vertus. Ces Memoires estans tombez entre mes mains, j'ay creu que ce feroit faire tort au public de renfermer ce threfor dans les feules Maisons des Vrfulines. I'en ay donc tiré la pluspart des choses que ie vay déduire dans ce Chapitre.

[130] DE SON ENFANCE.

La Mere Marie de fainct Iofeph nafquit en Anjou le feptiefme de Septembre de l'année 1616. Elle eftoit fille de Monfieur & de Madame de la Troche de fainct Germain, fes pere & mere; perfonnes de vertu, de merite, & de condition. Le Sainct Efprit la preuint dés fa plus tendre enfance, de mille graces, & de mille benedictions, qu'elle attribuoit toutes à la faincte Vierge, difant que Madame fa mere l'auoit dediée & confacrée à cette Reyne des Vierges dés le moment de fa naiffance, & que c'eftoit pour ce fujet qu'elle luy fit donner le beau nom de Marie, qui luy eftoit bien si agreable, que iamais elle

CHAPTER X.

OF THE LIFE AND DEATH OF MOTHER MARIE DE ST.

JOSEPH, WHO DIED AT THE SEMINARY

OF THE URSULINES OF KEBEC.

OTHER Marie de l'Incarnation, Superioress of the Ursuline Seminary of Kebec, in new France, wishing to console her Sisters in regard to the death of Mother Marie de saint Joseph, sent them a short account of her life, her death, and her virtues. As these Memoirs have fallen into my hands, I thought it would be wronging the public to confine the enjoyment of this treasure exclusively to the Houses of the Ursulines. Accordingly, I have extracted therefrom the greater part of the facts which I shall relate in this Chapter.

[130] OF HER CHILDHOOD.

Mother Marie de saint Joseph was born in Anjou, on the seventh of September, in the year 1616. She was the daughter of Monsieur and Madame de la Troche, of saint Germain, persons of virtue, worth, and quality. The Holy Ghost endowed her from her tenderest infancy with a thousand graces and a thousand blessings, all of which she attributed to the blessed Virgin, saying that Madame her mother had dedicated and consecrated her to that Queen of the Virgins from the moment of her birth; and that it was for that reason that she had the beautiful name ne f'est ouve appeller de ce nom, qu'elle n'en ait ressenty de la douceur. Cette Vierge Reyne, & Mere des Vierges, respandit dans le cœur de cette petite l'amour de la pureté & de la Religion, deuant qu'elle sceust que c'estoit que pureté & que Religion, si ce n'est que l'on die, ce que quelques personnes ont remarqué, que l'vsage de raison luy auoit esté notablement auancé.

[131] Meffieurs fes parens fe pourmenans certain iour dans l'allée d'vn bois de l'vne de leurs maisons. enuoyerent querir leur petite Marie, qui n'auoit pour lors que quatre ans: Le valet de chambre ou le laquais qui la portoit entre ses bras, luy fit en chemin quelques caresses messeantes, la pauure enfant se mit à pleurer, & à se debattre d'vne façon si estrange, que cet homme estonné eut bien de la peine de forger vn mensonge pour cacher le sujet de ses pleurs. Or ie dirois volontiers que c'est là le plus grand peché qu'elle ait iamais commis contre la pureté. M'ayant rendu en la nouuelle France vn compte fort exact de toutes les actions de fa vie, ie puis dire (pour rendre honeur & gloire à la fource de toutes les bontez) que ie ne me fouuiens pas d'auoir remarqué aucune faute qui approchast de loing d'vn peché grief. Me parlant puis apres des caresses de cet homme, qui passerent en vn moment, elle pleuroit encore à chaudes larmes, non pas qu'elle creust y auoir commis aucune offense, mais par vne saincte ialousie pour la pureté, fe plaignant auec douleur, de ce qu'estant si particulierement dediée & attachée à la faincte Vierge, [132] elle eut fait ce miserable rencontre, injurieux à sa pureté.

Elle fuyoit l'abord des hommes dés ce petit aage,

Marie given her,—which, indeed, was so pleasing to her that she never heard herself called by that name without feeling its sweetness. That Royal Virgin and Mother of Virgins diffused in this little one's heart the love of purity and of Religion before she knew what purity and Religion were, unless it may be said—a thing which some persons remarked—that she was notably precocious in the use of her reason.

[131] "Her parents were taking a walk, one day, in the wooded path on one of their estates, when they sent for their little Marie, who was then only four years old. The valet de chambre, or footman, who brought her in his arms, gave her on the way some improper caresses; the poor child began to cry and to resist, in so strange a manner that this astonished man had much difficulty in framing a falsehood to conceal the cause of her tears. Now I would willingly assert that this was the greatest sin against purity she ever committed. Though she gave me a very exact account, in new France, of all the acts of her life, I can say (to render honor and glory to the source of all goodness) that I do not remember having noted any fault that approached, even remotely, a serious offense. Speaking to me, then, afterward about that man's caresses, which were over in a moment, she still wept hot tears, - not that she believed she had committed any fault in the matter, but from a holy jealousy for purity, lamenting with sorrow that, after having been so expressly dedicated and attached to the blessed Virgin, [132] she should have had that unfortunate experience, to the detriment of her purity.

non par grande conduite de la raifon, mais par l'inttinct d'vn Esprit superieur, qui luy faisoit parler d'estre Religieuse, sans les connoistre que de nom. Monfieur fon pere la voyant d'vne humeur gentille, prenoit plaisir de la contrarier dans cette inclination, il luy disoit souuent qu'il la vouloit marier à vn petit Gentilhomme qui estoit de son aage, & souuent luy faisoit de petits presens, qu'il disoit luy estre enuoyez de fa part. La pauure enfant se demenoit, & s'affligeoit si fort, prenant cette raillerie pour vne verité, que Madame sa mere s'apperceuant que la tristesse commençoit à la deffecher, pria Monsieur son mary de se priuer de cette recreation. Arriua certain iour qu'vn homme de condition la voulant agacer, la baifa par furprise; elle, en se retournant, luy donna vn foufflet si ferré qu'il le fentit bien, quoy qu'il ne fust porté que de la main d'vn enfant.

Ayant remarqué que Madame fa mere donnoit l'aumosne aux pauures, & qu'elle parloit d'eux auec compassion: souvent [133] elle se déroboit d'aupres d'elle pour leur porter son déjeusner, & sa collation, & mesme ce qu'elle pouvoit trouver en la cuisine. Sa bonne mere s'en estant apperceuë, non seulement ne l'improuva point, au contraire elle l'embrassa, la caressa, & luy donna toute permission de donner l'aumosne, & de visiter les pauvres qu'elle nourrissoit, la menant auec elle pour la resiouyr quand elle alloit distribuer ses charitez. Bona arbor, bonos fructus facit. D'vn bon arbre il vient de bons fruicts.

Elle auoit vne auersion naturelle aux bijous, aux affiquets, & à ces petits menus fatras, qui font bien souuent les plus belles occupations des filles qui

" From that early age she avoided the approach of men, not through any exercise of her reason, but by the instinct of a superior Spirit, which made her speak of being a Nun without knowing what they were except by name. Monsieur her father, seeing that she was of an amiable disposition, took pleasure in opposing her in this inclination,—often telling her that he wished to marry her to a little Gentleman of her own age; and often making her little presents, which he said were sent to her from him. The poor child resisted and grieved so greatly, taking this raillery for earnest, that Madame her mother, perceiving that she was beginning to waste away with melancholy, begged Monsieur her husband to forego this diversion. It happened, one day, that a man of condition, wishing to tease her, kissed her by surprise; she turned around and gave him so smart a blow in the face that he felt it sharply, although it was delivered only by the hand of a child."

Having noted that Madame her mother gave alms to the poor, and spoke of them with compassion, she would often [133] steal away from her side to carry them her breakfast and her lunch, and even what she could find in the kitchen. Her good mother, upon perceiving this, not only did not disapprove of her conduct, but even kissed and caressed her, and gave her full permission to bestow alms, and to visit the poor whom she fed,—taking the child with her, in order to give her pleasure, when she went to dispense her own charities. Bona arbor bonos fructus facit,—"From a good tree come good fruits."

"She had a natural aversion for jewels, gewgaws, and those little insignificant trifles which often constitute the highest pursuits of girls who are fond of aiment le monde. Elle portoit enuie à la condition d'vne petite bergere qu'elle voyoit en certain endroit, pource qu'elle estoit deliurée du soin de porter des gands, d'ajuster vn masque, de conseruer de petits ornemens qu'on luy donnoit, & de fe compofer à la mode. Messieurs ses parens qui la voyoient gentille, & d'vn naturel si aimable, & d'ailleurs si esloignée des façons de faire des personnes de sa condition, qu'on éleue pour le monde; la voulurent [134] mettre dans les dispositions de se confacrer entierement à Dieu, f'il daignoit l'appeller à fon feruice. Madame fa mere la conduisit elle-mesme à Tours, en l'aage de huict à neuf ans, & la confia aux bonnes Meres Vrsulines, à qui Nostre Seigneur à donné beaucoup de graces pour éleuer la ieunesse en sa crainte & en son amour.

Cette ieune Damoifelle rauit bien tost les cœurs de toutes fes compagnes; elle prit fur elles vn empire par fes deferences, par les ciuilitez, & par les petits feruices qu'elle leur rendoit, si bien qu'elles la regardoient come leur petite maistresse; & iamais ne furent ialoufes de la voir aimée par desfus les autres, iufques-là, que les Religieuses se servoient d'elle pour l'instruction des autres. Et encore qu'elle fust fort guaye, & qu'elle aimast ses petits diuertissemens, c'estoit toujours sans prejudice de ses deuotions, s'appliquant auec vn grand plaisir à la lecture de la vie des Saincts, notamment de ceux qui auoient trauaillé à la conuerfion des ames. De là vient qu'elle aimoit, & qu'elle honoroit vniquement l'Apostre des Indes, S. François Xauier, faisant de sa vie ses innocentes [135] delices, en forte qu'elle fe déroboit fouuent de the world. She envied the lot of a little shepherdgirl whom she saw somewhere, because she was freed from the trouble of wearing gloves, of adjusting a mask, of keeping little ornaments that were given to her, and of adapting herself to the fashion. Her father and mother, seeing that she was delicate, and of so sweet a disposition, besides being so different in her ways from persons of her condition who are reared for the world, wished [134] to induce in her a disposition to consecrate herself entirely to God, if he should deign to call her to his service. Madame her mother herself took her to Tours, at the age of eight or nine years, and gave her in charge of the good Ursuline Mothers, on whom Our Lord has conferred much grace for the rearing of youth in his fear and his love.

"This young Lady soon charmed the hearts of all her companions. She gained an empire over them by her deference and courtesy, and by the little services she rendered them, - so that they regarded her as their little mistress, and were never jealous at seeing her loved more than the others, and even to such a degree that the Nuns employed her to teach the others. And although she was very merry-hearted, and liked her little amusements, it was always without detriment to her devotions. She applied herself with great pleasure to reading the lives of Saints, especially of those who had toiled in the conversion of souls; hence it was that she loved and honored with peculiar fervor the Apostle of the Indies, St. Francis Xavier, making his life her innocent [135] delight, - so that she often stole away from her companions, and deprived herself of her amusements, in order to find time to read it."

fes compagnes, & fe priuoit de fes recreations, pour trouuer le temps de la lire.

Ie ne fçay fi la delicateffe de fon naturel, ou la contention qu'elle apportoit pour acquerir la vertu, la firent tomber malade: quoy qu'il en foit, les Medecins iugerent qu'il la falloit remettre en fon air natal: elle ne fut pas long-temps chez fes parens, qu'elle ne retournast à sa premiere santé. Elle ne quitta point fes deuotions, pour estre esloignée de la maison, & de la conduite des Meres Vrfulines. Elle fe confessoit, & fe communioit fort fouuent; elle donnoit quelque temps à l'oraifon mentale; elle parloit de Dieu, & portoit les domestiques à la pratique des vertus, auec vn raisonnement si solide, que Monsieur & Mada. de la Troche ne pouuoient conceuoir qu'vne fille de fon aage pût monter si haut, à moins que d'estre doüée d'vne grace fort extraordinaire.

Comme elle fe fentit entierement guerie, elle demanda permission de retourner en son petit Paradis: Elle l'obtint, mais non pas sans peine: car le nouueau [136] commerce, & les nouueaux entretiens qu'elle auoit eüe auec ses parens, les auoit si estroitement liez de part & d'autre, que quand il fut question de fe feparer, ie ne fçay qui fouffrit dauantage, des parens ou de l'enfant. Elle a dit depuis, que l'amour qu'ils luy portoient, que la confiance que luy tefmoignoit fa bonne mere par deffus fes freres & fes fœurs, l'auoient si doucement charmée, que la violence qu'elle se fit pour les quitter la pensa faire tomber, & pasmer de douleur. D'autre costé, Messieurs ses parens iamais ne luy peurent dire Adieu; & Madame fa mere craignant d'exceder dans les tendresses qu'elle

I know not whether the delicacy of her temperament, or the intensity with which she devoted herself to the acquisition of virtue, made her fall ill; however that may be, the Physicians deemed it necessary to send her back to her native air. She was not long with her parents before she recovered her former health. She did not discontinue her devotions, despite the distance separating her from the house and the guidance of the Ursuline Mothers. She confessed and received communion with much frequency; she gave some time to silent prayer; she talked about God, and incited the servants to the practice of the virtues, with such well-grounded argument that Monsieur and Madame de la Troche were unable to conceive how a girl of her age could attain such heights, unless she were endowed with very extraordinary grace.

"Feeling herself entirely cured, she asked permission to return to her little Paradise. She obtained it, but not without difficulty; for the new [136] intercourse and the new conversations that she had had with her parents had bound them so closely together on both sides that, when the question of parting came up, I do not know which suffered more, the parents or the child. She has since said that the love they bore her, and the confidence which her good mother manifested in her, above her brothers and sisters, had exerted so sweet a charm over her that the violence she did to herself in leaving them came near making her fall down in a swoon from grief. On the other side, her parents could never say 'Adieu' to her; and Madame her mother, fearing lest she would go to excess in the tenderness that she felt for her daughter, could not escort her back, auoit pour fa fille, ne la pût reconduire, elle pria vne fienne parente de luy rendre cet office d'amour & de charité.

Nostre ieune Damoiselle ayant rumpu ses Liens, & fes chaines; par vn desir d'estre toute à Dieu, ne fut pas si tost éloignée de la maison de son Pere, que la ioie s'empara de fon cœur. Vous eussiés dit que l'Esprit de Dieu la faifoit voler, & qu'il la faifoit iouïr du triomphe apres cette noble victoire. A mesme temps qu'elle est renduë à la maison des Vrsulines, elle [137] entre dans vn nouueau Combat. Elle prie, elle coniure les Meres de la receuoir en leur Nouitiat, pour estre Religieuse. On luy dit qu'elle n'a pas l'age, qu'elle n'a que treize ans ou enuiron, & qu'il en faut quatorze, ce rebut, & fes ferueurs, la faisoient defeicher, elle prenoit garde par où la Superieur, & les Religieuses deuoient passer, elle les attendoit, & les supplioit les deux genoux en terre d'auoir pitié d'elle. On luy repart, qu'elle na point de fanté, & qu'il faut plustost parler de la renuoier chés Messieurs fes parens, que de l'admettre au Nouitiat. La pauure enfant foupiroit, & protestoit que le Nouitiat seroit fa guerifon. La Mere de fainct Bernard qui l'aymoit vniquement, iugea qu'il luy falloit donner ce contentement, auec obligation neanmoins de fortir fi Meffieurs fes parens la vouloient retirer: elle f'acorde à ce qu'on luy demande, pour iouïr de ce qu'elle demandoit, & Dieu luy fit la grace de trouuer la fanté dans ce lieu de benediction. La crainte apres tout qu'elle eut d'é fortir, luy fit mettre aussi-tost des messagers, & des lettres en campagne, pour obtenir de Monsieur fon pere, & de Madame, fa mere, [138] la grace d'estre Religieuse Vrsuline, sans toutefois but begged a relative of hers to render her that office of love and charity.

"Our young Lady, having broken her Bonds and her chains, from a desire to belong wholly to God, was no sooner away from her Father's house than joy took possession of her heart. You would have said that the Spirit of God made her fly, and exult in her triumph, after that noble victory. At the same time when she was restored to the house of the Ursulines, she [137] entered on a new Struggle. She prayed, she conjured the Mothers to receive her into their Novitiate, that she might become a Nun. She was told that she was not old enough.—that she was only thirteen or thereabout, and that fourteen was the required age. This repulse and her own fervor made her pine away; she gave heed where the Superior and the Nuns were to pass, where she waited for them, and implored them on her knees to take pity on her. They answered her that she was out of health and they must rather speak about sending her back to her honored parents than about admitting her to the Novitiate. The poor child sighed, and protested that the Novitiate would be her cure. Mother de saint Bernard, who loved her fondly, decided that it was necessary to grant her this satisfaction, with the condition, however, that she must leave if her parents wished to withdraw her. She agreed to what was required from her, that she might enjoy what she herself was asking for; and God graciously caused her to find her health in this place of benediction. Her fear lest, after all, she might have to leave it, made her send out messengers and letters without delay, to obtain from Monsieur her father and Madame her mother [138] this boon, that she leur dire qu'elle eut dessa fait le premier pas. Voicy comme cette faueur luy fut accordée.

DE SON NOUITIAT & DE SA PROFESSION.

Monsieur & Madame de la Troche voyans que leur fille entroit fur sa quatorziesme année, & qu'elles les pressoit fortement de luy accorder l'entrée en Religion, ils fe transporterent à Tours, à dessein de la bien esprouuer: car quoy qu'ils l'eussent offert à Dieu dés son berceau, en cas qu'il luy pleut l'aggrer pour sa maison, si est-ce neantmoins que l'amour qu'ils luy portoient, leur fit prendre refolution de ne la point quitter, qu'a bonnes enseignes, & qu'il ne fussent entierement conuaincus, de la folidité de fon appel. Si tost qu'ils font arriués, ils la retirent du Monastere, & la tenans aupres deux, ils dreffent deux bateries, capables de renuerser toute autre vocation moins forte que la sienne. l'auouë qu'il est bon que les parens fondent les volontés de leurs enfans: car il ne faut pas croire à toutes fortes d'esprits: mais aussi faut-il [139] confesser que Dieu ne crie pas tousiours si haut, & qu'il ne se fait pas si fortement entendre, qu'on ne puisse diuertir l'oreille d'vn enfant, & le retirer du lieu, où Nostre Seigneur luy destinoit les graces de so falut. Monsieur de la Troche qui connoiffoit la trepe de l'esprit de sa fille, qui en verité ne tenoit rie de la fille, l'attaque par vn fort raisonnement, luy faisant voir les moyens de se fauuer, fans fe donner tant de peine, luy representat les dangers d'vn long repetir, quand on fe voit liée & garrottée par vne logue chaine de fouffraces, que la vie religieuse traisne apres soy. Madame sa mere la baifoit, la careffoit, luy offroit tout ce qui peut might become an Ursuline Nun—without, however, telling them that she had already taken the first step. Let us see how that favor was granted her.''

OF HER NOVITIATE AND HER PROFESSION.

ONSIEUR and Madame de la Troche, seeing that their daughter was entering upon her fourteenth year, and that she was pressing them urgently to permit her to enter the Religious life, repaired to Tours for the purpose of testing her thoroughly; for, although they had offered her to God from the time she was in her cradle, in case he were pleased to accept her for his house, yet, in spite of that, the love which they bore her made them resolve not to give her up, except for good cause, and until they were fully convinced of the genuineness of her call. As soon as they arrived, they took her out of the Monastery and, keeping her with them, planted two batteries, capable of overthrowing any other calling less strong than hers. I admit that it is well for parents to sound their children's wishes, for one cannot rely upon every order of mind; but it must also [130] be admitted that God does not always call so loudly, and make himself so clearly heard, that the child's attention cannot be diverted, and the child itself withdrawn from the place where Our Lord destined for it the grace of his salvation. Monsieur de la Troche, knowing the temper and spirit of his daughter, who in truth had nothing of the girl about her, attacked her with strong arguments, showing her the means of gaining her salvation without giving herself so much trouble; and representing to her the dangers of a long repentance upon seeing herself bound and fettered by a long chain of sufferings gagner le cœur d'vne ieune Damoifelle de fa codition. Toutes ces offres ne la touchoient point; mais l'amour qu'elle fentoit pour vne mere fi aimable, luy dechiroit les entrailles, quand elle pensoit à la separation.

Mais comme elle eftoit d'vn naturel fort genereux, elle resista fortement aux tendresses de la nature, & Nostre Seigneur luy mit pour lors en bouche, de si beaux passages de l'Escriture, & de si belles pensées des fain[t]s peres, touchant le bonheur de la vie Religieuse, elle les deduisoit [140] auec vne telle fluidité & auec vne telle eloquence, que ses parens, & plusieurs personnes de condition, qui l'ecoutoient; demeurans furpris, conclurent qu'il ne falloit pas refister dauantage à l'esprit, qui rend diserte la langue des enfans.

On la fit donc rentrer au Conuent des Meres Vrsulines, où le Demon qui preuoioit la fainteté de ce braue fujet, luy liura vne furieuse attaque. Il luy étalle dans vn beau iour, toutes les raisons que Monfieur fon pere luy auoit apportées pour la diuertir de fon deffein: Il efface de fa memoire toutes les reparties, que Dieu luy auoit fuggerez. Il reueille toutes les tendresses qu'elle auoit pour vne mere, qui iamais ne fe l'affoit de la voir, & de l'aimer, la fecousse fut si grande, & les tenebres si epaisses, que sentant ses forces ebranlées, elle fe ietta comme à corps perdu, entre les bras de la faincte Vierge, faifant toutes les deuotions qui luy venoient en l'esprit, pour gagner fon cœur, & pour obtenir par fon entremife, la deliurance de cette tentation. La penfée de quitter fa mere pour vn iamais l'espouuantoit; mais enfin le desir d'estre à Dieu, & de suiure les maximes de which the religious life drags after it. Madame her mother kissed and caressed her, and offered her every endearment calculated to win the heart of a young Lady of her condition. All these offerings failed to touch her; but the love that she felt for so kind a mother rent her heartstrings when she thought of parting from her.

But as she had a very high-spirited disposition, she stoutly resisted her natural tenderness; and then Our Lord put into her mouth such beautiful passages of Scripture, and thoughts from the holy fathers, touching the blessedness of the Religious life, and she quoted them [140] with such fluency and eloquence, that her parents and several persons of quality who heard her were struck with surprise, and decided that no further resistance must be made to the spirit that makes eloquent the tongues of children.

Accordingly she was made to return to the Convent of the Ursuline Mothers, where the Evil One, foreseeing the sanctity of this valiant subject, made a furious attack upon her. He displayed to her in a clear light all the reasons that her father had adduced to divert her from her purpose, effacing from her memory all the rejoinders with which God had inspired her. He aroused all the tenderness felt by her for a mother who was never tired of seeing or of loving her. The shock was so great and the darkness so thick that, feeling her strength wavering, she flung herself, as if she were a lost creature, into the arms of the blessed Virgin, offering all the devotions of which she could think, in order to win her heart and obtain, by her mediation, deliverance from this temptation. The thought of leaving her mother forever frightened her; but at length the desire to l'Euangile, [141] luy firent prendre refolution, en la prefence de la faincte Vierge, de boire l'amertume du calice de fon fils, & de perfeuerer conftamment dans fa maifon, quand tous ces tourmens, la deuroient accompagner iufques à la mort.

Le iour qu'elle prit le fainct habit de la Religion, luv fut encore vn iour de combat. On a coustume d'habiller les filles en ce dernier iour de leur siecle, conformément à l'estat qu'elles auroient tenu dans le monde. Nostre Nouice parut si ajustée, si modeste aux yeux de Madame fa mere, que f'approchant d'elle pour luy donner le dernier Adieu, elle la faisit, l'embraffa, & la tint si long-temps colée sur son fein, que Monsieur de la Troche la voyant sans parole, & comme pafmée, luy arracha d'entre les bras, pour la conduire à la porte du Monastselre d'où elle estoit fortie. Cette feparation tira quelques larmes des yeux de la fille, & laissa la mere dans vne profonde douleur. Si tost qu'elle fut entrée, on luy oste ses habits de parade, & on luy donne auec les ceremonies ordinaires, celuy qu'elle auoit tant desiré. On luy fit aussi porter le nom de fainct Bernard: nous dirons cy-apres comme [142] elle prit celuy de fainct Iofeph.

Nostre Seigneur la reuestit interieurement de l'onction & de la grace, signifiée par son voile, & par les autres appartenances de son habit. Vous eussiez dit qu'elle commençoit par où plusieurs acheuent. I'estois rauie d'estonnement, dit la Mere de l'Incarnation, de voir en vne fille de quatorze ans, non seulement la maturité de celles qui en ont plus de vingtcinq, mais encore la vertu d'vne Religieuse dessa bien auancée. Rien de puerile ne paroissoit en sa ieunesse, elle gardoit ses Regles dans vne si grande belong to God, and to follow the maxims of the Gospel, [141] made her resolve, in the presence of the blessed Virgin, to drink the bitterness of her son's cup, and to persevere constantly in his house, even though all these torments should accompany her until death.

"The day on which she assumed the holy garb of Religion was another day of conflict for her. It is the custom to dress the girls, on this last day of their secular life, in a manner befitting the rank that they would have held in the world. Our Novice appeared, to the view of Madame her mother, so composed, so modest, that, when the latter approached her to give her the last Farewell, she seized and embraced her, and held her so long clasped to her bosom that Monsieur de la Troche, seeing her speechless and wellnigh in a swoon, snatched her from her mother's arms to conduct her to the door of the Monastery whence she had come. This separation drew some tears from the daughter's eyes, and left the mother in a deep melancholy. As soon as the former entered the Monastery, her parade dress was removed, and the one that she had so ardently desired was given her, with the customary ceremonies. She was also made to bear the name of saint Bernard; we shall relate hereafter how [142] she took that of saint Joseph."

Our Lord invested her spiritually with the unction and the grace that were symbolized by her veil and the other appurtenances of her costume. You would have said that she was beginning where many leave off. "I was delighted and astonished," says Mother de l'Incarnation, "to see in a girl of fourteen years not only the maturity of one over twenty-five, but also the virtue of a Nun already far advanced. Nothing puerile showed itself in her youth: she exactitude, qu'on eut dit qu'elle estoit née pour ces actions. Et le haut facrifice de l'entendement & de la volonté, qui fait fuer tant de personnes, luy estoit comme naturel. En vn mot, fon esprit toujours efgalement ioyeux, la rendoit tres-aimable, & tresagreable à toute la Communauté, & elle veilloit si foigneufement fur foy-mefme, qu'il ne falloit pas luy donner deux fois des aduis fur vne mefme chofe, voire-mesme elle se tenoit pour auisée, & pour reprise des fautes qu'elle voyoit corriger en fes compagnes. Ie ne diray rien de fes deuotions, notamment [143] de l'amour qu'elle auoit pour la faincte Vierge, nous en parlerons en fon lieu, il fuffit de rendre ce tefmoignage tres-authentique, & tres-veritable, que depuis fon entrée au Nouitiat iusques à sa mort, elle s'est toujours efforcée de respondre fidelement à la grace de fa vocation.

Les deux ans de fon Nouitiat fainctemet efcoulez, Meffieurs fes parens luy vindrent liurer la derniere bataille: Mada. fa mere déplie le reste de sa rhetorique, elle met au iour toutes ses affections, tout son amour, & toutes ses tendresses, asseurant sa chere fille qu'elle la receura à bras ouverts, si la vie d'vne Religion assez penible luy est tant soit peu desagreable: elle proteste qu'elle ne peut, sans violence, se separer d'elle. Monsieur son pere luy represente, qu'il n'y a encore rien de fait, qu'elle est encore dans la plaine possession de sa liberté, qu'il ne faut que trois paroles pour l'enchainer, en sorte qu'il n'y aura plus de resister à Dieu: mais de faire la guerre à vne vocation fondée sur le sable mouvant.

La liaifon des cœurs ne se rompt bien souuent qu'afollowed her Rules with so great exactness that one would have said she was born for these observances: and the high sacrifice of the understanding and will. which causes so many persons great exertions, seemed to come to her by nature. In a word, her disposition, which was ever invariably cheerful, made her very loyable and very welcome to all the Communitv: and she watched so carefully over herself that it was not necessary to admonish her twice in regard to the same thing; indeed, she even regarded herself as admonished and reprimanded for the faults that she saw corrected in her companions." I will say nothing of her devotions, especially [143] of the love that she had for the holy Virgin; we will speak of that in its place. It suffices to render this very authentic and truthful testimony, that, from her entrance upon her Novitiate until her death, she always endeavored to respond faithfully to the grace of her calling.

"When the two years of her Novitiate had been piously accomplished, her parents came to fight the last battle with her. Madame her mother brought to bear the rest of her rhetoric, and showed all her affection, all her love, and all her tenderness,—assuring her daughter that she would receive her with open arms, if the life of a Religious order that was far from easy was in the slightest degree distasteful to her; she protested that she could not, without violence, be separated from her. Monsieur her father represented to her that no decisive step had yet been taken, that she was still in full possession of her liberty; but that it needed only three words to bind her so that there would be no further remedy for her repentance. Their design was not to resist God, but to oppose a calling founded on shifting sand."

uec violence. Qui dit mere, [144] dit vne amante; & qui parle d'vn enfant bien né, parle d'vn cœur plein d'amour, & de refpect. Nostre Nouice ne pouuoit quitter Dieu, ny ses parens: Elle eust desiré, ou que sa mere se susse conuerty leur maison en vn Monastere de son Ordre: car parler de separation, c'étoit parler de mort; elle eust mieux aimé mourir mille sois que de quitter le manche de la charruë, pour retourner en arrière: Et la pauure nature souffroit en elle des conuulsions & des angoisses estranges à la pensée qu'elle s'alloit priuer pour le reste de ses iours, de l'aimable conuersation de sa bonne mere.

Celuy qui tient de ses doigts toute la nature suspenduë, qui fçait le nombre des estoilles, qui donne du poids aux vents, & des limites aux flots & aux tempestes de la mer, la guerit de cette tentation en vn moment. Il luy fit voir dans fon fommeil, vne eschelle semblable à celle de Iacob: D'vn bout elle touchoit les cieux, & de l'autre elle estoit appuyée fur la terre. Quantité de personnes montroient par cette eschelle, aidez de leurs bons Anges, qui effuyoient doucement la fueur [145] que le trauail & l'effort leur tiroit du front & de tout le visage. Elle en voyoit plusieurs qui tomboient à la renuerse dés le premier pas, ou dés le premier degré de l'eschelle: Les autres culbutoient du milieu, & vn petit nombre furmontant les difficultez d'vn chemin si droict & si roide, arriuoient enfin au fommet, & remportoient la victoire. L'effet de cette veüe fit voir que ce n'estoit pas vn simple fonge forgé dans la boutique de fon imagination: mais vn remede à fon mal, appliqué par les mains de fon bon Ange. Il ne fallut point

The union of hearts is not very often broken without violence. He who utters the word "mother" [144] utters the name of one who loves; and he who speaks of a well-born child, speaks of a heart full of love and respect. Our Novice could forsake neither God nor her parents. She would have wished either that her mother might become a Nun with her, or that her parents might convert their house into a Monastery of her Order; for to speak of separation was to speak of death. She would rather have died a thousand times than quit the plow-handle and turn back; and poor nature suffered, in her, strange convulsions and anguish at the thought that she was about to deprive herself, for the rest of her days, of her good mother's delightful conversation.

He who holds all nature suspended in his hand, who knows the number of the stars, who gives force to the winds, and sets bounds to the floods and storms of the sea, cured her of this temptation in a moment. He caused her to see in her sleep a ladder like that of Jacob; with one end it touched the heavens, and with the other it rested on the earth. Many people were climbing this ladder, aided by their good Angels, who gently wiped away the sweat [145] which the toil and exertion called forth from their foreheads and their entire faces. Some of them she saw who fell backward at the first step, or at the first round of the ladder: others tumbled headlong from the middle; and a small number, surmounting the difficulties of a road so straight and so steep, arrived at last at the top, and gained the victory. The effect of this vision made it evident that it was not a simple dream forged in the workshop of her imagination, but a remedy for her ill, applied by the hands of her chercher d'Oedipe pour l'explication de cet enigme, l'Esprit de Dieu en fut l'interprete; il cassa le novau. & luy en fit gouster l'amande. Cet amour de l'enfant d'Adam, qui la tenoit attachée par des yeux, & par vn cœur de chair, fe changea en vn instant en vn amour, qui ne destruit point la nature, mais qui la fanctifie; amour plus fort, mais plus libre; amour qui regarde non le temps, mais l'eternité. Sa fidelité à refister à cet amour estouffant: sa generosité à jamais ne le découurir à ses parens, de peur qu'ils n'en prissent auantage, pour combattre sa vocation; sa refolution à fouffrir le reste [146] de ses iours la tyrannie de cet amour, plutost que de lascher le pied, & fortir de fon poste, luy meriterent cet amour fainct, cet amour dégagé, qui l'ayant deliurée de fon efclauage, luy donna le moyen de presenter à Dieu, dans vne profonde paix, vn veritable facrifice, ou plustost vn entier holocauste d'elle-mesme, s'vnissant estroitement à luy, en se separant de toutes les creatures par les vœux de sa profession, qu'elle fit à l'aage de seize Et iamais depuis ce temps-là, l'amour de fes parens ne l'a embaraffée; & la crainte de s'en feparer fut tellement bannie de fon cœur, qu'elle s'en esloigna par apres de plus de mille lieües loing fans aucune peine.

Si tost que nostre ieune Professe fut enrollée en la milice de Iesus-Christ, on luy mit les armes en la main pour combattre ses ennemis, sçauoir est l'ignorance des petites filles qu'on luy donna à instruire, & les mauuaises inclinations de leur nature. Cet exercice qui est bas dans les ames mercenaires, l'esseuoit à la dignité des Anges gardiens. Son but estoit d'anter Iesus-Christ sur ces petits sauuageons, de good Angel. It needed no questioning of Œdipus for the explanation of this enigma; the Spirit of God was its interpreter. He cracked the stone, and made her taste its kernel. That love of the child of Adam which held her fettered by the eyes and heart of flesh, was changed in an instant to a love which does not destroy nature, but sanctifies it,—a love stronger, but freer; a love which regards not time, but eternity. Her fidelity in resisting that stifling love; her greatness of soul in never revealing it to her parents, for fear that they would take advantage of it to oppose her calling; her resolve to suffer, for the rest [146] of her days, the tyranny of that love, rather than take a backward step and desert her post,—won for her that holy and unfettered love which, after freeing her from her bondage, gave her the means to offer to God, in deep peace, a veritable sacrifice, or, rather, an entire holocaust of herself; uniting herself closely to him in separating herself from all his creatures, by means of the vows of her profession, which she took at the age of sixteen. And never after that time did the love of her parents cause her trouble; and the fear of severing her connection with them was so banished from her heart that she afterward, without any difficulty, put more than a thousand leagues' distance between herself and them.

As soon as our young Professed nun was enrolled in the army of Jesus Christ, weapons were put into her hands to combat his enemies,—namely, the ignorance of the little girls given her to teach, and the evil tendencies of their nature. This pursuit—a low one, to mercenary souls—raised her to the dignity of the guardian Angels. Her aim was to engraft Jesus Christ upon these little wild stocks, to leur faire connoistre leurs passions, [147] & leurs mauuaises pantes, & de leur suggerer les moyens de les combattre. Si elle les instruisoit dans la ciuilité, si elle leur enseignoit à lire ou à escrire, ou si elle leur faisoit apprendre quelque ouurage, c'estoit toujours par rapport à leur salut, leur inculquant doucement comme elles deuoient sanctisser ces occupations, & en tirer vn aide pour se sauuer. En vn mot, sa fin n'a esté quasi toute sa vie, que de faire connoistre & aimer Dieu à ceux auec lesquels elle conversoit.

Dans les occasions qui l'obligeoient de paroistre à la Grille, on remarquoit en fon port & en fon maintien (difent les Memoires que j'ay deuant les yeux) vne grauité & vne modestie toute extraordinaire: elle ne pouuoit fouffrir d'autres entretiens que de la pieté, & si quelqu'vn (par quelque épanchement trop libre) la vouloit ietter fur vn discours qui ressentist le monde, elle le ramenoit auec vne faincte industrie; ou s'il estoit retif, elle se retiroit de la Grille, ou bien elle fe donnoit la liberté de luy parler felon fes fentimes, fans aucun respect humain, disant qu'il ne falloit pas estre moins libre, & moins forte pour soustenir le bien, que quelques-vns [148] l'estoient pour le destruire. De là vient qu'affez fouuent elle demandoit à fa Superieure dispense de voir les personnes dont elle crovoit que la conversation se passeroit sans fruict.

COMME DIEU L'APPELLA, & LA FIT PASSER EN LA NOUUELLE FRANCE.

La Mere de S. Iofeph auoit l'esprit vis, & net, & beaucoup éclairé. Sa conuersation estoit aymable, son industrie à gagner les cœurs de ceux qui tenoient le timon, estoit rauissante. Comme elle se make them know their own passions [147] and their evil tendencies, and to suggest to them the means of combating these. If she instructed them in civility, if she taught them to read or write, or if she made them learn some work, she always made her instruction bear on their salvation, gently inculcating in them how they were to sanctify these occupations, and derive therefrom help for their salvation. In a word, her sole object, during almost all her life, was to cause God to be known and loved by those with whom she had intercourse.

"On the occasions which obliged her to appear at the Grating" (say the Memoirs which I have before me), "there was observed in her bearing and demeanor a gravity and modesty that were quite extraordinary. Conversation that did not have to do with piety she could not endure; and if any one (by some digression of too great freedom) wished to draw her into talk which savored of the world, she would lead him back again with a holy dexterity; or if he were persistent, she would retire from the Grating or else would take the liberty to speak to him according to her feelings, without respect to human considerations, saying that one must not be less free and less bold in upholding the good than some [148] were in destroying it. Hence it was that she not infrequently asked her Superior to excuse her from seeing those whose conversation she believed would be fruitless."

HOW GOD CALLED HER, AND MADE HER GO OVER TO NEW FRANCE.

M OTHER de St. Joseph possessed an intelligence that was quick, clear, and highly enlightened. Her conversation was amiable, and her skill in win-vit dans la fuite du temps, approuuée & foustenuë des premieres colones de sa maison, sa ieunesse qui auoit encore du feu dedans les veines, la porta à deux doigts d'vn precipice, la mettant (dit mon papier) dans le danger de prendre vn chemin qui luy auroit esté fort dommageable, & qui sous ombre d'vn bien apparent, l'alloit ietter dans vne vanité fort fubtile. Estant donc fur le point de prendre cet essor, Nostre Seigneur luy fit voir ce que ie vay raconter. Elle fe trouua dans le repos de la nuich, à l'entrée d'vne grande place, enuironnée de boutiques [149] de tous costez: ces boutiques luy paroissent remplies de tous les objets, & de toutes les delices capables de toucher les yeux, de gagner les cœurs, & de charmer les esprits. Ces beautez mises en leur iour, brilloient auec vn merueilleux éclat: si bien que tous ceux qui entroient dans cette place, en estoient incontinet espris. Elle y vit entrer vn Religieux de sa connoissance, qui fut incontinent enchanté aussi bien que les autres. Ce qui l'espouuenta plus fortement dans ce danger, fut, que ne pouuant retourner en arriere, elle se voyoit comme dans la contrainte de se ietter dans ce precipice. Mais au moment qu'elle se croyoit perduë, il parut vne troupe ou vne compagnie de ieunes gens, faits iustement comme les Sauuages de la nouuelle France, qu'elle n'auoit pas encore veus: L'vn d'eux portoit vn guidon efcrit de certains mots d'vne langue estragere. Elle bien estonnée, entendit vne voix qui prouenoit de ces gens oliuastres, & qui luy disoit: Ne craignez point, c'est par nous que vous ferez fauuée; & là desfus, se mettans en haye de part & d'autre, la firent passer au milieu d'eux, & au trauers de cette place, fans qu'elle fust arrestée, [150]

ning the hearts of those at the helm was delightful. "Seeing herself, in course of time, approved and upheld by the chief pillars of her house, her youth, which still had some fire in its veins, brought her within two fingers of a precipice, by exposing her" (says my paper) "to the danger of taking a road which would have been very detrimental to her, and which, under the guise of an apparent good, was going to conduct her into very subtle vanity. Being, then, on the point of taking this flight, Our Lord made her see what I am about to relate. She found herself, in the quiet of night, at the entrance to a large square surrounded on all sides by shops. [149] These shops appeared to her filled with all the articles and all the delights calculated to attract the eyes, to win the heart, and to charm the mind. These beautiful things, advantageously displayed, shone with a marvelous brilliancy; so that all those who entered this square were immediately enamored of them. She saw enter there a Friar of her acquaintance, who was forthwith enchanted, as well as the others. What most frightened her in this danger was, that, not being able to retreat, she saw herself apparently forced to throw herself into this abyss. But, just as she thought herself lost, there appeared a troop or company of young people having exactly the appearance of the Savages of new France, whom she had not then seen. One of them bore a standard inscribed with certain words in a strange tongue. She, greatly astonished, heard a voice which came from these olive-colored people, and which said to her: 'Fear not; it is by us that you shall be saved.' And thereupon, drawing themselves up in line on both sides, they made her pass between them and ny charmée par ses beautez; en vn mot, ils la mirent en vn lieu d'affeurance. Or il est aisé à voir par la fuite de fa vie, & par ce qui arriua à ce miserable Religieux, qui auoit pour lors la reputation de bien viure, & qui se fit apostat quelque temps apres; que cette veiie n'estoit pas vne chimere, mais vne verité. Il est vray qu'elle n'en eut pas si tost la conoissance, & qu'elle ne prenoit pas fes Bienfacteurs pour des Sauuages: mais aussi faut-il confesser que l'affection qu'elle auoit toujours eue pour le falut des ames, s'eschauffa tous les iours de plus en plus dedans son cœur depuis cette veiie, & que la lecture des Relations qu'on enuovoit tous les ans de Canada, luv donnoit des desirs tres-ardens d'entreprendre des choses qu'elle tenoit pour chimeriques, ne croyant pas que iamais il se deust presenter aucun iour de les effectuer. Elle en parloit fouuent à la Mere Marie de l'Incarnation, qui brûloit d'vn mesme seu, qu'elles prenoient toutes deux pour vne folie, ne voyans pas de quel bois on le pourroit nourrir, & ne pouuans comprendre qu'on deuft iamais enuoyer des personnes de leur fexe, & de leur condition, iusques au bout du monde.

[151] Enuiron ce temps-là, Madame de la Pelterie ayant leu dans les mesmes Relations, que l'on souhaitoit en la nouvelle France que quelque Amazone entreprist vn voyage plus long que celuy d'Ænée, afin de pouruoir à l'instruction des petites filles Sauvages, prit resolution de fonder vn Seminaire en ce pays de Croix, & d'y conduire elle-mesme des Religieuses Vrsulines pour le gouverner. En suite de ce dessein, elle se transporta à Tours pour en obtenir quelques-vnes de Monseign. l'Archeuesque, & de la across that square, without being arrested [150] or charmed by its beauties. In a word, they put her in a place of safety." Now it is easy to see, from the sequel of her life and from what happened to that wretched Friar,-who had then the reputation of a high liver, and who apostatized, some time afterward,—that this vision was not a chimera but a reality. It is true, she did not at once know this, and she did not take her Benefactors for Savages; but it must also be owned that the fondness she had always had for the salvation of souls, increased in ardor every day in her heart after this vision; and that the reading of the Relations, which were sent every year from Canada, gave her most fervent desires to undertake things which she held as chimerical, not thinking the day was ever destined to come when she could realize them. She spoke about them often to Mother Marie de l'Incarnation, who burned with the same fire, which they both regarded as folly,—not seeing with what fuel it could be fed, and unable to conceive that persons of their sex and condition were destined ever to be sent even unto the ends of the world.

[151] About that time, Madame de la Pelterie—having read in the same Relations that it was desired in new France that some Amazon should undertake a voyage, longer than that of Æneas, in order to provide for the instruction of the little Savage girls—resolved to found a Seminary in that country of Crosses, and to conduct thither in person some Ursuline Nuns to govern it. In pursuance of this plan, she repaired to Tours, to obtain some from Monseigneur the Archbishop and from Mother Françoise de St. Bernard, Superior of their Convent. Mon-

Mere Françoise de S. Bernard, Superieure de leur Monattere. Monfieur l'Archeuefque approuua cette entreprise, contre l'attente de ceux qui sçauoient combien il estoit naturellement aliené de choses si nouuelles, & qui estoient sans exemples. Il commande à la Superieure de donner à Madame de la Pelterie, la Mere Marie de l'Incarnation, qu'elle demandoit nommément, & de luy choisir vne compagne par l'aduis de quelques personnes qu'il luy nommoit. Toute la Maison des Vrsulines estoit en feu, il n'y en auoit pas vne qui ne fouhaitât cette feconde place, exceptée nostre ieune Professe. Vous eussiez dit que le Demon [152] luy auoit donné vn coup de massuë sur la teste: elle estoit plus froide que la glace, elle paroiffoit stupide, & interdite; & ce grand amour qu'elle auoit pour vn bien, dont la conqueste luy auoit paru si aduantageuse, mais impossible, se changea en vne grande auersion, quand elle se vit dans le pouuoir d'y pretendre. Et quoy qu'elle honorast Madame de la Pelterie, comme vne fainte, elle la regardoit neantmoins, & celle qu'on luy auoit accordée, comme des perfonnes perduës. C'est chose estrange, que les affaires de Dieu sont toujours accompagnées d'horreurs & de croix! Toutes fes lumieres estoient changées en des tenebres, ses affections en esloignemens, & fon amour en haine. Il est vray que ce bruit & ce tintamarre n'étoit qu'en la cuisine, ou dans la baffe-cour parmy les valets, ie veux dire au bas estage des passions: car elle auoit toujours vne fecrete estime au plus profond de fon cœur, & dans la plus haute portion de fon esprit, pour vne vocation si releuée. C'est pourquoy s'estant ouuerte à fa chere compagne la Mere de l'Incarnasieur the Archbishop approved this enterprise, contrary to the expectation of those who knew how much he was naturally opposed to things so new and unprecedented. He ordered the Superior to give to Madame de la Pelterie Mother Marie de l'Incarnation, whom she asked for expressly, and to choose, by the advice of some persons whom he named, a companion for her. The whole House of the Ursulines was on fire, there being no one, except our young Professed Nun, who did not wish for this second place. You would have said that the Evil One [152] had given her a blow on the head with a cudgel. She was colder than ice; she seemed stunned and abashed; and that great love that she felt for a good whose realization had appeared to her so advantageous, but impossible, was changed into a great aversion when she saw herself empowered to claim it. And, although she honored Madame de la Pelterie as a saint, yet she regarded her, as well as the one who had been accorded her, as lost. It is a strange thing that the affairs of God are always attended with abhorrence and crosses. All her light was changed to darkness, her affections to estrangement, and her love to hate. It is true, this noise and din were only in the kitchen or in the courtyard among the servants,—I mean, in the lower story of the passions; for she always had, in the inmost depths of her heart, and in her soul's highest chambers, a secret esteem for a calling so exalted. Hence it was that, upon unbosoming herself to her dear companion, Mother de l'Incarnation, these phantoms vanished, the curtain was withdrawn, and the day appeared to her, more beautiful than ever. [153]

tion, ces fantômes s'euanoüirent, le rideau fut tiré, & le iour luy parut plus beau que iamais. [153] Elle fe va ietter aux pieds de fa Superieure, pour entrer en partage de ce bonheur: mais elle n'eut pour response qu'vn commandemet de prendre la chambre & l'Office de celle qui deuoit partir, & de demeurer en repos. Ceux qui connoissoient ses talens, & qui auoient de l'amour pour ce grand ouurage, creurent qu'il n'en falloit pas demeurer là, ils follicitent la Mere de l'Incarnation de la demander pour compagne: la Superieure luy fit la fourdeoreille. Là-deffus on fe met en deuoir d'en choisir vne autre. On expose le fainct Sacrement, on fait les Prieres de quarante heures, afin que Dieu presidast à cette élection. Chose estrange! que dans vn si grand nombre, ceux de qui dépendoit cette élection, ne pûrent rien conclure qu'en faueur de nostre Postulante; il y auoit dans toutes les autres ie ne fçay quoy, qui rompoit l'affaire. Elle s'en alla donc derechef trouuer la Mere Prieure; elle fe iette par terre, & la conjure de luy estre fauorable en ce rencontre, si elle ne connoist que Dieu ne l'ait pas pour agre-Sa Prieure demeura fans parole: L'amour luy donnoit de la crainte de perdre vne fille qu'elle auoit tendrement éleuée, [154] qui luy auoit donné tant de fatisfaction, & qui promettoit beaucoup pour fa maison, ces demandes reiterés, & la peur de resister à Dieu, & de ne luy pas accorder ce qu'il desiroit, luy firent paffer toute la nuit fans dormir; & dans ce filence, Nostre Seigneur l'occupa si fortement, & luy donna tant de connoissance sur la vocation de sa chere fille, qu'elle se rendit, pourueu neanmoins, que Messieurs ses parens y consentissent.

She hastened to throw herself at her Superior's feet, in order to obtain a share of this good fortune; but she received for answer only an order to take the chamber and assume the Duties of her who was to depart, and to remain in quiet. Those who knew her talents, and who had a love for this great work. believed that matters must not rest there; they urged Mother de l'Incarnation to ask for her as companion. The Superior lent her a deaf ear. Thereupon the task of choosing another was undertaken: the holy Sacrament was exposed, and forty hours of Prayer were observed, in order that God might preside at that election. Strangely enough, in so great a number, those with whom this choice rested could reach no conclusion except in favor of our Candidate; in the case of all the others, there was something or other that proved an objection. Accordingly, she went again to find the Mother Prioress, prostrated herself, and conjured her to be favorable to her in this emergency, unless she knew her to be unacceptable to God. Her Prioress remained speechless; love made her fear to lose a girl whom she had tenderly nurtured, [154] who had given her so much satisfaction, and who gave great promise for her house. These reiterated demands, and the fear of resisting God and not yielding him what he desired, made her pass the whole night without sleeping; and in this silence Our Lord took possession of her with such power, and gave her so much knowledge concerning the calling of her dear daughter, that she submitted, with the provision, however, that her parents should give their consent.

Forthwith a special courier was sent to ask their Auffi tost on leur enuoie vn courrier tout exprés, pour demander vn congé, dont on ne deuoit attendre qu'vn refus. Cependant on continuë les prieres dans la maison, & nostre ieune Amazone, prend pour auocat dans sa cause le grand sainct Ioseph, luy demandant, non l'entrée dans le Canadas, mais qu'il disposast les cœurs de ses parens, à suiure les mouuemens de l'esprit de Dieu, que si sa bonté luy ouuroit cette porte, elle luy faisoit vœu de prendre, & de porter son nom, & de marcher sous ses auspices, en ce bout du monde.

Le courrier trouua Messieurs ses parens à Angers. Il leur presenta les lettres de leur chere fille. Monfieur de la Troche les [155] lifant demeura tout pâmé d'étonnement. Madame sa mere leuant la bonde à fes larmes: & abbandonnant les rênes à fa douleur, remplit toute fa maifon d'effroy, tout le monde accourt, chacune plaind, le mot de Canadas, leur donne à tous de l'épouuante. Madame de la Troche: ayant vn peu repris fes espris, commande qu'on mette les cheuaux au caroffe pour aller promptemet empescher ce voyage. Aussi-tost dit, aussi-tost fait. Comme elle auoit desia vn pied dans le carosse, parut vn Pere Carme, qui ayant appris le fujet d'vn voyage fi foudain, luy dit, Madame ie vous arreste, permettez que ie vous die vn mot en vostre maison. Elle obeit, quoy qu'auec peine, ils f'en vont tous deux ensemble trouuer Monsieur de la Troche. Ce bon Religieux remply de Dieu, leur parla si hautement, & si efficacement de l'honneur, & de la grace, que leur faisoit Nostre Seigneur, d'appeller leur chere fille en vne si faincte Mission. Il leur fit voir par tant de raisons, & si preignantes, le dommage permission, although only a refusal was expected from them. Meanwhile the prayers were continued in the house, and our young Amazon took as advocate in her cause the great saint Joseph, asking of him not admission to Canadas, but that he would incline her parents' hearts to follow the promptings of the spirit of God; and she made a vow to him that, if his goodness should open that door to her, she would take and bear his name, and proceed under his auspices, in that remote quarter of the world.

"The courier found her parents at Angers, and presented them the letters regarding their dear daughter. Monsieur de la Troche, [155] on reading them, was completely overcome with astonishment. Madame her mother, opening the sluice-gates of her tears and giving free vent to her grief, filled her whole house with alarm: there were hurrying feet and lamentations on every hand, the name of Canadas inspiring all with terror. Madame de la Troche, regaining her spirits somewhat, ordered the horses put to the coach, in order to go at once and prevent this voyage. No sooner said than done. When she had one foot already in the coach, there appeared a certain Carmelite Father, who, upon learning the cause of so sudden a journey, said to her, 'Madame, I detain you; permit me to say a word to you in your house.' She obeyed, although reluctantly, and they both went together to find Monsieur de la Troche. This good Religious, filled with the spirit of God, spoke to them so freely and so effectively of the honor and grace done them by Our Lord in calling their dear daughter on so holy a Mission; and he qu'ils fe cauferoient deuant Dieu, & les tors qu'ils feroient à la fainteté de cette ame genereufe, s'ils empeschoient le cours de son voyage; qu'ils [156] n'eurent autre repartie, qu'vn aquiecement au plus haut de l'esprit, aux ordres de celuy qui en estoit le maistre; s'abbaisans, deuant luy, & adorans sa conduite, quoy qu'ils la trouuassent bien amere. Ne voila pas des parens, dignes d'auoir esté honorez d'vne si fainte sille? Que diront deuant Dieu, les Communautés, à qui on ne demande pas des sujets si eminens, voyans vne maison, donner ce qu'elle à de plus cher, & des parens se priuer de leur amour & de leur tendresse?

Madame de la Troche ayant fait fon facrifice, ne demandoit plus que la fatisfaction d'aller embraffer encor vne fois fa chere fille; de luy pouuoir aller donner le dernier adieu: & de luy porter à mefme temps, le congé, & la benediction de Monsieur fon pere, qui se trouuoit mal. Ce bon Religieux luy dit, auec vne fainte franchife, non Madame vous n'irez pas: vos tendresses pourroient affoiblir en quelque façon, la generosite de vostre Amazone. Faites l'holocauste tout entier; il suffit que vous luy ecriuiez, felon les sentimens que Dieu vous donne. Son conseil sut suive. Monsieur & Madame de la Troche escriuirent deux lettres si [157] faintes, & si Chrestiennes, qu'elles tiroient les larmes de tous ceux qui les lisoient.

Ces nouuelles estans arriuées, on fait porter à la Mere Marie de fainct Bernard, le nom de Marie S. Ioseph, suiuant le vœu qu'elle en auoit fait, elle triomphe de ioye, se remettant en memoire la suite de sa vocation: elle adore auec amour, le procedé de showed them, by so many and pregnant arguments, the harm they would cause before God, and the wrong they would do to the sanctity of that generous soul, if they took measures to prevent her journey, that they [156] had no other response to give than a hearty acquiescence in the orders of him who was master, abasing themselves before him and adoring his guidance, bitter indeed though they found it. Were they not parents worthy of being honored by so holy a daughter? What will be said before God by the Communities from which such eminent subjects are not demanded, when they see a house give the dearest that it has, and parents deprive themselves of the object of their love and tenderness?"

Madame de la Troche, having made her sacrifice, asked for nothing more than the satisfaction of going to embrace her dear daughter once more, of being able to bid her a final farewell, and at the same time to carry her the parting words and benediction of her father, who was ill. This good Religious, with a holy frankness, said to her: "No, Madame, you shall not go; your tenderness might weaken in some manner your Amazon's noble spirit. Offer the holocaust in all its entirety. It is sufficient for you to write to her according to the feelings that God gives you." His counsel was followed. Monsieur and Madame de la Troche wrote two letters, of such [157] piety and Christian spirit that they drew tears from all who read them.

This news having arrived, the name of Marie St. Joseph was given to Mother Marie de saint Bernard, in accordance with the vow which she had made in the matter. She was triumphant with joy, recalling Dieu dans fa conduite: bref elle fe difpose à ce grand voyage, de mille lieuës en droite ligne, & de plus de trois mille dans les détours & dans les bolines qu'il faut faire.

Monsieur l'Archeuesque ayant appris que le choix des deux Meres estoit fait, les sit venir en son Palais, ce sainct vieillard leur donna sa benediction: il les porta à embrasser courageusement la Croix du sils de Dieu, se seruant des mesmes paroles qu'il dit à ses Apostres, lors qu'il les enuoya en Mission, & leur ayant fait chanter le Pseaume. In exitu Israel de Ægypto, &c. Et le Cantique de la saincte Vierge. Magnificat anima mea Dominum, &c. Il les congedia auec estonnement, de voir la force & la constance de ces trois Amazones: car Madame leur fondatrice estoit de la partie.

[158] Ayant receu fa benediction, & celle de Messieurs ses parens, il falut prendre congé de sa chere Mere Prieure, & de fes cheres fœurs. La plus part luy portoient enuie de fon bien-heureux fort, quelques vnes trembloient, à la penfée des dangers, qu'elle pouuoit rencontrer fur la terre, & fur les eaux: quoy qu'il en foit, elle fortit de Tours auec fa chere compagne, le vingtiesme iour de Fevrier, de l'an mille fix cents trente neuf. Elle n'auoit lors que vingt & deux ans & demy, & neantmoins dans tous les voyages qu'il fallut faire de Tours à Paris, de Paris à Diepe, & de Diepe en la nouuelle France; dans toutes les compagnies où elle se rencontra, en la Cour, dans les maifons particulieres, dans les Monasteres de Religieuses, elle a laissé par tout vne telle odeur de sa modestie & de sa vertu, que ie puis affeurer qu'elle dure encore à present en plusieurs the whole course of her vocation, and worshiping with love God's operations in her guidance. In a word, she made ready for that long voyage of a thousand leagues in a straight line, and of more than three thousand in the detours and tacks that had to be made.

Monsieur the Archbishop, learning that the choice of the two Mothers was made, summoned them to his Palace, where this holy old man gave them his blessing. He urged them to embrace with courage the Cross of the son of God,—using the same words that our Lord uttered to his Apostles upon sending them on their Missions, and making them sing the Psalm, In exitu Israel de Ægypto, etc., and the Song of the blessed Virgin, Magnificat anima mea Dominum, etc. He dismissed them, with astonishment at seeing the strength and constancy of those three Amazons, for Madame their foundress was of the party.

[158] After receiving his benediction and that of her parents, she had to take leave of her dear Mother Prioress and her dear sisters. The greater number envied her happy lot, although some trembled at the thought of the dangers she might encounter by land and sea. Be that as it may, she departed from Tours with her dear companion, on the twentieth day of February in the year sixteen hundred and thirty-nine. She was then only twenty-two and a half years old; and nevertheless, in all the journeys that had to be made,—from Tours to Paris, from Paris to Diepe, and from Diepe to new France,—and in all the company that she met,—at the Court, in private houses, or in the Monasteries of Nuns,—she left everywhere endroits. Elle estoit agreable dans les dangers, elle en sçauoit diuertir la crainte par quelque petit mot, & porter le monde à la priere, qu'elle commençoit fort guayement la premiere. On ne remarquoit aucune ieunesse dans cette grande ieunesse, ce n'estoit que [150] maturité. Son affeurance parut vn iour à la veüe de la mort qui se presenta, notamment vne fois, non pas armée d'vne faux, mais vestuë d'vne horrible glace, contre laquelle leur vaisseau s'alloit brifer, si Dieu par vne espece de miracle ne les eust preseruez: sa fermeté donnoit de la couleur aux vifages passes, & affermissoit les cœurs tremblans de peur. En fin apres auoir effuyé les tempestes de l'Ocean; apres auoir foustenu le poids des vents & des flots; apres auoir franchy mille dangers, & enduré constamment les fatigues de la mer, Dieu la fit entrer la mesme année de son depart, au pays tant desiré, au pays de souffrance & de ioye, au pays des combats & des victoires, pour passer de là au sejour de la gloire d'vn triomphe eternel. Disons maintenant deux mots de ses vertus, & des faueurs que son Espoux luy a departies en ce pays de benediction.

[160] DE SON AMOUR, & DE SON APPLICATION À IESUS-CHRIST, & À SES SOUFFRANCES.

La Mere Marie de fainct Iofeph a eu dés fon enfance de grandes tendresses pour le Verbe incarné. Le R. P. Iean Bagot, Religieux bien connu dans nostre Compagnie, m'a dit, que s'estant rencontré en la maison de Monsieur son pere, au temps de sa premiere communion, il sut surpris, voyant les lumieres de cette enfant: sa confession si naïue & si iudicieuse pour son aage, l'estonna; & les tendresses such an impression of her modesty and virtue, that I can affirm that it still continues at the present time in many places. She was welcome in times of danger; she could dispel fear by some little saying, and induce the company to join in prayer, which she herself, with much cheerfulness, was the first to begin. In her extreme youth, no youth was noticed, but only [159] maturity. Her self-reliance especially showed itself one day, at the prospect of death that presented itself,—not armed with a scythe, but clothed in frightful ice, against which their vessel would have been dashed to pieces, had not God preserved them by a kind of miracle. Her firmness brought color to their pale faces and strengthened the hearts that trembled with fear. At last, after weathering the Ocean storms,—after withstanding the violence of winds and waves, after passing through a thousand dangers, and bearing with constancy the fatigues of the sea,—she was by the will of God enabled, in the same year in which she started, to enter the land so ardently longed for, the land of conflicts and of victories, to pass thence to the glorious sojourn of an everlasting triumph. Let us say now a few words about her virtues, and the favors which her Bridegroom showed her in this land of benediction.

[160] OF HER LOVE AND HER DEVOTION TO JESUS CHRIST AND HIS SUFFERINGS.

MOTHER Marie de saint Joseph had from her childhood a great tenderness for the incarnate Word. The Reverend Father Jean Bagot, a Religious well known in our Society, told me that, happening to be at her father's house at the time of her qu'elle auoit pour Nostre Seigneur en cette communion, le rauit. Ie ne luy parlois iamais du Fils de Dieu dans le peu de sejour que ie sis aupres de Messieurs ses parens, adjouste le Pere, que ie ne visse ses petites ioües toutes trempées de ses larmes: ses yeux tout baignez, estoient si fortemet colez sur moy, que ie ne pû me tenir, voyat cette sainte auidité, & ce grad amour pour son Sauueur, dans vne si tendre ieunesse, de dire à Mada. sa mere que cette ensant moteroit quelque iour bien haut: Quia virtus Domini erat cum illa.

Toutes les lumieres, toutes les connoissances, [161] tous les amours, & tous les fentimens qu'elle a eu de ce diuin Espoux en l'ancienne France, n'estoient que les preludes & les effais de ce qu'elle deuoit receuoir en la nouuelle. Estant vn matin en oraison, quelques fix ans deuant fa mort fon ame luy parut fous la figure d'vn chasteau rauissant, & à mesme temps cet Espoux, le Fils du Tout-puissant se presentant à la porte, se fit voir à son esprit par vne communication purement intellectuelle, où le Demon n'a point de part, pour estre indépendante de tous les sens. Il estoit si éclatant, & si plein de gloire, & si rauissant en beauté: (dit la perfonne de qui j'ay receu les memoires) Il luy tendoit les bras, & luy iettoit des regards fi amoureux, qu'elle fut morte de ioye & d'amour s'il ne l'eust soustenuë. Enfin il luy dit, en la retenant entre ses bras, & prenant vne entiere possession de fon ame: Ma fille, ave foin du dehors du chasteau, & ie conserueray le dedans. Comme il vint à fe retirer, elle le voulut fuiure: mais vn crefpe ou vn voile fe mettant entre-deux, elle entendit bien qu'il falloit reprendre le chemin de la foy, & ne first communion, he was surprised to see the intelligence of that child: her confession, so artless and so judicious for her age, astonished him, and the tender devotion displayed by her for Our Lord in that communion charmed him. "I never spoke to her," added the Father, "about the Son of God, in the brief stay that I made with her parents, without seeing her little cheeks all wet with tears; her eyes, full to overflowing, were so intently fixed upon me that, upon witnessing this holy eagerness and great love for her Savior at so tender an age, I could not refrain from saying to her mother that that child would some day attain a great height, Quia virtus Domini erat cum illa."

All the light, all the knowledge, [161] all the love, and all the feeling that she had for that divine Bridegroom in old France, were merely the preludes and first essays of what she was to receive in the new. One morning, some six years before her death, as she was at prayer, her soul appeared to her under the form of a charming castle; and at the same time this Bridegroom, the Son of the Almighty, presenting himself at the door, made himself apparent to her spirit by a purely intellectual communication, wherein the Evil One had no part, since it was independent of all the senses. "He was so bright and full of glory, and of such ravishing beauty" (says the one from whom I received the memoirs), "he held out his arms and threw her such fond glances, that she would have died of joy and love if he had not sustained her. At length, holding her in his arms and taking full possession of her soul, he said to her: 'My daughter, take care of the outside of the castle, and I will guard the interior.' As he iouyr de ces lumieres qu'en passant, comme on voit briller les esclairs.

[162] Elle fut neantmoins enuiron vne fepmaine en extafe, fans toutefois perdre les fens; & fon Bienaimé l'inftruisit dans cette apparition de tous les mysteres de son adorable humanité: Il la reuestit de fon Esprit, & la changea entierement en vne nouuelle creature. Depuis ce temps-là, son cœur n'estoit plus à elle, & on ne pouuoit parler de Iesus-Christ en sa presence, sans que son ame se fondist, & se lique-fiast en amour: Elle en parloit quelquesois si hautement, qu'on voyoit bien d'où procedoient ses connoissances.

Nostre Seigneur luy tenoit souuent vn langage fort interieur. Chantant vn iour le Credo à la faincte Messe, elle entra dans vne complaisance amoureuse en prononçant ces paroles, Per quem omnia facta sūt, se resiouyssant en son cœur, de ce que toutes choses auoient esté faites par son Espoux. Et comme cette ioye & cette complaisance la faisoient quasi defaillir, il luy dit: Oüy, ma fille, toutes choses ont esté faites par moy, mais ie seray refait en toy. Elle pensa s'aneantir entendant ces paroles, qui ne significient autre chose, qu'vne faincte transformation en celuy, dans lequel elle viuoit plus qu'en elle-mesme.

[163] Ie ne fçaurois rapporter tous les effets que ces communications diuines operoient dans fon ame; ce n'estoient qu'actions de graces, que loüanges, que benedictions: Elle estoit dans de continuelles reconnoissances d'estre venuë au monde sous la loy de grace, pour auoir le moyen de posseder pleinement Iesus-Christ. Elle portoit grande compassion aux ames qui ignoroient ce grand thresor, & sçauoit was about to withdraw, she wished to follow him; but a piece of crape, or a veil, intervening between them, she understood clearly that she must resume the path of faith, and enjoy this light only in passing, as one sees the lightning flash."

[162] Nevertheless, for about a week she was in ecstasy, without, however, losing her senses; and in this apparition her Well-beloved instructed her in all the mysteries of his adorable humanity, clothing her with his Spirit and changing her entirely into a new creature. From that time, her heart was no longer her own; and one could not speak of Jesus Christ in her presence without causing her soul to soften and melt with love. She spoke of him sometimes in such exalted language that it was clearly seen whence came her knowledge.

Our Lord often talked with her, in language heard only by the inner ear. Singing the Credo one day at holy Mass, she lapsed into a state of amorous delight on uttering these words, Per quem omnia facta sunt, rejoicing in her heart that all things had been made by her Bridegroom. And, when that joy and that delight made her almost swoon away, he said to her: "Yes, my daughter, all things were made by me, but I am recreated in thee." She thought she would expire upon hearing these words, which signified nothing less than a holy transformation in him in whom she lived more than in herself.

[163] I cannot relate all the effects that these divine communications wrought in her soul; they were a veritable series of thanksgivings, praises, and blessings. She enjoyed a continual consciousness of having come into the world under the law of grace, in order to have the means of possessing Jesus mauuais gré à celles, qui en ayant connoiffance, ne le possedoient pas.

La veite des beautez de son Bien-aymé, luy fit voir si à découuert la bassesse & la laideur des creatures, en vn mot, le neant de toute chose, que quelques personnes la tenoient incapable long-temps deuant sa mort, de vaine gloire, & de tout autre amour, que celuy qui tend à Dieu. En effet, les yeux bien purifiez qui voyent les choses dans la verité, ne sont pas beaucoup touchez du mensonge.

Il me vient en pensée que quelques-vnes de ses sœurs lisant ce petit abbregé de sa vie, pourroient bien souhaiter les mesmes douceurs, & les mesmes familiaritez auec leur Sauueur. Il saut confesser [164] que ce surce est doux, & que cette ambrose est pleine de delices: mais elles me permettront de leur dire, que ces grandes consolations passageres ne se communiquent ordinairement qu'aux ames que Iesus-Christ met en croix auec luy: ce n'est qu'vn alimet & vn soustien qu'il leur donne, pour porter le fardeau de ses soussers. Nous le verrons dans ce qui suit.

Comme Nostre Seigneur luy parloit souuent, il luy dit quatre ans & demy deuant son trespas, qu'elle ne viuroit plus de là en auant que de foy, & de croix. Ces paroles veritablement substantielles, eurent leur effet: Elle n'aymoit plus rien que les souffrances, & son Espoux luy en donnoit abondamment. Elle portoit sans cesse vn estat de peines interieures si cachées, si penetrantes & si viues, que peu de personnes les pouvoient comprendre. Elle souffroit en son corps des douleurs & des foiblesses quasi continuelles: si bien que les paroles de fainct Paul, Ie

Christ to the full. She felt great pity for souls that had no knowledge of this great treasure, and was displeased with those that had knowledge of it, but did not possess it.

The sight of the charms of her Well-beloved made her see so plainly the baseness and ugliness of created beings—in a word, the nothingness of everything—that, long before her death, she was regarded by some as incapable of vainglory, or of any other love than that which is directed toward God. Indeed, the vision that has been made clear, and sees things as they are, is not greatly touched by what is false.

It occurs to me that some of her sisters, upon reading this little summary of her life, may well desire the same delights and the same intimacy with their Savior. It must be confessed [164] that that sugar is sweet and that ambrosia is full of delight; but they will permit me to say to them that those great and transient consolations are ordinarily communicated only to the souls that Jesus Christ causes to suffer with him. It is merely a nutriment and support which he gives them to enable them to bear the burden of his sufferings, as we shall see in what follows.

As Our Lord often spoke to her, he told her, four years and a half before her death, that she would thenceforth live only by faith and crosses. These words, weighty indeed, had their effect. Thenceforward she cared only for sufferings, and her Bridegroom gave her an abundance of them. She was constantly subjected to a state of spiritual suffering so hidden, so piercing, and so acute, that few persons were able to understand them. In her body fuis attaché en croix auec Iefus-Christ, se trouuoient fort veritables en cette victime de l'amour fouffrant Souuent cet Amant des ames fouffrantes la chargeoit du poids [165] de fa Iustice, de sa Saincteté, & de ses autres attributs, par des impressions si pesantes, que fa vie n'estoit plus qu'vn martyre. Estant certain iour dans les langueurs, elle dit ces paroles à fa compagne: Si l'on me demandoit qui me fait fouffrir, ie ne pourrois respondre autre chose, sinon que c'est le Verbe Incarné, que c'est celuy que j'ayme, qui me tourmente d'vne façon inexplicable. Quelquefois elle auoit des oppressions de cœur si grandes, & des impressions des souffrances de Iesus-Christ si viues, qu'il luy fembloit fouffrir vne mort plus dure que la mort mesme. Les desirs de mourir, pour ioüyr de celuy qu'elle auoit veu si beau & si rauissant, allumoient en son ame vn feu si cuifant, & si douloureux, qu'elle ne le pouuoit esteindre que par vne autre douleur: Elle appaifoit l'amour de la iove par l'amour des fouffrances. Ce langage n'est pas estranger à ceux qui ayment, & qui sçauent que pour estre hautement femblable à Iefus-Christ dedans sa gloire, il faut luy estre conforme, comme parle S. Paul, dans fes fouffrances.

L'Espouse des Cantiques va chercher son Espoux, quand il est absent. L'ame [166] que Dieu occupe en l'oraison, demeure en repos: mais s'il se cache, elle eleue son esprit, fait marcher ses affections, pour chercher, & pour trouuer son bien-aimé! Nostre Canadienne suivoit cette maxime dedans ses Croix, quand son Epoux suy en donnoit, elle les portoit auec vne paix, & vne soumission à ses ordres, & à sa conduitte toute rauissante: elle prenoit ce faisseau de she suffered almost continual pains and weaknesses, so that the words of saint Paul, "I am crucified with Jesus Christ," were found to be very true in the case of this victim of suffering love. Often that Lover of suffering souls burdened her with the weight [165] of his Justice, of his Holiness, and of his other attributes, with loads of such heaviness that her life ceased to be anything but a martyrdom. One day, when she was overcome with weakness, she said to her companion these words: "If I were asked the cause of my suffering, I could only answer that it is the Incarnate Word, the one whom I love, who torments me in an inexplicable manner." Sometimes she had such great heaviness of heart and such vivid impressions of the sufferings of Jesus Christ, that she seemed to suffer a death that was harder than death itself. Her longing to die, in order to enjoy him whom she had seen in such ravishing beauty, kindled in her soul a fire so scorching and so painful, that she could only quench it by another pain. She appeased her love of joy by her love of suffering. This language is not strange to those who love, and who know that, in order to be in a high degree like Jesus Christ in his glory, one must, as St. Paul says, be conformed to him in his sufferings.

The Bride of the Canticles goes to seek her Bridegroom when he is absent. The soul [166] that God engages in prayer remains at rest; but, if he hide himself, it arouses its spirit and sends forth its affections to seek and to find its well-beloved. Our Canadian followed this maxim in her Crosses. When her Bridegroom gave her any, she bore them with a peace, and submission to his orders and guidance, that were altogether charming: she took that vessel myrrhe & le cachoit dans fon fein auec amour, & quand il la priuoit de cette faueur, elle fe faifoit elle mefme des Croix elle cherchoit des mortifications, qui l'auroient bien-tost enleuée, de ce monde, si fes Superieurs n'eussent donné des bornes & des limites à fa ferueur.

Comme elle connoissoit la malice, & la finesse de la fille d'Adam, ie veux dire de la nature corrompuë, elle auoit vne merueilleuse addresse, non seulement pour la tuër, mais encor pour empescher, que la Charité de ses sœurs, ne luy donnassent quelque foulagement. C'estoit la quereller que de luy dire, que ses infirmités la dispensoient de suiure la Communauté, & on luy formoit vn procés, quand on la pressoit de prendre quelque soulagement dans ses foiblesses, si elles n'estoient [167] extresmes. Ses refistances ne procedoient pas, d'vn petit compliment, formé du bout des levres: mais d'vne veuë de fa baffeffe, se croyant estre à charge à sa Communauté: elle cedoit d'ailleurs facilement, & fe foumettoit, aifement, à ceux qui la gouvernoient, quand ils n'écoutoient pas fes raisons; ce qui arriuoit peu souuent, car elle estoit fort eloquente, lors qu'elle plaidoit la cause des souffrances de Iesus-Christ, contre les delicatesses du vieil Adam.

DE SA DEUOTION ENUERS LA SAINCTE VIERGE & ENUERS SAINCT IOSEPH.

Lest bien difficile d'aimer Iesus, sans aymer Marie, & d'honorer Marie, fans respecter sainct Ioseph. Ie puis dire auec verité, que cette saincte famille, à esté la premiere, la plus noble, & la plus continuelle occupation de la Mere Marie de sainct Ioseph, dans of myrrh and hid it in her bosom with love; and when he denied her this favor, she made Crosses for herself, and sought for self-inflictions that would very soon have borne her away from this world, had not her Superiors set bounds and limits to her fervor.

Knowing, as she did, the malice and cunning of the daughter of Adam — I mean, of corrupt nature she had a marvelous adroitness not only in killing it, but also in preventing her sisters' Charity from affording her any relief. It gave her offense to tell her that her infirmities exempted her from observing the rules of the Community; and a formal contest ensued when she was urged to take some rest in her weakness, unless the latter were [167] extreme. Her resistance did not consist in a little compliment formed merely by her lips; but was based on a perception of her lowliness, and a belief that she was a burden to her Community. In other matters she yielded easily and submitted readily to those who governed her, when they did not listen to her arguments—a thing which happened very seldom; for her eloquence was great when she pleaded the cause of Jesus Christ's sufferings against the effeminacy of the old Adam.

OF HER DEVOTION TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN AND TO SAINT JOSEPH.

It is very difficult to love Jesus without loving Mary, or to honor Mary without respecting saint Joseph. I can say with truth that that holy family gave the first, the noblest, and the most constant occupation to Mother Marie de saint Joseph, during all the years of her earthly pilgrimage. Jesus Christ toutes les années de fon pelerinage fur la terre. Iefus-Christ la tirée a soy, la Vierge la receuë, & elle a recherché fainct Ioseph, elle est née dans la deuotion enuers la fainte Vierge; c'est le premier laict qu'elle a fuccé: fa bonne [168] mere la dédia & la confacra des le berceau à cette Reine des Anges; & luy fit passer sa premiere enfance dans cette pieté. Nous auons desia dit que le nom de Marie luy fut donné dans cette veuë, & que ce nom luy estoit vn fucre en la bouche, autant de fois qu'elle le prononcoit; & que ses oreilles, & son cœur, sentoient toujours vn nouueau plaisir, quand on l'appelloit du beau nom de Marie, cette ioye prouenoit de l'amour, qu'elle portoit à cette Reine des Anges, & on peut dire, que cet amour, estoit vn amour de ialousie: car elle ne pouuoit supporter; qu'on n'eut pas vn grand recours, & vne grande confiance en celle, dont elle experimentoit si fouuent les bontés, elle luy attribuoit fon education fainte en fa petite ieunesse: ses desirs d'estre à Dieu, & d'y porter les autres. Sa vocation en vn ordre qui trauaille au falut des ames: l'amour de fon cher fils; la deliurance de fes peines, & de fes tentations: en vn mot, toutes les graces, & les faueurs, qu'elle receuoit de la bonté de fon cher enfant: elle a dit fouuentefois, que depuis fa naiffance, iufques à l'âge de vingt-ans, tous les iours, toutes les fepmaines, & tous les mois de fa [169] vie, luy auoient esté confacrés d'vne façon toute particuliere elle fut deliurée de cet amour bas, & empressé, qu'elle portoit à Messieurs ses parens, par l'amour, & par la confiance qu'elle auoit en la faincte Vierge. l'Amour fainct & dégagé qu'elle leur porta depuis, n'estoit qu'vn rapport de l'amour, que cette Princesse drew her to himself, the Virgin received her, and she sought saint Joseph. She was born with a spirit of devotion toward the blessed Virgin; that was the first milk which she imbibed. Her good [168] mother dedicated and consecrated her from her cradle to that Oueen of the Angels, and made her pass her first infancy in that piety. We have said that the name Marie was given her with this intent, that it was as sugar to her mouth, whenever she pronounced it, and that her ears and her heart always felt a new pleasure when she was called by the beautiful name Marie. This joy arose from the love that she bore that Queen of the Angels, and it may be said this love was a jealous love; for she could not bear that others should not have frequent recourse to, and great confidence in, her whose goodness she so often experienced. To her she attributed her pious education in her early youth, her desires to belong to God and draw others to him, her calling in an order laboring for the salvation of souls, the love of her dear son, her deliverance from her difficulties and temptations, - in a word, all the graces and favors that she received from the goodness of her dear child. She often said that, from her birth up to the age of twenty years, every day, every week, and every month of her [160] life had been consecrated to her in a very special manner. By the love and confidence which she had in the blessed Virgin, she was delivered from that low and selfish love that she bore her parents. The hallowed and unfettered Love that she had for them afterward was only an imitation of the love which that Princess cherished for her sovereign lord. If she obeyed her Rules, it was in a union of the obedience which that amiable Mother portoit à fon fouuerain feigneur. Si elle obeiffoit à fes Regles, c'estoit dans l'vnion de l'obeissance, que cette aimable Mere rendoit à fon fils, & à fon cher Espoux: si elle auoit quelque petit temps à sov, il estoit aussi-tost confacré à la fainte Vierge, elle estoit toufiours, les premieres années qu'elle fut en la maifon de Dieu dans les recherches de nouuelles inuentions pour l'honnorer; tantost par des Pseaumes: tantost par des Hymnes, & puis par des loüanges, & par des vœux, qui ne finissoient iamais. Souuent elle recitoit auec l'Ange, mille fois le premier falut, qu'il luy a fait. Si quelquefois elle tomboit dans quelque imperfection, elle fen alloit amoureufement flatter fa bonne Mere, la coniurant de couurir cette faute, de la beauté de ses vertus, afin que les yeux de fon fils n'en fussent point blecés, & que [170] le tort qu'elle luy faisoit par son offence, fut reparé, par fa tref-aimable fidelité: & la deffus, repandant fon cœur à fes pieds, elle luy promettoit d'estre vne autrefois plus fidele, & de faire telles mortifications, ou de reciter telles deuotions en fon honneur: elle entroit dans fes ioyes, & dans fes triftesses: elle la feruoit dans fes voyages, en vn mot, ce n'estoit que confiance, & qu'amour, pour fa tres-honorée Dame & Maistreffe.

Elle ne fentoit pas cette douceur enuers fainct Iofeph: elle en eut quasi volontiers, intenté vn procés à la faincte Vierge; luy reprochant, qu'elle ne luy donnoit aucun accez, aupres de fon cher Epoux. Elle la pressoit, & la coniuroit d'auoir pitié d'elle, & de luy accorder cette grace: de la presenter à cet aimable Espoux. Ie crains, disoit elle, que cette insensibilité, ne soit vne marque de ma reprobation.

rendered to her son, and that which she herself rendered to her dear Bridegroom. If she had some little time to herself, it was immediately consecrated to the blessed Virgin; and, during the first years that she was in the house of God, she was always searching for new devices by which to honor her - now by Psalms, now by Hymns, and again by praises and by vows that never ended. She often recited a thousand times, the first Angelical salutation. If at any time she lapsed into some imperfection, she went. full of love, to caress her good Mother, conjuring her to cover up that fault with the beauty of her virtues, in order that her son's eyes might not be wounded by it, and that [170] the wrong she had done him by her offense might be repaired by her very lovable fidelity; and thereupon, pouring out her heart at her feet, she promised her to be more faithful another time, and to perform such and such mortifications, or to recite such and such devotions in her honor. She entered into her joys and into her sorrows; she served her on her journeys; in a word, she was all confidence and love for her much honored Lady and Mistress.

She did not feel that tenderness toward saint Joseph, and would have been almost willing to bring suit in the matter against the blessed Virgin, reproaching her for not giving her any access to her dear Spouse. She urged and conjured her to take pity on her and grant her that favor,—to present her to that lovable Spouse. "I fear," she would say, "that this insensibility is a mark of my reprobate condition." When she was at Tours, and had withdrawn into solitude, she went to find her Superior, in the middle of her retreat,—weeping like a child, because Estant à Tours retirée en solitude, elle s'en alla trouuer sa Superieure au milieu de sa retraite, pleurant comme vn enfant, de ce qu'elle n'auoit aucune deuotion enuers sainct Ioseph, cela la faisoit trembler. Sa Prieure luy dit en se souriant, que ses larmes, & ses angoisses, estoient vne marque [171] de cette deuotion. Mais cela ne la consoloit point, pour ce qu'elle ne ressentoit pas, la protection de ce grand Patriarche, comme elle experimentoit celle de sa chere Espouse.

Au temps de fes plus grandes angoiffes, la Superieure des Vrsulines de Loudun s'en allant au tombeau du B. Monsieur de Sales, passa par Tours, & logea dans le Monastere de nottre Canadienne: Toutes les Religieuses, & elle à fon tour, baiserent le facré baume, dont fainct Ioseph s'estoit seruy pour guerir cette bonne Mere, & la tirer de l'agonie. Il n'y en eut pas vne qui ne fentit vne odeur, & vn effect de ce baume, qui ne venoit point de la terre, excepté nostre Canadienne, laquelle fut priuée de cette grace; l'odeur de ce baume ne toucha ny fes narines, ny ne produisit aucun mouuement en son cœur. Dieu sçait de quelle douleur fut saisse sa pauure ame! C'est bien pour lors qu'elle creut, que celuy dont elle recherchoit si fainctement l'amitié, l'auoit rebutée, Si Dieu prend fes delices auec les hommes, les Saincts n'en font pas moins. Ce grand Patriarche prenoit plaisir de voir cette ame innocente courre apres ce qu'elle [172] possedoit desia d'vne façon plus noble, que celle que fon ardeur pretendoit. En fin il la voulut consoler.

Cette bonne Mere de Loudun retournant de fon voyage, & passant vne autre fois par Tours, entra she felt no devotion toward saint Joseph; that made her tremble. Her Prioress told her, with a smile, that her tears and anguish were a mark [171] of that devotion. But this did not comfort her, because she did not feel the protection of that great Patriarch as she did that of his dear Spouse.

At the time of her greatest anguish, the Superior of the Ursulines of Loudun, on her way to the grave of the Blessed Monsieur de Sales, passed through Tours and lodged at the Monastery of our Canadian. All the Nuns, and she in her turn, kissed the sacred balm which saint Joseph used in curing that good Mother and bringing her out of her agony. There was not one of them that did not experience an odor and an influence from this balm, which was not of earthly origin, - except our Canadian, who was denied that grace; the odor of this balm neither touched her nostrils, nor produced any emotion in her heart. God knows with what grief her poor soul was seized. Then indeed it was that she believed that he whose friendship she sought so piously had repulsed her. If God takes his delight in men, the Saints do so no less. This great Patriarch took pleasure in seeing that innocent soul run after what she [172] already possessed in a nobler manner than her ardor laid claim to. At length, it was his will to comfort her.

That good Mother of Loudun, returning from her journey and passing again through Tours, entered the same Monastery, and gave a second opportunity to kiss the holy balm, which she always carried with her. Mother Marie de St. Joseph trembled upon approaching it, fearing a second rebuff; she pre-dans le mesme Monastere, & donna à baiser pour la feconde fois le fainct baume, qu'elle portoit toujours auec elle. La Mere Marie de S. Iofeph trembloit en s'en approchant, elle craignoit vn fecond rebut, elle fe prefente à genoux auec vn esprit humilié, remply neantmoins de confiance, que la tres-faincte Vierge, fa bonne mere, la donneroit pour ce coup a fon Efpoux. Son attente ne fut pas vaine; elle n'eut pas si tost touché cette onction, que non seulement elle en fentit l'odeur, mais elle en fut penetrée iufques au fonds de l'ame, auec l'effect de la grace qu'elle auoit tant demandée. Le transport d'esprit qu'elle eut pour lors, fut si sensible, que la Mere de Loudun s'en apperceuant, luy dit en fouriant, Voicy vn cœur puissamment pressé de Dieu. Elle toute transportée, se retira doucement, & s'alla ietter dans vne grotte de fainct Ioseph, qui est dans le Monastere, où elle se tint enfermée enuiron [173] deux heures, & dans ce temps-là Nostre Seigneur luy donna fainct Iofeph pour fon Pere & pour fon Protecteur, luy faisant entendre qu'elle estoit maintenant fille de la Vierge, & de fainct Iofeph.

Cette operation toute diuine, & ces careffes fi amoureufes l'aneantiffoient, & la faifoient fondre en larmes d'amour & de ioye: elle fentoit dans le fonds de fon ame les effects puiffans de cette grace, qui l'affeuroient de cette filiation, en forte qu'elle n'en a iamais pû douter le refte de fes iours, experimentant dans la fuite de fa vie, les fecours d'vn Pere fi puiffant, & fi aymable: elle en prit le nom, comme nous auons remarqué, lors qu'il luy fit donner fon paffeport pour aller en fon pays, ie veux dire en la nouuelle France, qu'on peut appeller le pays de S.

sented herself on her knees, with a spirit that was humbled, but yet full of confidence that the most blessed Virgin, her good mother, would this time give her to her Spouse. Her expectation was not in vain: she had no sooner touched that ointment than she not only perceived its odor, but was also penetrated thereby to her inmost soul, receiving the grace which she had so earnestly entreated. spiritual transports which she then experienced were so keenly felt that the Mother of Loudun, perceiving it, said to her with a smile, "Here is a heart powerfully acted upon by God." She, in a perfect transport, softly retired, and hastened to a grotto of saint Joseph, which is in the Monastery, where she kept herself shut in for about [173] two hours; and, during that time, Our Lord gave her saint Joseph as her Father and Protector, making her understand that she was now the daughter of the Virgin and of saint Joseph.

This process, wholly divine in its nature, and these caresses, so full of love, overpowered her and made her burst into tears of love and joy. In her inmost soul she felt the powerful effects of that grace, assuring her of this filiation, so that she could never doubt it for the rest of her days, experiencing in the subsequent course of her life the aid of so powerful and so kind a Father. She took his name, as we have noted, when he caused her passport to be given her for going to his country—I mean, to new France, which may be called the country of St. Joseph, inasmuch as those vast regions march under his standards, and honor him as their Father and their Patron. He led her into that glorious land, into that King-

Iofeph, puis que ces grandes contrées marchent fous fes eftendars, & l'honorent comme leur Pere & leur Patron. Il la conduifit dans cette glorieufe region, dans ce Royaume des fouffrances, pour estre l'vne des pierres fondamentales d'vn Seminaire & d'vn Monastere erigé fous le nom de fainct Ioseph.

[174] DE QUELQUES-VNES DE SES VERTUS.

L es grandes lumieres, & les hautes contemplations, qui n'engendrent point la vertu, font femblables à ces fleurs qui ne portent aucun fruict: l'arbre en est beau, mais il n'est pas vtile. Il se trouue assez de personnes qui parlent de la vertu, ou qui se plaisent d'en ouvr parler, qui l'approuuent, & qui l'honorent: mais le nombre de ceux qui la pratiquent folidement, est bien petit. Nostre Canadienne en faifoit fon principal; elle croyoit que toutes les veües qui ne tendoient pas là, s'écartoient du vray chemin; & que tous les brillans qui ne reprefentoient pas la vertu, n'estoient que de faux iours: Aussi est-elle morte en vn pays, où l'on ayme la verité, & d'où l'on bannie les apparences. La gloire d'vne belle ame n'est pas d'auoir de beaux yeux, mais d'auoir des mains faites au tour, comme celles de l'Espouse, propres pour exercer les vertus. Voicy quelques petites marques de celles dont nostre Canadienne a Commençons par fon esté hautement enrichie. humilité.

Il me femble que ie pourrois dire, que [175] le defaut de lumiere est cause que nous craignons les loüanges, & le mépris. L'ame qui voit nettement le neant de tout ce qui n'est pas Dieu, se met peu en peine d'estre aymée, ou d'estre haye; d'estre honodom of sufferings, to be one of the foundation-stones of a Seminary and Convent erected in the name of saint Joseph.

[174] OF SOME OF HER VIRTUES.

REAT lights and lofty contemplations which do I not engender virtue are like those flowers which bear no fruit; their tree is beautiful, but it is not useful. There are persons enough who talk about virtue, or who take pleasure in hearing it talked about, who approve it and who honor it; but the number of those who actually practice it is small indeed. Our Canadian made this her guiding principle, believing that all visions which did not tend thither went astray from the true path, and that all brightness not representing virtue was only a false light: so she died in a country where truth is loved, and whence mere appearances are banished. glory of a beautiful soul is not to have beautiful eves, but to have well-formed hands, like those of the Bride, fitted for the exercise of the virtues. Here are some little marks of those with which our Canadian was highly endowed. Let us begin with her humility.

It seems to me that I might say that [175] want of clear vision is the cause of our being so sensitive to praise and scorn. The soul that sees clearly the nothingness of all that is not God, gives itself little concern whether it be loved or hated, honored or despised, by that nothingness. Mother de St. Joseph was so convinced of her own baseness, she was so filled with thoughts of God's grandeur, and she saw so clearly that from him alone comes trustworthy and true judgment, that she could almost say with St.

rée, ou d'estre méprisée de ce neant. La Mere de S. Iofeph estoit si conuaisnouë de ses bassesses, elle estoit si remplie des pensées de la grandeur de Dieu: elle vovoit si euidemment que de luv seul procedoit vn folide & vn veritable iugement qu'elle pouuoit quasi dire auec S. Paul, que le iugement des hommes luy estoit de peu d'importance. Ceux qui ne recherchent que l'approbation du Roy, ne se foucient gueres de l'opinion d'vn paysan. De là vient qu'elle receuoit au fonds de fon ame les mépris comme des veritez, les voyant tres-conformes à fon estat: & l'honneur comme des menfonges, s'en iugeant deuant Dieu veritablement indigne: difons pluftoft, qu'elle méprifoit l'vn & l'autre, comme vn homme fage méprife le ieu des noix, ou l'occupation des petits enfans.

Elle receuoit auec vne grande égalité d'esprit, voire mesme auec plaisir, les paroles & les actions qui tendoient à son abbaissement, [176] disant qu'elles tendoient à la verité. Elle auoit de l'amour & de la douceur pour les personnes qui la mortifioiet: elle les desendoit dans les rencontres, & leur rendoit volontiers service dans leurs besoins.

Elle ne pouuoit fouffrir qu'on s'éleuast pour sa naissance, ne reconnoissant autre noblesse que la vertu: Elle disoit que la Religion rendoit tous ses sujets égaux, leur donnant à tous vne mesme naissance; & que la vertu, & les vices faisoient les nobles, & les roturiers. Quelqu'vn luy ayant fait demander quelque esclaircissement touchant l'vn de ses ancestres: elle sit response, qu'elle ne s'estoit iamais mise en peine de sçauoir les auantages que la Nature luy auoit donnez en ses parens! que sa gloire

Paul that the judgment of men was to her of little account. Those who seek only the King's approval scarcely trouble themselves about the opinion of a peasant. Thence it was that, in her inmost soul, she received contempt as if it were the truth, regarding it as very well suited to her condition; and honor as if it were deceitfulness, holding herself before God as truly unworthy of it. Let us say that she held both in small esteem, as a wise man despises the game of knuckle-bones, or the pursuits of little children.

She received with great equanimity, indeed even with pleasure, words and actions that tended to her own abasement, [176] saying that they conduced to the truth. She felt love and kindness for persons who mortified her,—defending them, when occasion offered, and willingly rendering them service in their needs.

Recognizing no other nobility than virtue, she could not endure that any one should exalt himself on account of his birth. She said that Religion rendered all its subjects equal, giving to all one and the same birth, and that virtues and vices made nobles and plebeians. When some one caused her to be asked for some information concerning one of her ancestors, she replied that she had never taken the trouble to ascertain the advantages Nature had given her in her parents,—that it was her glory to be the daughter of God and of his Church, and that she rested all her good fortune and happiness on that glory. It was not that she failed to love and honor her parents, but that love and honor were bestowed upon him from whom they derived their true greatness.

Although the mere thought that Jesus Christ, eftoit d'estre fille de Dieu, & de son Eglise: qu'elle mettoit tout son bonheur & sa felicité dans cette gloire. Ce n'est pas qu'elle n'aymast, & qu'elle n'honorast Messieurs ses parens: mais cet amour & cet honneur se rendoit en celuy duquel ils tiroient leur veritable grandeur.

La feule penfée que Iefus-Christ son Sauueur auoit passé trente ans dans vne [177] vie obscure & cachée, arrestant toutes ses productions au dehors, elle ne pouuoit cacher fes talens naturels, qui la rendoient fort aymable, & fort recommandable à tout le monde: Mais toutes les graces, & toutes les faueurs dont ie viens de parler, estoient inconnuës aux personnes qui l'approchoient de plus pres, elle-mesme en détournoit la veüe, sçachant bien que l'éclair blesse l'œil, & engendre la foudre & le tonnerre. Elle fuiuoit parfaitement en ce point, la conduite de ses Directeurs, qui passoient legerement sur ces faueurs extraordinaires, laissant faire à Dieu fon ouurage, & portant fa creature à luy estre fidele. Iamais ils ne parloient ny dehors, ny dedans la maifon, des operations qui ne font pas de nostre estage; on exaltoit l'humilité, la patience, la charité, & les autres vertus. C'est dans ces voyes qu'on tenoit cette ame occupée, & ie m'affeure qu'vne partie de fes Sœurs fera estonnée, lifant ce qu'elles ont peut-estre ignoré iusques à maintenant. Il est vray qu'on luy auoit commandé depuis quelque temps d'escrire la conduite que Dieu auoit tenu fur elle depuis fon enfance: afin (difoit-on) de penetrer plus [178] auant dans fon ame, qui fe produifoit affez peu; on ne vouloit pas perdre ces threfors, mais l'incendie de leur maifon nous les a ranis.

her Savior, had passed thirty years in a [177] life obscure and hidden, checked all outward manifestations of self, she could not conceal her native talents. which rendered her very lovable and commendable to all. But all the graces and favors of which I have just spoken were unknown to those who approached her most nearly,—she herself diverting the view from them, since she was well aware that lightning hurts the eyes and causes thunder and the thunderbolt. In this respect she followed perfectly the guidance of her Directors, who passed lightly over these extraordinary favors, leaving God to do his work, and inciting his creature to be faithful to him. Neither out of nor in the house did they ever speak of operations that are not within our domain; humility, patience, charity, and the other virtues were exalted. It was in these paths that that soul was kept engaged, and I am sure that a part of her Sisters will be astonished to read what they have, perhaps, been ignorant of hitherto. It is true, she had been bidden, some time previously, to write an account of the guidance which God had exercised over her from her infancy; in order that (as it was said) a more intimate knowledge might be gained [178] of her soul, which made little enough outward manifestation of itself. We would not willingly have lost those treasures; but the burning of their house snatched them from us.

"Here is an action proceeding from her humility and obedience. The perception that she had of her nothingness gave her a great love for the hidden life; and that love sometimes caused her fear and dread lest she should be drawn from beneath the bushel and set upon a candlestick. One day, when

Voicy vne action qui part de fon humilité, & de fon obeyffance. La veiie qu'elle auoit de fon neant luy donnoit vn grand amour pour la vie cachée, & cet amour luy donnoit quelquefois de la peur & de la crainte qu'on ne la tirast de dessous le muid, pour la placer fur le chandelier. Vn certain iour que le temps de faire élection de la Superieure s'approchoit, l'apprehension d'estre eleüe luy donnant quelque trouble, elle fe iette aux pieds de fon Efpoux, elle le careffe, elle l'amadoüe, elle luy reprefente qu'il a passé toute sa vie dans la bassesse; qu'il a protesté que son Royaume n'estoit point de ce monde; elle le coniure de luy accorder la grace que fa vie ait quelque rapport à la fienne: qu'elle foit vn hommage de fa creiche, vne dépendance de fa croix, vne fuite de ses aneantissemens, puis qu'il vouloit que nostre vie fust cachée dans la sienne. Ie vous promets, & vous fais vœu, luy difoit-elle, que j'aymeray, que j'honoreray, celle que vous aurez éleüe, que ie [179] vous obeïray fidelement en elle tant qu'il me fera possible: Ie vous verray en la voyant, ie vous aimeray en l'aimant: En fin elle me tiendra vostre place. Sa priere fut exaucée, & fon vœu accomply. Si tost que la Superieure fut eleüe, elle l'alla trouuer, luy rendit vn compte fidele de fon ame, & luy declara les voyes & les chemins que Dieu tenoit en fa conduite, & tout cela auec la candeur & auec la simplicité d'vn enfant, auec vne deference toute naïue, & toute aimable. Ie vous laisse à penser si vne Superieure pouuoit ne pas aimer vne ame si foumise, vne ame enrichie de tres-beaux talens, vne ame genereuse, qui faifoit plus qu'elle ne difoit: vne ame qui n'aimoit rien de mol, rien de bas dans fa conversation, the time to elect a Superior was drawing near, being somewhat disturbed by the fear of being elected, she cast herself at her Bridegroom's feet,—she caressed and coaxed him; represented to him that he had passed all his life in lowliness, affirming that his Kingdom was not of this world; and implored him to grant her the favor that her life might bear some resemblance to his, and might be a homage of his manger, a hanging upon his cross, and a continuation of his self-effacement, since he wished our lives to be hidden in his. 'I promise you and make a vow to you,' said she, 'that I will love and honor her whom you shall elect, and that I [179] will obey you faithfully in obeying her, as far as it shall be possible for me to do so. I shall see you in seeing her, I shall love you in loving her; in short, she shall hold your place to me.' Her prayer was granted and her vow fulfilled. As soon as the Superior was elected, she went to find her, rendered her a faithful account of her soul, and made known to her the paths and the roads which God took for her guidance,—and all this with the candor and simplicity of a child, and with a deference wholly ingenuous and very lovable. I leave you to judge whether a Superior could fail to love a soul so submissive, a soul endowed with very fine talents, a generous soul which did more than it said, a soul which disliked anything shallow, anything low in its conversation, which was free from all puerility before the world, and which rendered itself compliant and docile to those who directed it.

"I am ocular witness to this last article, for she revealed her heart to me at that time. I was the depositary of her fears and vows and of her entire qui n'auoit rien de puerile deuant le monde, & qui fe rendoit fouple & traitable à ceux qui la dirigeoient.

Ie fuis tefmoin oculaire de ce dernier article, comme elle me découuroit fon cœur en ce temps-là: Ie fus le depositaire de ses craintes, & de ses vœux, & de tout son procedé. Quelques personnes voyant qu'elle estoit toujours aimée de ses Superieurs, & n'en sçachant pas le secret, [180] disoient qu'elle se trouuoit toujours du costé des plus sorts: qu'elle sçauoit gagner ceux qui commandoient; que son industrie la mettoit toujours à l'abry des tempestes qui venoient d'enhaut: Elles disoient la verité, mais elles attribuoient à vne basses d'esprit, ce qui prouenoit d'vne haute generosité.

Ie fçay encore qu'vne perfonne luy a donné bien de l'exercice, & ie n'ay iamais sceu que sa bouche & fon cœur fe foient eschapez à fon efgard. Puis qu'il n'y a point de danger maintenant de reueler les fecrets de l'eschole, ie feray encore vn pas On l'accufoit quelquefois, non pas de trop d'attache, car c'estoit vn esprit fort libre, mais de rendre trop de complaifance à quelques perfonnes, foit par quelque fympathie, ou pour quelque interest trop humain. Moy qui connoiffois fon cœur si dégagé, ie fouriois fans mot dire: car ie fçauois qu'elle auoit vne antipathie naturelle contre ceux à qui elle rendoit ces complaisances: leur humeur estoit desagreable à ses fens: mais comme fes fens n'estoient chez elle que des valets, elle les faifoit plier fous la raifon, & fous la grace auec vne si grande fidelité, qu'on eut dit [181] que ce qui leur estoit amer, se changeoit en douceur & en miel. Elle agiffoit d'ailleurs auec des principes, mesme naturels, si dégagez, & si genereux, qu'il luy procedure. Some persons, seeing that she was always loved by her Superiors, and not knowing the secret of it, [180] used to say that she was always on the side of the stronger, that she knew how to win those who were in command, and that her adroitness always sheltered her from the storms which came from above. They told the truth, but they attributed to a meanness of spirit what arose from a high noble-mindedness.

"I know also of a certain person's giving her a great deal of trouble, and I have never known that her mouth or her heart escaped her control in regard to that person. Since there is now no danger of telling tales out of school, I will add one thing more. She was accused sometimes, not of too great attachment for hers was a spirit by no means held in bondsbut of yielding too great complaisance to some persons, - whether through some sympathy, or from some too human interest. As for me, who knew her heart to be so unfettered, I smiled without saying anything; for I knew that she felt a natural antipathy toward those to whom she rendered this complaisance. Their temperaments were disagreeable to her senses; but as, with her, the senses were but servants, she made them bow to reason and grace with so great fidelity that one would have said [181] what was bitter to them became changed into sweetness and honey. Besides, she acted from principles which were even natural to her and were so free and so magnanimous, that it was next to impossible for her to seek the friendship or support of any creature by a base submission. Guidance from a man, or woman, or girl was, in itself, unbearable to her: guidance from God through the instrumentality of a eftoit comme impossible de rechercher l'amitié, ou l'appuy d'aucune creature par vne foumission basse. La conduite purement d'vn homme, ou d'vne femme, ou d'vne fille, luy estoit insupportable: La conduite de Dieu par vn enfant l'eut abbaissée iusques au neant: elle aimoit le canal par où les ordres luy venoient du Ciel, sans prendre garde s'il estoit de bois, ou de terre; de plomb, ou d'or.

L'vn de fes attraits pour le Canadas étoit l'amour qu'elle portoit à la pauureté, elle aimoit le pays qui la rendoit femblable à fon Efpoux: Le viure pauure & groffier, les froids tres-lõgs & tres-piquās eftoient fort contraires à fes infirmitez, mais tres-conformes à fes affections. Il falloit deuiner fes befoins, tant elle eftoit industrieuse à les diffimuler. Iamais on n'entendoit de plaintes, iamais de poursuites pour obtenir, non pas ce qui auroit repugné à la perfection, mais ce qui auroit esté tant soit peu moins conforme à la faincteté de ses vœux.

[182] Ie ne dy rien de fa pureté toute Angelique, elle eftoit si bien preparée, & si bien armée contre les objets, qui l'auroient pû tenir, tant soit peu, qu'on eut dit qu'ils n'eussent ofé l'approcher de mille lieuës loing, tant elle estoit sur ses gardes, & tant elle auoit d'horreur de ce qui auroit pû blesser l'innocence des Vierges, qui suiuent par tout l'Agneau dans les Cieux.

Sa conuerfation n'estoit point melancolique, on ne luy voyoit iamais vn visage refrongné, vne humeur faturnienne, ou bigeare: elle estoit guaye, d'vn entretien aimable: mais toujours modeste; elle sçauoit disposer les cœurs, par de petites rencontres agreables, pour donner son coup bien à propos: ses discours, quoy que de Dieu, n'estoient point ennuieux, child would have humbled her to the point of selfannihilation. She loved the channel through which Heaven's orders reached her, without heeding whether it was of wood or of clay, of lead or of gold.

"One of her bonds of attachment to Canadas was the love that she felt for poverty: she loved the country which made her like her Bridegroom. The living, poor and coarse, and the cold, of long duration and great severity, were very unfavorable to her infirmities, but very much in harmony with her predilections. It was necessary to guess her wants, so adroit was she in dissembling them. Never were there heard any complaints, never any attempts to obtain, not what would have been a hindrance to perfection, but what would have been in the slightest degree out of harmony with the sanctity of her yows.

[182] "I say nothing of her altogether Angelic purity: she was so well prepared and so well armed against those things that might have enslaved her, however little, that one would have said they would not have dared to approach her within a thousand leagues,—so perfectly was she on her guard, and such horror did she have of what might have wounded the innocence of the Virgins who everywhere follow the Lamb in the Heavens.

"Her conversation was not melancholy; one never saw a frown on her face or observed in her a Saturnine or an uneven humor; she was cheerful, amiable in conversation, but always modest; she knew how to prepare hearts, by pleasant little incidents, for most seasonably making her stroke. Her talk, although about God, was not tiresome but profitable, even to those who had not much love for mais profitables, à ceux mesmes, qui n'aimoient pas beaucoup la vertu. Ce n'estoit point vn esprit pointilleux, ny ombrageux; mais vn esprit franc, rond, droit, & si ferme, que ie puis dire, que dans toutes les affaires qu'elle ma communiquées, qui n'estoient pas quelque sois de petite importance, soit pour la pais soit pour le repos & pour l'auancement de leur maison, que i'ay toujours trouué en elle, vn Iugement, [183] non de fille, mais d'vn homme de bon sens.

Ses talens, & fes graces, luy donnoient vn afcendant, fur l'efprit des François, & des Americains, qui en eftoient charmés. Iamais ils ne l'approchoient, qu'ils ne fentiffent, & ne remportaffent, quelque bluette du feu qui bruloit dans fon ame; & apres tout, elle eftoit fi Religieufe, & portoit tant de respect à ses Reigles, notamment au seruice diuin, qu'elle tranchoit tout court, si tost que la cloche l'appelloit au Chœur. On luy dit vne fois, qu'elle auoit quitté trop tost, vne personne de consideration, qui souhaitoit vn plus long entretien. Dieu ne se paye pas, repondit-elle, de nos paroles, mais de nostre obeissance: ie quitterois vn Roy de la terre, pour obeir au Roy du Ciel.

Elle ne fut pas si tost arriuée en la Nouuelle France, quelle s'appliqua à l'etude des langues du pays, elle apprit la langue Algonquine, & la langue Huronne, auec assés de facilité. On peut dire que ces deux langues, luy estoient deux langues faintes, deux langues innocentes, ne s'en estant iamais seruies, que pour Dieu.

Quand elle eut acquis ces deux threfors, [184] elle departoit le pain de la parole de Dieu, auec tant de virtue. Hers was not a punctilious nature or one that took umbrage easily; but frank, well-rounded, upright, and so firm that I can say that, in all the communications made to me by her,—and sometimes they were of no little importance, whether in regard to the country, or for the tranquility or the advancement of their house,—I always found in her the Judgment, [183] not of a girl, but of a man of good sense.

"Her talents and her graces gave her an ascendancy over the minds of both French and Americans, who were charmed with them. They never approached her without feeling and carrying away some spark of the fire that burned in her soul; and, after all, she was so Religious and paid such respect to her Rules, especially to the divine service, that she would cut short all else as soon as the bell called her to the Choir. On one occasion she was told that she had left too soon a person of consequence, who wished for a longer interview. 'God is not satisfied,' she replied, 'with our words, but with our obedience; I would leave a King, in the world, to obey the King of Heaven.''

No sooner had she arrived in New France than she applied herself to the study of the languages of the country, learning the Algonquin and Huron tongues with considerable facility. Those two may be said to have been to her two holy languages, two innocent languages, never having been used by her except for God.

When she had acquired these two treasures, [184] she dispensed the bread of the word of God with so much grace to those poor people, that both children and grown persons loved her as their mother. She grace, à ces pauures peuples, que les petis, & les grands l'aymoient comme leur mere. instruits quantité, depuis les premiers elemens du christianisme, iusques à les rendre dignes du fainct Baptesme, & des autres Sacremens de l'Eglise: elle feruoit de Mere Spirituelle à plusieurs; leur donnans des auis, & des confeils si Chrestiens, pour leur conduitte dans les voyes de leur falut, qu'ils en estoient Non feulement les femmes, mais encor quelques hommes, tant Hurons qu'Algonquins, luy ouuroient leurs cœurs: ils luy propofoisen leurs peines, & leurs difficultés, auec vne entiere confiance: & toujours ils s'en retournoient fort foulagés, & fort édifiés. Son nom estoit connu dans tout le pays des Algonquins, & des Hurons: ils l'appelloient tantost Marie Iofeph en nostre langue, tantost la fille saincte, & la fille de Capitaine, en langue Huronne & Algonquine, ce font les deux noms qu'ils donnent en general, aux Religieufes de ce nouueau monde.

Si ces nouuelles plantes auoient de l'amour & du respect pour la Mere Marie de [185] fainct Ioseph, il ne se peut dire combien elle les cherissoit, & combien fainctement elle les caressoit, c'estoient ses creatures, pour le salut desquelles elle eut donné mille vies, & eut souffert mille morts. Elle faisoit tous les ans son possible, aupres de Madame sa bonne mere, & aupres de quelques autres personnes de pieté, pour mandier quelque aumosne, & quelque Charitez, pour ses bons Neophytes, & en contre échange, elle leur procuroit des Mediateurs, & des Mediatrices aupres de Nostre Seigneur, ce qu'elle a continué iusques à la mort.

Elle ne prenoit pas facilement l'effort, & ne croyoit instructed many of them, beginning with the first elements of Christianity and leading up to the point where they were worthy of holy Baptism and of the other Sacraments of the Church: she was the Spiritual Mother of many, giving them such Christian advice and counsel for their guidance in the paths of their salvation, that they were charmed therewith. Not only the women, but also some men, -- Hurons, as well as Algonquins,—opened their hearts to her, stating to her their troubles and difficulties with an entire confidence; and they always returned from these interviews greatly comforted and edified. Her name was known in all the country of the Algonquins and of the Hurons, she being called by them sometimes Marie Joseph, in our tongue; again, "the holy maiden," and "the Captain's daughter," in the Huron and Algonquin languages; those are the two names that they commonly give to the Nuns of this new world.

If these new plants had love and respect for Mother Marie de [185] saint Joseph, it is impossible to express how much she cherished them, and with what holy love she caressed them; they were her creatures, for whose salvation she would have given a thousand lives, and suffered a thousand deaths. Every year, she used her utmost influence with Madame her good mother, and with other persons of piety, to obtain some alms and Charitable offerings for her good Neophytes; and, in exchange, she procured for those benefactors Mediators of both sexes with Our Lord. This practice she continued until her death.

She did not enter upon an undertaking thoughtlessly, and did not believe in all kinds of spirits; she pas à toutes fortes d'esprits, elle consideroit les choses en Dieu, deuant que de les embrasser, & quand elle auoit receu quelques ordres de fa part, luy feul l'en pouuoit dispenser. Les creatures ne l'en faisoient iamais demordre. Oue n'a-t'on pas fait, pour l'ebranler dans fa vocation de Canadas? on luy a tiré des coups capables d'abbattre vn Geant. Si-tost qu'elle eut fait le premier pas fortant de Tours, pour aller en cette Region lointaine, ou Dieu l'appelloit, le bruit, & la cause de son voyage, s'estant repandu [186] bien loing, ceux qui f'interreffoient dans l'honneur de sa maison, informerent Messieurs ses parens si chaudement du mal-heur où ils iettoient leur fille, leur difans que le Canadas eftoit vn pays perdu de reputation, que le vice y tenoit le haut bout, qu'on auoit vsé de surprise en leur endroit; mais qu'il estoit encor aifé de rompre ce dessein. La dessus Monsieur de la Troche, enuoye des lettres à fa fille tres-puiffantes, & des ordres de l'arrester la part ou elle se Nostre Canadienne qui vit bien que ces trouuera. donneurs d'auis, n'entendoient pas la Geographie, prenant l'Amerique Septentrionale pour la Meridionale, ne se trompans que de huit cent lieuës, & dauantage, ne s'estonna point: elle eut recours à l'oraifon, & à fa plume: elle agit aupres de Dieu, & aupres de Monsieur son pere: le premier estoit de son party; elle eut plus de peine à gagner le fecond, elle respondit si clairement, & si sagement, & auec tant de zele, qu'on fit arrester toute la violence qu'on luy preparoit: mais on remit l'affaire; entre les mains du R. P. Dom Raymond de fainct Bernard, Prouincial des RR. PP. Fueillans, qui pour ce fujet se trasporta iufques [187] à Dieppe. Comme il auoit les took counsel with God on all matters, before choosing them; and, when she had received any orders from him, he alone could exempt her from their execution. No creature ever made her relax from her purpose. What was not done to shake her in her call to Canadas? Blows were given her, capable of prostrating a Giant. As soon as she had taken the first step, setting out from Tours to go to that distant Region whither God was calling her, the report of her journey and its object having spread [186] far and wide, those who were interested in the honor of her house represented to her parents in such vivid terms the wretchedness to which they were consigning their daughter,—telling them that Canadas was a country of ruined reputation, that vice held the upper hand there, that unfair means had been employed in their case, but that it was still easy to balk the plan,—that thereupon Monsieur de la Troche sent a very urgent letter to his daughter, and orders to stop her wherever she should be found. Our Canadian seeing plainly that these givers of advice did not understand Geography, but took North America for South, making an error of only eight hundred leagues, and more - was not at all dismayed. She had recourse to prayer and to her pen, taking action with God and with Monsieur her father. The former was on her side, but she had more difficulty in winning the latter. She answered so clearly and discreetly, with such zeal, that all the violent measures that had been planned against her were checked. The matter, however, was placed in the hands of the Reverend Father Dom Raymond de saint Bernard, Provincial of the Reverend Feuillant Fathers, 5 who made a journey on this account as yeux faits aux lumieres, qui viennent d'vn lieu, plus releué que le Soleil, & les oreilles degagées, il fe rendit bien-toft, aux raifons de nostre Canadienne, portant sentence en sa faueur.

Sa vocation ne fut pas feulement combattuë en France, on luy fit guerre iufques en Canadas, La nouuelle que les Hiroquois, auançoient tous les iours de plus en plus, dans le quartier des François, & que les infirmités de cette bonne mere, croissoient à veuë d'œil, donna tant de crainte à des parens, qui aimoient tendrement vne si fage fille, qu'ils la presserent, & la coniurerent, par tout ce qu'il auoient de plus cher au monde, de se rendre encor vne fois visible en France. Cette ame courageuse n'auoit garde de descendre de fa Croix; comme elle estoit eloquente sur ce sujet, elle les conuainquit par des raifons si fortes, tirées de la volonté, de celuy qui l'auoit appellée en ce pays de benediction, & de la fidelité qu'elle estoit obligée de luy rendre, qu'ils n'oferent plus l'attaquer par eux mesmes, demeurans edifiés de son courage, & surpris de la force de fon raifonnement.

[188] Monseigneur l'Euesque de la Rochelle, son oncle dit franchement au R. P. Hierôme Lallemant, qui se donna l'honneur de l'aller saluër, repassant en Canadas; qu'il auoit resolut de la rappeller en France: mais que les lettres l'en auoient empesché, il les voyoit si puissantes en raisons, elles parloient si hautement de la perseuerance qu'on doit auoir en sa vocation, qu'il creut, qu'vn esprit plus haut que le sien, les auoit dictées: c'est pourquoy il la laissa en paix. Elle aimoit cette chere contrée, comme vn parterre emaillé de sleurs, comme vn champ planté de lauriers, comme vn pays, où il y a plus de Dieu, far [187] as Dieppe. Having his eyes adapted to the light that comes from a source more exalted than the Sun, and his ears entirely free, he very soon yielded to the arguments of our Canadian and gave sentence in her favor.

Her calling was not only combated in France, but it even met with opposition in Canadas. The news that the Hiroquois were advancing farther and farther every day into the French district, and that this good mother's infirmities were visibly increasing, gave so much alarm to parents who tenderly loved so good a daughter, that they urged her and conjured her, by all that was dearest to them in the world, to show herself once more in France. That courageous soul took heed not to descend from the Cross; as she was eloquent on this subject, she convinced them by such strong arguments, drawn from the will of him who had called her to this land of benediction, and from the fidelity she was bound to render him, that they no longer ventured to attack her on their own responsibility, being left in a state of edification at her courage, and of surprise at the force of her reasoning.

[188] Monseigneur the Bishop of la Rochelle, her uncle, said frankly to the Reverend Father Hierôme Lallemant,—who did himself the honor of going to salute him, on his way back to Canadas,—that he had resolved to recall her to France, but that her letters had prevented him; they seemed to him so cogent in argument and spoke in such exalted language of the perseverance one ought to have in his calling, that he believed a spirit higher than her own had dictated them; for that reason, he left her in peace. She loved this dear country as a flower-garden dotted with flowers, as a field planted with laurels, as a land qu'il y a moins de la creature, ce n'est pas qu'il ne soit fort bon, estant paralelle à la France; mais n'estant pas encor bien cultiué, il porte plus de fruits pour le Ciel, que pour la terre.

DE SA PATIENCE & DE SA MORT.

It me femble qu'on peut dire, que la patience est l'vne des plus fortes marques, & des preuues plus autantiques de la vertu. Le moyen d'estre humble, d'estre pauure euangeliquement, d'estre [189] obeysfant, & de posseder beaucoup d'autres vertus, si on n'est bien armé, & bien couuert du bouclier de la patience? Depuis que Nostre Seigneur eut dit à cette Amazone Canadienne, qu'elle ne viuoit plus que de foy & de croix, elle ne fit plus que languir, elle fut attaquée d'vn afme, & d'vne maladie de poulmon, & d'vne oppression de poitrine, qui la faisoit tousser inceffamment: Elle crachoit le fang, & ne se pouuoit quasi mouuoir fans douleur. Elle dit confidemment à la Mere de l'Incarnation, en fa derniere maladie, qu'elle n'auoit point porté de fanté depuis ces bienheureuses paroles. La fiévre ne la quittoit quasi iamais, le mal la faifoit fouffrir, mais iamais plaindre: Iamais elle ne demandoit de particularitez: Iamais elle ne s'abfentoit des observances, elle gardoit ses Regles ponctuellement; il ne falloit ny Rome, ny Banquiers, ny difpenfes pour elle. Comme elle auoit vne belle voix, & qu'elle entendoit bien la Musique, non seulement elle chantoit, & psalmodioit, mais elle conduifoit encore le Chœur, à quoy fans doute elle auoit grace: car elle y reüffiffoit à merueille, nonobstant ses difficultez de poulmon. Sa [190] perseuerance dans cet exercice iusques à la where, the more there is of God, the less there is of the creature,—not that it is not an excellent country, being in the same latitude as France; but, as it is not yet well cultivated, it bears more fruits for Heaven than for the earth.

OF HER PATIENCE AND OF HER DEATH.

It seems to me that patience may be said to be one of the strongest marks and most authentic proofs of virtue. What means is there of being humble, of being poor, in the gospel sense, of being [189] obedient and of possessing many other virtues, if one is not armed and well protected by the buckler of patience? From the time when Our Lord told this Canadian Amazon that she would live thenceforth only by faith and crosses, she did nothing but waste away,—being attacked with an asthma, a disease of the lungs, and an oppression at the chest, which caused her to cough incessantly. She spat blood, and could scarcely move without pain. In her last illness, she told Mother de l'Incarnation in confidence that she had not been well since those blessed words. Her fever scarcely ever left her; her ailment made her suffer, but never complain. She never asked for any special favors, never absented herself from observances, but kept her Rules punctually; neither Rome, nor Bankers,6 nor dispensations were needed for her. As she had a beautiful voice and understood Music well, not only did she sing and chant the psalms, but she also led the Choir, for which office she doubtless had aptitude; for she succeeded in it marvelously, notwithstanding her lung troubles. Her [190] perseverance in this exercise, down to the time of her death, made it evident that her patience mort, a fait voir que fa patience estoit heroïque: aussi peut-on dire que cette patience s'estoit changée en amour de complaisance aux adorables desseins de Dieu sur sa conduite.

Si on la plaignoit, on luy donnoit de la honte: si on luy vouloit rendre quelque petit feruice, on la iettoit dans la confusion. Les autres, à son dire, auoient bien plus de besoin d'estre soulagée que non pas elle; Lors que le mal estoit si grand, qu'elle estoit contrainte de demeurer au lict, elle rendoit vne si aimable obeissance à ses Infirmieres, elle receuoit leurs feruices auec tant de reconnoissance, elle fe rendoit si complaisante à la façon dont elles la gouuernoient, qu'il n'y en auoit aucune dans la maison qui ne se tinst heureuse de la seruir. Ayant passé plus de quatre ans en des maladies, qui sembloient luy donner de temps en temps quelque peu de relasche: enfin elle fentit le iour de la Purification de la faincte Vierge de l'année precedente 1652, le coup qui la deuoit emporter.

Tous fes maux redoublerent, elle n'auoit repos ny iour ny nuict, & cependant [191] elle ne laissoit pas d'aller au Chœur pour y communier, & pour participer aux conferences fainctes qu'on y faisoit de temps en temps. Le quatriesme iour de Mars elle tomba dans vne telle extremité, qu'on luy sit receuoir le Viatique, & l'Extreme-Onction: mais Dieu la laissa encore vn mois en Purgatoire, c'est ainsi que j'appelle les derniers iours de la vie.

Remarquez, s'il vous plaift, que fon Monastere ayant esté brussé, & reduit en cendres l'année qui a precedé sa mort, les pauures Vrsulines estoient logées dans vn trou, pour ainsi dire: leurs licts, ou leurs was heroic; also it can be said that this patience was transformed into a compliant love toward the adorable purposes of God in regard to her guidance.

If any one pitied her, she was made ashamed; if one wished to do her a service, she was thrown into confusion. The others, according to her account, had much more need of succor than she. When her illness was at such a height that she was forced to remain in bed, she rendered such winsome obedience to her Nurses, she received their services with so much gratitude, she showed herself so compliant with their way of governing her, that there was not one in the house who did not deem herself happy to serve her. After passing more than four years in ailments which seemed, from time to time, to give her some slight respite, at length,—on the day of the Purification of the blessed Virgin, of last year, 1652,—she felt the stroke that was to carry her off.

All her ills redoubled, she had no rest either day or night, and yet [191] she did not cease to go to the Choir for the purpose of receiving communion, and taking part in the holy conferences that were held there from time to time. On the fourth day of March, she became so critically ill that the Viaticum and Extreme Unction were administered to her; but God left her a month longer in Purgatory—for so I call the last days of her life.

Note, if you please, that—her Monastery having been burnt and reduced to ashes, in the year preceding her death—the poor Ursulines were lodged in a hole, so to speak. Their beds, or their cabins, were one above another, as one sees those shelves in the Merchants' shops where they arrange their merchandise. She had her bed on one of these shelves.

cabanes estoient les vnes fur les autres, comme on voit ces rayons dans les boutiques des Marchands, où ils rangent leurs marchandises. Elle estoit couchée dans l'vn de ces ravons. Le bruit des petites efcolieres, le chant & la pfalmodie du Chœur dans vne maison toute ramassée: le tintamarre qui se faisoit fur vn plancher d'aix par des fandales de bois dont fe servoient les Religieuses, le seu leur ayant dérobé leurs autres chauffures: la fumée qui se gliffoit par tout, & qui n'étoit pas bien propre pour arrester sa toux, & guerir fon poulmon, & mille autres incommoditez [192] qui fe rencontrent dans les maifons de ceux qui ont tout perdu par vn grand incendie: toutes ces croix, dis-je, n'ont iamais troublé la ferenité de son cœur, ny alteré la douceur de sa patience. Toutes ces incommoditez ne font encore que des rofes. Nostre Seigneur luy a donné les degrez de fer & de fouffrance, à proportion qu'il l'a voulu hautement éleuer dans les Cieux.

Elle apprehendoit vne maladie qui exigeast des feruices fascheux à la malade, & aux Infirmieres: Elle craignoit des douleurs trop aiguës, de peur que sa foiblesse ne siste naufrage à sa patience: Elle souhaitoit d'estre libre des grands delaissemens interieurs qu'elle auoit souffert autresois, de crainte de ne pas rendre auec amour la sidelité qu'elle auoit voüée à son Seigneur. Elle tomba iustemet dans ces trois espreuues: mais celuy qui la ietta dans ces combats, luy sit remporter hautement la victoire.

Elle deuint si fortement & si pleinement hydropique, qu'on prit resolution de luy faire des ouuertures aux iambes pour attirer les eaux qui la vouloient suffoquer. Le Chirurgien luy sit de grandes [193] The noise of the little scholars; the singing and chanting of psalms by the Choir, in a closely crowded household; the din made on a plank floor by wooden sandals, which the Nuns used, the fire having robbed them of their other footwear; the smoke which invaded every nook and corner, and was not well suited for arresting her cough, or curing her lungs; and a thousand other inconveniences [192] which are met with in the houses of those who have lost everything in a great fire,—all these crosses, I say, never disturbed the serenity of her heart or altered the sweetness of her patience. All these hardships were as yet only roses; degrees of iron and of suffering were given her by Our Lord in proportion to his will to exalt her high in Heaven.

She dreaded an illness that should demand services burdensome alike to patient and to Nurses; she feared pains of too great severity, lest her weakness might bring shipwreck to her patience; and she wished to be free from the great spiritual destitution that she had formerly suffered, for fear that she should not render with love the fidelity which she had vowed to her Lord. Precisely these three trials she encountered; but he who subjected her to these conflicts made her win the victory gloriously.

She became so extremely dropsical that it was resolved to make openings in her legs, in order to draw off the water that threatened to burst her flesh. The Surgeon made large [193] and deep incisions in her living flesh, so that the membrane was visible, the pain causing her to utter the holy Name of JESUS. Then, becoming conscious of her very innocent murmur, "Alas!" she said, "I am very weak-spirited; forgive me the unedifying conduct I & de profondes incisions dans la chair viue, en sorte qu'on voyoit la membrane: la douleur luy sit prononcer le fainct Nom de IESVS. Puis s'apperceuant de sa plainte fort innocente: Helas! dit-elle, ie suis bien sensible, pardonnez-moy la mauuaise edification que ie vous donne. Ce remede appliqué la sepmaine saincte, n'eut autre effect que de luy faire tenir compagnie à son Redempteur en ce temps de souffrances. Ie ne dis rien des douleurs qu'elle souffrit quad on pensoit ses playes. Le Chirurgien, homme experimenté, voyant que la cangrene s'emparoit de ses iambes, appliqua vn appareil dans ces grades ouuertures, qui luy causa des douleurs si cuisantes, si aiguës, & si continuelles 3. iours durant, qu'on croyoit à tous momens qu'elle allast expirer.

Ces tourmens luy fembloient doux, à comparaison des angoiffes interieures, & des abandons qu'elle fouffroit en l'ame: Elle auoit ressenty assez souuent ces grandes croix, & ces delaissemes: mais ce coup, qui fut le dernier, fut le plus violet de tous, il est croyable qu'il la purifia iufqu'au vif, & qu'il emporta les plus petites taches de fon ame. Elle parloit de Dieu inceffamment, [194] & il luy fembloit qu'elle ne croyoit quasi pas qu'il fust ny au Ciel, ny en la terre: Elle agiffoit, & elle ne le fçauoit pas: elle aimoit, & elle ne le connoissoit pas. Dieu luy auoit ofté la veüe & la reflexion fur les fainctes operations de fon ame. En vn mot, ce coup fut la confommation de fa vie, qu'elle acceptoit auec des foumissions heroïques à fa diuine Majesté, pour honorer le Confummatum est, que son bien-aimé Fils prononça sur l'arbre de la Croix. C'est veritablement dans ces derniers iours de fa vie, qu'elle ne viuoit plus que de am showing you." This remedy, applied in holy week, produced no other effect than to make her bear her Redeemer company in that time of suffering. I say nothing of the agonies she endured when her wounds were dressed. The Surgeon, who was a man of experience, seeing that gangrene of her legs was supervening, applied to those large openings a dressing which caused her such intense, acute, and continual pain, for the space of 3 days, that it was believed at every moment that she was going to die.

These torments seemed sweet to her in comparison with the inner agonies and abandonment that she suffered in her soul. She had often enough experienced these great crosses and feelings of desolation; but this stroke, which was the last, was the most violent of all. It is reasonable to believe that it purified her to the quick, and washed away the smallest stains from her soul. She spoke of God without ceasing, [194] and it seemed to her that she scarcely believed that he was either in Heaven or on earth. She was active, and did not know it: she loved, and was unconscious of it. God had deprived her of sight and reflection concerning the holy operations of her soul. In a word, this stroke was the consummation of her life; and she accepted it with heroic submission to his divine Majesty, in order to honor the Consummatum est which his well-beloved Son pronounced on the tree of the Cross. It was truly in these last days of her life that she ceased to live except by faith and crosses; and this was so little known by those to whom she did not open her heart, that one would have said she was surfeited with delight. Her talks with God were only on love, submission, and resignation to his adorable decrees.

foy, & de croix, & cela estoit si peu connu de ceux à qui elle n'ouuroit pas son cœur, que l'on eut dit qu'elle regorgeoit de delices. Ses colloques auec Dieu n'estoiet que d'amour, que de soumission, que de refignation à fes adorables volontez. Elle ne parloit dans fes entretiens auec les personnes qui la visitoient, que des biens de l'autre vie, des baffeffes de tout ce qui est sur la terre, des richesses de la fainte Religion, de la fidelité qu'on doit rendre à fa vocation. Ah! que ie fuis heureuse, disoit-elle à ses Sœurs, de mourir en vn lieu pauure, d'estre priuée des petites delices de la Frace! Escriuez, ie vous en prie, à Monsieur de [195] la Rochelle, à nos cheres Meres de Frace, à mes parens, & les affeurez bien que ie meurs trescontente de les auoir tous quitez. Ah! que ie fuis fatisfaite d'auoir abadonné ce que ie pouuois pretedre dans le monde! Oue mon ame est contente d'estre venuë en ces nouuelles contrées! Faites-leur scauoir, & n'y manquez pas, les grads biens que ie ressens de ma vocation au païs des Sauuages. Elle ne fe pouuoit lasser de benir Dieu des grandes graces qu'il luy auoit faites en fuite de cette vocation, & de cet appel. Elle difoit toutes ces chofes dans fon abandon, ioüiffant d'vne paix fecrete, qui n'exclud pas les fouffrances: Paix qui nage au dessus de tous les sens, qui est logée si haut, que toutes les choses d'icy bas n'v scauroient atteindre, & ne la sçauroient troubler.

Dieu qui fait tout pour le mieux, ne voulut pas accorder à la fidele Amante la grace de paffer de cette vie en l'autre dans ce faint abandon, il luy donna trois iours deuant fa mort, des auant-gousts du Paradis, toutes les veuës de ses peines luy furet oftées, toutes ses douleurs furent appaisées, ce n'estoit que In her conversation with those who visited her, she spoke only of the happiness of the other life, of the baseness of everything earthly, of the riches of the holv Religion, and of the fidelity one ought to render to his calling. "Ah, how happy I am," said she to her Sisters, "to die in a poor place, to be deprived of the petty delights of France! Write, I pray you, to Monsieur de 195] la Rochelle, to our dear Mothers of France, to my parents, and assure them fully that I die well content at having left them all. Ah, how entirely satisfied I am at having given up what I could have claimed in the world! How glad my soul is that it came to these new regions! Let them know, without fail, the great blessings I experience from my call to the country of the Savages." She could not bless God enough for the great favors he had shown her after that call and that summons. All these things she said in her forsaken condition. enjoying a secret peace which does not exclude sufferings,—a peace which soars over all the senses, and is lodged so high that nothing in all this lower world can reach or disturb it.

It was not the will of God, who does all for the best, to grant the faithful Loving one the grace of a passage from this life to the other during this holy state of abandonment; he gave her three days, before her death, of the foretastes of Paradise, all sight of her sufferings being removed from her, all her pains being stilled, and her heart filled with nothing but joy and delight. She said to the Reverend Father Hierosme Lallement, [196] who had been her director for some years: "I know, my Father, that God has promised to those who should leave anything in his name, a hundredfold in this world, and eternal life iove & que delices das fon cœur: Elle dit au R. P. Hier. Lallemant, [196] qui la dirigeoit depuis quelques années: le fçay, mon Pere, que Dieu a promis à ceux qui quitteroiet quelque chose en son nom, le centuple dés cette vie, & la vie eternelle en l'autre. Pour le centuple de cette vie, ie luy en donneray quittance quand il luy plaira, j'en fuis tres-abondamment payée: pour la vie eternelle, ie l'attends bientost. Elle renouuella ses vœux de Religion, demanda pardon aux Affistans, receut le S. Viatique, remercia bien humblement le R. P. Paul Ragueneau, Superieur de nos Missions, des grandes assistances qu'il auoit renduës à leur Maison, notamment depuis leur incendie, le fuppliant de continuer ses bontez enuers fes cheres Sœurs: Elle rendit fes actions de graces aux Medecins du païs qui l'auoient charitablemet affistée, les affeurat qu'elle prieroit Dieu pour eux dans le Ciel, f'il luy faisoit misericorde. M. le Gouverneur l'enuova visiter de sa part, pour se recommander à ses prieres, la suppliant en outre, de se fouuenir deuant Dieu des grades necessitez du païs qu'elle quittoit. Sa respose fut toute pleine de respect & d'humilité.

Encor qu'elle baifsât de momens en momens, elle auoit neantmoins l'efprit si present [197] à soy, & si libre, que parlat à ses Sœurs dans le particulier, vn peu de temps auant sa mort, elle les entretenoit de son enterrement. Comme vous estes peu, leur disoitelle, il ne saut pas que vous preniez la peine de me porter en terre, seruez-vous des mains d'autres personnes: Ce trauail vous empescheroit de prier, & de loüer Dieu, & de bien garder les ceremonies que l'Eglise a ordonnées pour l'enterrement des Reli-in the other. For the hundredfold in this world, I will give him a receipt whenever he wishes it; I am very abundantly repaid. As to the eternal life, I expect it before long." She renewed her Religious vows, asked forgiveness of those Present, received the Holy Viaticum, and thanked very humbly the Reverend Father Paul Ragueneau, Superior of our Missions, for the great assistance he had rendered their House, especially since their fire, begging him to continue his goodness toward her dear Sisters. She rendered her acknowledgments to the Physicians of the country who had charitably assisted her, assuring them that she would pray to God for them in Heaven, if he showed her mercy. Monsieur the Governor sent to visit her in his name, in order to commend himself to her prayers,—begging her, besides, to remember before God the great needs of the country she was leaving. Her reply was full of respect and humility.

Although she sank from moment to moment, yet her mind remained so well under her control [197] and so free, that, speaking to her Sisters in private, a little before her death, she talked with them about her burial. "As you are few in number," she said to them, "you must not take the trouble to bear me to the grave; make use of others' hands. That task would prevent you from praying, from praising God, and from observing with care the ceremonies which the Church has prescribed for the interment of Nuns." And thereupon, as she had a peculiar love for the Church and respected its smallest ordinances, she gently explained to them those ceremonies; and ascending thence even into the Heavens, she told of the wonders of the other life. "Our hearts," says gicus. Et là-dessus comme elle aimoit vniquement l'Eglise, respectat ses plus petites ordonnances, elle leur expliquoit doucement ces ceremonies; & montant de là iusques dans les Cieux, elle rapportoit des merueilles de l'autre vie. Nos cœurs, dit la Mere qui l'a conu si particulierement, estoient frappez de deux sortes passions: la ioye de la voir dans ces hautes dispositions, dilatoit leurs cœurs; & à mesme temps, la tristesse de la perte que nous faissons, les resservoit.

Elle fut 24. heures en l'agonie, fans iamais perdre ny le iugement, ny la parole: Elle répõdoit à toutes les questions qu'on luy faisoit, elle formoit tous les actes d'amour, de foumission, de resignation qu'on luy suggeroit, & mesme en expirant elle [198] fit connoistre qu'elle estoit presente à soy, & attentiue à ce qu'on luy disoit.

Enfin le 4. iour d'Avril de l'année 1652. fur les 8. heures du foir, cette ame fainte faifant diuorce auec fon corps, quitta la terre pour môter dans les Cieux: Sa face en mourant parut si belle, & si Angelique, qu'au lieu de nous donner de la douleur de son depart, dit la Mere de l'Incarnation, Dieu nous sit sentir vn petit eschantillon de sa gloire, par vne onction interieure, si douce & si savoureuse, qu'elle remplit tous nos cœurs de ioye: Il n'y en eut pas vne de nous qui n'experimentât l'effect d'vne grace trespresente, & sort extraordinaire, & comme vne certitude que nous auions vne bonne Aduocate aupres de Dieu. On se sentie porté à l'inuoquer, & en l'inuoquant on ressentie fruict de sa demande. Plusieurs ont fait cette experience depuis sa mort.

Son conuoy ne fe fit pas auec les pompes de l'Europe, mais auec tout ce qu'il y auoit d'honorable au the Mother who knew her so intimately, "were struck with two sorts of passions: they dilated with joy, at seeing her in this exalted frame of mind; and at the same time they were stricken with sadness, at the loss we were undergoing."

She was for 24 hours in the death-agony, never losing either her reason or her speech the while. She answered all the questions that were asked her; performed all the acts of love, submission, and resignation that were suggested to her; and, even in dying, [198] signified that she was conscious and attentive to what was being said to her.

At length, on the 4th day of April of the year 1652, toward 8 o'clock in the evening, that sainted soul, divorcing itself from its body, left the earth to ascend into Heaven. "Her face at dying appeared so beautiful and so Angelic," says Mother de l'Incarnation, "that, instead of giving us grief at her departure, God made us perceive a little glimpse of her glory, by means of a spiritual unction, so sweet and savory that it filled all our hearts with joy. There was not one of us who did not experience the effect of a most present and extraordinary grace, and a virtual certainty that we had a good Advocate with There was a feeling that prompted one to God. invoke her, and upon doing so, one felt conscious of having her petition granted. Several have had that experience, since her death."

Her funeral was held, not with the pomp of Europe, but with all the honor the country could show her, and with all the affection and regret of the French and the Savages, who loved and cherished her during her life, and respect her as a saint after her death.

païs, auec toutes les affections, & tous les regrets des Frãçois, & des Sauuages qui l'aimoient, & qui la cheriffoient pendant fa vie, & qui la respectent comme vne faincte apres fa mort.

[199] Vne heure apres, ou enuiron, que ce facré depost fut mis en terre, vne personne digne de soy (dit la Mere qui a fait ces remarques) s'en allat pour quelque action de charité, à vne lieuë de Kebec, nostre chere defuncte luy apparut par vne vision intellectuelle: Son port estoit remply de majesté, sa face couuerte de rayons de lumiere & de gloire, ses yeux capables de consommer vn cœur; Il m'a asseuré (adjoûte-elle) que ses regards causerent vn tel assaut d'amour de Dieu au sond de son ame, qu'il en pensa mourir. Elle l'accompagna iusqu'au lieu où sa charité le portoit, & se rendit encor presente au retour, par vne saçon sort interieure, mais tres-certaine, traitant auec luy par voye d'intelligence, sur des sujets particuliers dont ie ne puis parler.

Le lendemain, la mesme personne s'en allant à l'Isle d'Orleans sur le grand Fleuue glacé, à deux lieües de Kebec, le flux de la mer qui monte iusques-là, fauorisé de la chaleur du Printéps, auoit destaché, & abysmé quelques-vnes de ces glaces espaisses, qui charget tous les ans le grand fleuue de S. Laurens, & le froid de la nuict auoit formé vne petite croûte, ou vne petite [200] glace, sur ces endroits d'où les grandes estoiet parties. La personne dont nous parlons, marchant sur cette glace fort mince, sans y faire reslexion, nostre desuncte luy parlant au sond du cœur, luy dit clairemet cette parole: Arreste-toy. Il s'arrest, il leue les yeux qu'il tenoit baissez, & regardant à l'entour de soy, il se vit enuironné d'eau [199] "About an hour after this sacred trust had been consigned to the earth, a person worthy of credence" (these are the words of the Mother who made these notes) "was on his way to perform some deed of charity at a league's distance from Kebec, when our dear departed one appeared to him in a mental vision. Her bearing was full of majesty, her face suffused with rays of light and glory, and her eyes capable of subduing any heart. He assured me" (she adds) "that her looks caused in his inmost soul such an overpowering sensation of love to God, that he thought he would die of it. She accompanied him as far as the place whither his errand of mercy led him, and again manifested herself on his return, in a manner eminently spiritual, but very certain, - holding communication with him, through his understanding, in regard to private matters, of which I cannot speak.

"On the next day, when the same person was traveling to the Island of Orleans, over the frozen surface of the great River, two leagues away from Kebec, the tide, which rises as far up as that point, aided by the warmth of Spring, had detached and borne down some of those thick blocks of ice that every year fill the great river St. Lawrence; and the cold of night had formed a thin crust of [200] ice over those places from which those blocks had been separated. The person of whom we are speaking was inadvertently walking on this very thin ice, when our departed sister, speaking to his inner consciousness, uttered this word clearly, 'Stop!' He stopped, raised his eyes, which were before bent on the ground, and, looking around him, saw that he was encompassed on all sides by water. He pierced de tous costez, il perce cette petite glace auec son baston, pour voir s'il n'y en auroit point vne autre plus espaisse au dessous, comme il arriue assez souuent, il ne trouue que des abysmes sous soy: Il se recommande à celle qui l'auoit arresté, & tout saisy de crainte, il retourne au plustost sur ses pas. Quad il sur en lieu d'asseurance, il reconnut qu'il auoit marché vn long espace de chemin sur les eaux sans ensoncer; aussi ne luy sembloit-il pas qu'il marchât, tat il se sentoit supporté. En sin il a rendu témoignage que la Mere Marie de S. Ioseph luy auoit sauué la vie, qu'il ne pouuoit sortir de ce dager sans miracle. Il l'appelle maintenat son Ange, assurant qu'il a receu depuis ce temps là de nouuelles saueurs de cette Ame d'élite.

Ie trouue icy la fin des Memoires qui font tombez entre mes mains, encore que ie fçache bien que le pays ne découure les graces & les faueurs extraordinaires qu'il reçoit de Dieu, qu'à tres-peu de perfonnes; fi faut-il qu'il fouffre, puis qu'il nous à doné la peine de dreffer en France la Relation, qu'on faffe part au public de ce petit threfor.

the thin ice with his staff, to see if there was not a thicker layer underneath, as is often enough the case, but found only abysmal depths under him. Commending himself anew to her who had arrested his steps, and utterly overcome with fear, he retraced his course as rapidly as possible. When he was in a place of safety, he became aware that he had walked a long distance on the water without sinking into it; moreover it did not seem to him that he was walking, so strongly did he feel himself upheld. In fine, he rendered testimony that Mother Marie de St. Joseph had saved his life, and that he could not have escaped this danger without a miracle. He now calls her his Angel, declaring that since that time he has received new favors from this elect Soul.''

I here reach the end of the Memoirs that have fallen into my hands. Although I am well aware that the country discloses to only a very few persons the extraordinary graces and favors that it receives from God, yet, since it has given us the trouble of preparing the Relation in France, it must permit us to communicate this little treasure to the public.

10th. We left for the journey to Three Rivers: and were back at Ouebec on the 23rd day of the same month. We were not at Montreal: 1st, because the frigate, which belongs to the Community, was previously to make the voyage to Tadoussac, as being more necessary—the esperance, in which we went up to 3 Rivers, not being a vessel of the Community; 2nd, because Monsieur the Governor had no business at Montreal; 3rd, because there was nothing to carry to Montreal, all their [supplies] having been carried in the autumn: 4th, because, the peril of the voyage to Montreal being very great, it was not judged proper to undertake it without necessity.

The resolution of the council held was, that this nation was friendly and an ally of long standing to the Montagnais. These ambassadors had brought 36 fine large collars, for the gifts which they made, by way of giving thanks that their people had not been treated as enemies.

JUNE.

At the beginning of June, there arrives a canoe from Tadoussac, which brings the news that a Dutch ship came to that harbor for shelter, and that it had, on the 30th of May, detained Monsieur Lespiné.

On the 5th of June, a canoe is despatched in order to give aid and counsel to Monsieur Bourdon,—Father De Quen, Monsieur La Tour, Guillaume Couillart, Simon Guyon, 10 and St. Claude, a soldier.

On the 3rd, Master Abraham's shallop brings News of the arrival of Father Lyonne at Tadoussac, with Captain Poulet.

On the 6th, Father Lyonne and our letters arrived at half-past 4 o'clock in the morning. At evening before supper, in the refectory, I declared that Father françois Le Mercier was appointed superior by Our Reverend Father General; and,—because the bull of the Pope concerning the triennial term of Superiors obliged me to resign without delay,—pending the coming of Father Le Mercier from three Rivers, I appointed Father Hierosme Lallemant Vice-superior.

On the 8th, Captain Poulet anchored at Ouebec.

On the 9th, the shallop from Montreal arrived, bringing news about Michel Noela, killed by the Iroquois on the 20th of July; and about a canoe with two enemies, who came on the 21st of July to treat for peace,—one of whom was an Onneiochronnon named Tehoatirhon; the other, a Huron from onnonta, e.

On the 15th of August, the Jubilee was announced under the Authority of Monseigneur the Archbishop of rouen, who had sent hither the order to publish it. His order is to be preserved in the Archives, as an authentic document for the continuity of possession which the aforesaid lord Archbishop has already assumed by some other acts of spiritual government over this country. However, this publication of the Jubilee under his name and authority is the first act which has appeared conspicuously in the country; it is more fully authenticated because it was declared in the presence of the Governor, ipso non repugnante (Immo ipso præmonito et consentiente - quod tamen non est passim evulgandum), et In maxima populi frequentia, who subsequently gained this Jubilee, which could not here be otherwise obtained - the pope granting it only to the subjects of Prelates who requested it from him for their Diocesans.

Upon this matter it is to be remarked that, as no relations had been formed with any Bishop regarding the spiritual Government of this country until the year 1647, it was then considered, on occasion of the investitures and professions of the nuns, that we could not dispense therewith; and in the Jubilee, 1653.

Concerning the Authority of Monseigneur the Archbishop of rouen in this country, and the office of Vicargeneral for the Superior of our Society.

Le P. Vimont consulte en fce. sur ce fait.

Vimont passant en france fut sur tout chargé de cette affaire, pour l'assurance des professions des religieuses: le p Vimont apres auoir consulté rome, les principaux Peres de nõe Compie, de la maison Professe & du College, le sens plvf commun fut qu'il falloit s'addresser & attacher a M. de roüen; ensuite le pr. Vimont s'addressa au p. pingeolet pour lors rect^r. du College de roüen par la faueur & assistance duquel on obtint de M. l'Arch. de roüen l'Ancien, lettre de grands vicaires, ce qui estant apporté icy auec les lettres & les resolutions de tous nos PP confirmatiues de ce que dessví on proceda auec assurance a receuoir les professions des religieuses: on ne Iugea pas toutesfois a propos de faire encore esclater beaucoup au dehors cette affaire.

Le R. P. Superir. gd Vicr de Larch. de Depuis Mondit Sr. l'Arch. de roüen enuoya vne patente bien ample, adressée au r. p. Assistant par laquelle il establissoit le super. de la mission son Vicaire Gnal auec toutes les precautions possibles pour le bien de nostre Compie. & le dit sr. Arch. estant mort cette année 1653. son nepueu successeur en sa Charge & qui du viuant de son oncle auoit esté son Coädiuteur, enuoya vne semblable patente a celle de son oncle au r. p. Assistant, qui nvf fut icy apportés auec le mandem. pour la publicãon du Iubilé selon ce que dessus.

aforesaid year, father Vimont, going over Father Vimont takes to france, was especially charged with this business, to secure the validity of the nuns' professions. Father Vimont, after having consulted rome and the principal Fathers of our Society, - of the Professed house and of the College,—the very general opinion was that it was necessary to address and attach ourselves to Monseigneur of rouen. Next, father Vimont applied to father pingeolet, then rector of the College of rouen, by whose favor and assistance we obtained from Monseigneur the Archbishop of rouen, the Elder, a letter [with powers as] grand vicar. This document being brought hither, along with the letters and the resolutions of all our Fathers in ratification of the foregoing, we proceeded with confidence to receive the nuns' professions. We did not, however, Judge it proper, as yet, to noise this matter abroad to much extent.

Afterward, Monseigneur the Archbishop of rouen sent letters patent, sufficiently ample, addressed to the reverend father Assistant. whereby he established the superior of the mission as his Vicar-General, with all possible precautions for the benefit of our Society. Moreover, the said lord Archbishop having died in this year, 1653, his nephew, - who is his successor in Office, and who during his uncle's lifetime had been his Coadjutorsent a patent similar to his uncle's, to the reverend father Assistant, which was brought hither to us, along with the order for the publication of the Jubilee as above.

The Reverend Father Superior rand Franci The r ishop of rouen.

On a de plvf a noter que le susdit nepueu successeur, estant Coadiuteur de son Oncle donna lettre Dimissoire au sieur Gendron pour receuoir les ordres l'an 1652. & ce en considerãon qu'il estoit son subject pour auoir demeure enuiron 10. ans en ce pays: le mesme depuis la mort de son oncle a donné vn autre mandat pour faire Inquisition sur la vie & st. mort de nos Peres, de sorte que tout cela mis ensemble a fait Iuger que la chose estoit venue a sa maturité pour la faire doresnauant paroistre & esclater au dehors grand besoin seroit, ce qui s'est fait nunc primū par la publicãon susdite du Iubilé soubs le nom & authorité de Mondit Seign^r. It should be also noted that the aforesaid nephew and successor, while Coadjutor to his Uncle, gave a letter of Dismissal to sieur Gendron, that he might receive orders, in the year 1652,—and this in view of the fact that the latter was his subject, on account of having resided about 10 years in this country. The same, since his uncle's death, has given another order,—one for making an Inquiry regarding the lives and blessed deaths of our Fathers. In consequence, all that put together has led us to Conclude that the matter had come to its maturity,—so that, henceforth, there would be great need of publishing and displaying it abroad. This has been done. nunc primum, by the aforesaid publication of the Jubilee under the name and authority of Monseigneur the Archbishop of rouen, who was qualified as our prelate on that Day, 15th of August, in the presence, as we have said, of Monsieur the governor, and of all the assembled people, during high mass.14

In the night, the band of frenchmen who had pursued those who were carrying away Father Poncet, arrives at the cape. They learn that three Rivers is besieged, and that there has been fighting all day. Caron embarks in a canoe, in order to reach the spot: he safely arrives, toward midnight; he finds everything in good condition, and the inhabitants full of courage. The siege lasts more than 8 days: meanwhile they devastate the fields, setting fire to the peas already torn up. and to the cut corn: and at our redout on the hillside they kill the cattle, - among others, 8 horned beasts which belonged to our fathers. . . Eminentiss. e Reverendiss. Signore Padron Colendiffimo.

A compiacenza, che Vostra Eminenza mostrò, inten-, dendo i prosperi successi di queste Missioni, e la compassione, che portò à i disastri di quella, con il zelante desiderio di vederla quanto prima rimessa, oltre quello, che tutta la Compagnia, & io in particolare le deuo, con molti altri Soggetti di questa Missione, che hanno da' suoi fonti succhiato il latte della sacra Theologia; m' hà indotto à dedicarle la presente Relatione, alla formatione della quale la sua inclinatione hà non poco cooperato. Non è, se riguarda la persona, che scriue, e la semplicità dello stile, cosa degna dell' Eminenza Sua; mà la materia da se non è forsi spiaceuole, nè sarà, come spero, infruttuosa, e li Grandi deuono, come Vostra Eminenza fà, con grande esempio della Chiesa, imitar le perfettioni di Dio, qui humilia respicit, massime quando v' è honorato. Con questa sì ben fondata speranza glie la presento, e le bacio humilissimamente le sacre vesti. Di Macerata li 19. Luglio 1653.

Francesco Gioseppe Bressani.

Most Eminent and Most Reverend Signor, and Very Worshipful Patron.

HE pleasure which Your Eminence manifested upon learning the prosperity and success of these Missions; the compassion which you felt for the disasters of this one, together with the zealous desire of seeing it restored as soon as possible; and the gratitude that the whole Society, and I in especial, owe to you, - along with many other Persons in this Mission, who have sucked the milk of sacred Theology from your fountains, - have led me to dedicate to you the present Relation, to the composition of which your sympathy has contributed not a little. It is not, if you consider the person who writes, and the simplicity of the style, a thing worthy of Your Eminence; but the matter in itself is not, perhaps, displeasing, nor will be, as I hope, unfruitful; and the Great should—as does Your Eminence, a noble example to the Churchimitate the perfections of God, qui humilia respicit, especially when he is thereby honored. With this so well founded hope, I present it to you, and most humbly kiss your sacred robes. From Macerata, the 19th of July, 1653.

Your Most Reverend Eminence's

Most devoted and obliged Servant in Christ,
Francesco Gioseppe Bressani.

HEREAS Our Holy Father, Pope Urban VIII., on the 13th day of March, 1625, in the Sacred Congregation of the general Inquisition of the Holy Roman Church, made a Decree, and confirmed the same on the 5th day of June, 1634, by which he forbade any books, containing the actions, miracles, or revelations of men who have departed this life, famed for Sanctity or Martyrdom, or containing any favors supposed to have been received from God through their intercession, to be printed without being examined and approved by the Ordinary: and wishes that whatsoever has heretofore been printed without such examination and approbation, shall be in no manner considered as approved; and whereas, also, His Holiness has — on the 5th day of June, 1631 explained the same decree, to wit, that no eulogies of a Saint or Blessed should be permitted unconditionally, and so as to be directed to the person of such Saint or Blessed; but that such eulogies might well be permitted, as are given to their exemplary life and repute for sanctity, provided there is a protestation in the beginning, that the facts are not vouched for by the authority of the Roman Church, but that reliance is to be placed merely on the author: In compliance with this decree and its confirmation and explanation, with all due observance and reverence, I declare that, whatever is related by me in this book, I wish to understand and to be understood in no other sense than that in which is usually understood whatever is based upon mere human authority, and not on the divine authority of the Roman Catholic Church, or of the Holy Apostolic See, excepting however those, whom the same Holy See has entered on the catalogue of Saints, Blessed, and Martyrs.

[1] Proemio.

SUCCESSI funesti, e gloriosi insieme delle Missioni della nuoua Francia paese dell' America Settentrionale sono sin' hora stati ristretti ne' confini dell' Antica per esser stati ogni anno scritti solo in lingua Francese. Dall' altro canto essendo degni di esser saputi da per tutto meritarebbero d' esser trasseriti in qualche lingua, che sosse intesa là, doue la Francese non corre.

Questo è stato, ed è il desiderio di molti pieni di zelo, e di Santa curiofità, di faper i progressi della Fede in questi nuoui paesi. E per compiacerli è vn pezzo, che si è cominciato à pensare di farne vn' historia latina affai efatta. Mà come quest' opera richiede ancora molto tempo, e le giuste istanze di tanti meritano qualche fodisfatione, mi fono lafciato indurre, fenza pregiuditio dell' historia, che fe ne feriuerà più vniuersale, e più à longo di farne quì vno sbozzo, ò più tosto di darne vn faggio con la femplicità, e breuità la più grande, che potrò. Io non pretendo di parlare di tutto, ma folo dare vna cognitione affai rozza, particolarmente della Miffione de gli Huroni, che fiamo ftati costretti d' abbandonare, parlando come di paffaggio di quel, che toccarà all' altre. [1] Preface.

THE Events—disastrous, yet glorious—of the Missions of new France, a country of North America, have hitherto been known only within the limits of Old France, having been written every year in the French language alone. Nevertheless, as they are worthy of being known everywhere, they deserve to be translated into some language which might be understood where French is not current.

This has been, and is, the desire of many, full of zeal and of Devout curiosity to know the progress of the Faith in those new countries. And to gratify them, I have thought, for some time past, of composing on the subject a latin history, fairly exact. 16 But, as that work still requires much time, and the reasonable solicitations of so many deserve some satisfaction, I have allowed myself to be led - without prejudice to the history, which shall be written more generally and at greater length—to make a sketch thereof at once; or, rather, to give an essay thereon, with as great simplicity and brevity as possible. I do not claim to speak of everything, but only to afford a somewhat rough conception, -- particularly of the Mission of the Hurons, which we have been forced to abandon, speaking, in passing, of what pertains to the others. I shall divide the whole into three parts: the first will be concerned with nature, the second with grace, the third with gloria. Primo confiderando il naturale de' Barbari, e del paefe. Secondo la loro conuersione opra principalmente della gratia. Terzo la morte, e confeguentemente la gloria come speriamo d'alcuni, che v' hanno grandemente cooperato.

glory. First, will be considered the nature of the Barbarians and of the country; secondly, their conversion, principally a work of grace; thirdly, the death, and consequently the glory, as we hope, of some who have greatly coöperated therein.

CAPITOLO PRIMO. SITUATIONE, & INUENTIONE DELLA NUOUA FRANCIA.

PER nuoua Francia si piglia communemente lo spatio di terra, e d'acqua, che è da i 36. gradi di latitudine, che è quella della Virginia sino alli 52. doue quasi comincia il gran Fiume di San Lorenzo, altri la pigliano dalli 32. sino alli 54. si stende secondo la longitudine da gradi 325. sino à 295. da noi conosciuti, ò per meglio dire senza alcun termine verso l'Occidente. E' vna parte della gran Terra dell'America Settentrionale, distante dall' [2] Europa di dritto circa tremila miglia, come habbiamo osseruato in diuerse Eclissi, situata, come si vede, in vna delle Zone temperate, ma che partecipa le qualità delle due estreme, essendoui l'Inuerno gran freddi, altissime neui, e durissimi ghiacci; e l'Estate caldi non minori di quelli dell'Italia.

I primi Francesi, che hanno iui habitato, hanno creduto la causa de i freddi sì eccessiui (che impediscono, tra l' altre cose, quasi quattro mesi il poter scriuere à meno, che tenersi con la penna vicinissimi al soco; tanto ogni liquore gela) esser i boschi vastissimi, che coprono tutto il paese. Ma io per me credo, che, se i boschi secchi, e senza soglie, come sono

Part First.

CHAPTER FIRST.

SITUATION AND DISCOVERY OF NEW FRANCE.

By new France is commonly understood the space of land and water which extends from 36 degrees of latitude, which is that of Virginia, to 52, where, nearly, begins the great River of Saint Lawrence; others locate it from 32 to 54. It extends in longitude from 325 degrees to 295, as known to us,—or, to speak more properly, without any limit toward the West. It is a part of the Mainland of North America, distant from [2] Europe, in a direct course, about three thousand miles, as we have observed in various Eclipses; situated, as is seen, in one of the temperate Zones, but partaking of the quality of the two extremes,—having severe cold in Winter, very deep snows, and very hard ice; and in Summer, no less heat than that of Italy.

The first French who lived there believed that the cause of such excessive cold (which, among other things, for nearly four months renders it impossible to write, unless one ply his pen very close to the fire, to such a degree does every liquid freeze) was the endlessly vast woods which cover the whole country. But I myself believe that if the woods, dry and leafless as they are in Winter, could hinder the Sun from warming the earth and moderating the excessive cold, they would avail still more in keeping off nell' Inuerno, poteffero impedire 1' attione del Sole capace di rifcaldar la terra, e moderare il freddo eccessiuo l' hauerebbero ancora maggiore per impedirla l' Estate, quando sono foltissimi; e pure non lo fanno, effendo all' hora ne' boschi stessi eccessiuo il caldo, benche qualche notte geli come nell' Inuerno. Stimo dunque, che la vera ragione sia la siccità, chiamata da Aristotele cos caloris, & frigoris. Non disputo, fe il freddo della nuoua Francia sia più inteso, che quello de' Paesi, che sono sotto l' istesso clima; certo è, che è molto più acuto, e accompagnato da grandi neui, e ghiacci, che tengono i fiumi gelati cinque, e fei mesi intieri. Mà tutto questo può essere effetto della ficcità, la quale è necessaria per le neui, e ghiacci, effendo opinione fondatiffima, che il freddo anche grandemente intenso non basta per far i ghiacci; altrimente l'acqua, che domanda naturalmente il fommo freddo, come vogliono molti, ò almeno vn freddo grandemente intenfo, come nessun lo nega, dourebbe nello stato suo naturale effer agghiacciata contro il fuo fine, che è di feruire di lauanda, e di beuanda à gl' huomini, e à gli animali; ma perche il freddo folo ancorche intenfo non bafta fenza qualche ò corpicciolo, ò effalatione, ò qualità fecca, per questo nello stato stesso naturale sarebbe fluida, e doue la ficcità fi troua, ancorche il freddo non fia più grande, che altroue, ella si ristringe, ò si dilata in neue, e in ghiacci. Hor la ficcità di quei paesi è euidente prima perche la più parte delle terre fono ò faffofe, ò arenofe (non però sterili) donde il Sole non può tirar altro, che efalationi molto fecche: e i paesi

the heat in Summer, when they are very dense; and vet they do not,—the heat in the woods themselves being then very intense, although some nights it freezes as in Winter. I think, therefore, that the true reason is the dryness, called by Aristotle the cos caloris et frigoris. I do not dispute whether the cold of new France is more intense than that of Countries which are under the same latitude: certain it is, that it is much more acute, and accompanied with much snow and ice, which keep the rivers frozen five and six entire months. But all this may be an effect of the dryness, which is necessary for the snows and ice,—it being a very well-founded opinion that even very intense cold is not sufficient to make ice: otherwise, water - which naturally never freezes except under the greatest cold, as many will have it, or at least under a highly intense cold, as no one denies would in its natural state be frozen, contrary to its destined use, which is to serve for washing, and as a drink for men and animals. But, because cold alone, although intense, is not sufficient without either some little body, or exhalation, or dry quality, therefore water, even in its natural state, would be fluid: and where dryness prevails, although the cold is not greater than elsewhere, it contracts or expands itself into snow and into ice. Besides, the drvness of these countries is evident. — first, because most of the lands are either stony or sandy (but not, on that account, sterile), whence the Sun cannot derive other than very dry exhalations; and the maritime countries, as being more moist, have less snow, and it melts more quickly. Secondly, from experience, through the scarcity of rains, and by the salubrity of the air, so great that, in sixteen and more years during which maritimi come che più humidi hanno meno neue, e fi disfà più presto. Secondo dall' esperienza per la rarezza delle piogge, e per la fanità dell' aria sì grande, che in fedici, e più anni, che la Missione de gl' Huroni è durata, [3] doue siamo stati sino al numero di sessanta Europei nell' istesso tempo, tra quali molti di debolissima complessione, niuno vi è morto di morte naturale, non ostante i gran disaggi, e patimenti, come vedremo: doue in Europa rari fono quelli anni, che alcuno non muora ne' nostri Collegij, che sono vn poco numerofi. Hora omnis corruptio ab humido, dunque à contrario sanitas à sicco, e per questo forsi oltre la mutatione de' viueri difficilmente i Barbari fi accostumano all' aria d' Europa, e questa ragione è commune al caldo, e al freddo, quia siccitas est cos caloris, & frigoris. Ma per il freddo in particolare potressimo aggiungere. Primo, che il fuolo è più alto, che il nostro, e per tanto più vicino alla seconda regione dell' aria, del cui freddo partecipa più questo si proua per il Mare più profondo, e però più pericolofo alle naui, che deuono pigliar terra. Secondo per le molte cafcate de fiumi, che meffe infieme farebbero vna affai alta montagna, che formandofi, come per gradi non è sì fensibile. Terzo per i venti freddiffimi, che vengono dalle vicine montagne, che trauerfano tutto il paefe, come gl' Appennini 1' Italia, che più frequentemente spirano da paesi freddi, e fecchi, che fono corrispondenti à nostri venti maestrali, & al Lebeccio, che in quei paesi è freddo, chiaro, e fano; le piogge caufandosi dal Greco, che vien dal mare. Il paese è vero, che è pieno di gran fiumi, the Huron Mission has lasted, - [3] where, during the same time, we have been as many as sixty Europeans, among whom were many of very feeble constitution. - no one has died a natural death here, notwithstanding the great inconveniences and sufferings, as we shall see: while in Europe those years are few indeed when some one does not die in our Colleges. if their inmates are at all numerous. Now, omnis corruptio ab humido, — therefore, à contrario, sanitas à sicco; and on this account, perhaps,—besides the change of diet,—the Barbarians find it difficult to accustom themselves to the air of Europe. Thus there is a common cause for both heat and cold, namely, quia siccitas est cos caloris et frigoris. But for the cold, in particular, we might add: First, that the land lies higher than ours, and consequently nearer to the second region of the air, of whose cold it partakes in a greater degree. And this is proved by the greater depth of the Sea, which is consequently more dangerous to the ships that are obliged to land. Secondly, by the many river-cascades, which if placed together would form a fairly high mountain; which, however, forming itself, as it were, by gradations, is not so perceptible. Thirdly, by the very cold winds blowing from the neighboring mountains, which traverse the whole country as the Apennines traverse Italy; these winds more frequently blow from cold and dry countries, corresponding to our northwest winds, and to the Southwest wind which in those countries is cold, clear, and healthful,—the rains proceeding from the Northeast wind, which comes from the sea. The country, it is true, is full of great rivers and immense lakes; but this does not detract from its dryness,—these rivers and lakes e laghi immensi; ma questo non deroga alla sua ficcità: questi fiumi, e laghi effendo d' acqua puriffima, e fanissima, secondo il fondo di pietra, ò arena, terzo in continuo moto per il fluffo, e rifluffo, che và fino à cinquecento miglia nelle terre; finalmente, per i venti, che li agitano come il Mare, e per questo impedifcono l' attione del Sole, che per altro ne tirarebbe maggior copia de vapori, che è la causa stessa, perche non pioue fempre nel mare, la cui acqua per altro è molto più calda, groffa, e difpofta à riceuere 1' impressione del Sole. Potrebbe qualchuno aggiungere à questo la vicinanza, e continuità de Mari di Canada con il mare glaciale, dal quale, ò almeno dalle cui spiagge si staccano monti intieri di ghiaccio, che nel mefe di Giugno, e di Luglio s' incontrano fino nel golfo San Lorenzo. Io ne hò visti più volte grandi come Città intiere, e Piloti degni di fede dicono hauerne viste, e costeggiate di 200. e più miglia.

Ma è difficile, che questi ghiacci per immensi, che siano, operino in vna distanza sì grande, quanto la nostra, che stauamo sotto li 47. sino alli 44. gradi di latitudine 900. e più miglia lontani [4] dal mare. Alcuni hanno creduto, che questi paesi sossero stati altre volte scoperti da' Spagnoli, da' quali forsi hebbero il nome di Canada, quasi volessero dire, che hà nada, non hauendo quasi niente, che boschi. Ma è certo, che ne sù preso la prima volta da Francesi il possesso, che ne sù preso la prima volta da Francesi il possesso, che ne su perder quello di Canadà, che alcuni hanno voluto applicare alla parte più Settentrionale. V' hanno satto più viaggi, come l' anno 1508. 1523.

being of very pure and very wholesome water; secondly, the bottom is of rock or sand; thirdly, they are in continual motion through the flow and ebb of the tide, whose action extends five hundred miles inland, and, finally, through the winds, which agitate them like the Sea, and thereby restrain the action of the Sun which otherwise would draw from them a greater abundance of vapors. This last is the very reason why it does not continually rain on the sea,whose water, on the other hand, is much warmer, of greater volume, and more open to receive the influence of the Sun. Some one might add to this the nearness or contiguity of the Seas of Canada to the icy sea, - from which, or at least from whose shores, are detached whole mountains of ice, which, in the months of June and July, are encountered even in the gulf of Saint Lawrence. I have repeatedly seen them as great as entire Cities; and Pilots worthy of credence say that they have seen some, along which they have coasted for 200 miles and over.

But it is unlikely that these masses of ice, immense though they are, have any effect at so great a distance as ours, since we dwell between the 47th and the 44th degrees of latitude, 900 miles or more [4] from the sea. Some have supposed that these countries were, in former times, discovered by the Spaniards, from whom, perhaps, they got the name of Canada,—as if they meant to say hà nada, there being almost nothing but woods. But it is certain that this region was taken possession of for the first time by the French in the year 1504; and from them it received the name of new France, without losing that of Canadà, which some have wished to apply to the more Northern part. They made several voyages

Francesco, che v' erano passati da dieci anni prima, ne furono da gl' istessi Inglesi rimenati in Inghilterra, quindi in Francia, e nel ritorno de' Francesi ritornarono i nostri foli per dar principio alla conuersione de' Barbari habitanti di quei paesi, instituendo due Missioni vna per le nationi, che chiamano Algonchine, e Montagnesi: popoli tra loro vn poco fimili di lingua, ma erranti, e vaghi ne' bofchi: l'altra per gli Huroni popoli di lingua differentissima, e che fon fiffi in vn luogo. Hor della prima non dirò molto per non efferci stato impiegato, della feconda, doue hò paffato alcuni anni, poche cofe dirò, delle quali io non sia testimonio di vista.

E perche si deuon qui alcune volte nominare diuersi luoghi particolari per informare il Lettore delli più principali, li accennaremo in questo principio.

thither,—as in the years 1508, 1523, 1524, 1534, 1608, and 1625; and these were frequently interrupted, as Champlain has written at some length, -until the year 1620, when a Fort which the French had on the great river Saint Lawrence, more than four hundred miles distant from the sea, was taken by the English. On occasion of the peace which was made between these nations, the French were restored to the amicable possession of the territory, in which they have continued until now, without any limit toward the West and the North; while the shores of the sea which are toward the south and East are occupied partly by the French, partly by the English,—who are there in great numbers,—in part by the Dutch, and in part by Swedes. At the same time when the French were constrained by hunger to surrender, those of our Society, who had gone thither three or four years previously,-also some Reformed Fathers of St. Francis, who had passed over thither ten years earlier, - were brought back to England by the same English, and thence to France; but, at the return of the French, ours returned alone, in order to lay foundations for the conversion of the Barbarians inhabiting those countries. They instituted two Missions, - one for the nations which they call Algonquin and Montagnais, peoples somewhat related in language, but wandering and roving in the woods; the other, for the Hurons, tribes of a very different language, and settled in one region. Now of the first I will not say much, because I was not employed there; of the second, where I spent several years, I will say few things of which I have not been an eve-witness.

And as certain places will be particularly referred nemente circa trecento miglia dentro il fiume San Lorenzo. Non vi s' habita fe non all' arriuo delle naui, & all' hora vi si fa Missione, e s' istruiscono per lo spatio di due, ò tre mesi i Barbari erranti, che vi concorrono da diuersi paesi da 300. e più miglia lontano.

- 2 Kebek è 120. miglia più nelle terre, & è vna Fortezza de Frãcefi, [5] che comanda allo steffo fiume, al lido del quale è fabricata sopra vna montagna nel luogo il più stretto di questo siume, che è iui d' vn miglio in circa. Quì v' è Colonia Francese, & Hurona da poco in quà, & i Barbari detti Algonchini vi passano qualche mese dell' Anno prima d' andar' alla loro caccia.
- 3 Quattro miglia lontano da Kebek alle fpiaggie dello stesso fiume v'è vna Residenza della Compagnia detta di San Giuseppe, doue i Christiani Algonchini passano la metà dell' Anno con alcune famiglie Francesi; si chiama altrimente Syllerì dal fondatore, che sù il Commendatore di Syllerì.
- 4 Nouanta miglia più oltre fempre contro il corfo dell' acqua sbocca in questo Rè de' fiumi, che hà al principio 60 miglia di largo, & iui più d' vn miglio, e mezo, e flusso, e rislusso, acorche lotano dal mare più di 400. miglia, sbocca dico, quel che chiamiamo i tre fiumi, perche esce come da tre bocche à ragione di due Isole, che lo diramano in tre, e quì è il secondo forte de' Francesi nel fiume San Lorenzo, & vna seconda Colonia de gl' istessi, e de Barbari Algonchini qualche tempo dell' Anno.
 - 5 Doppo dieci miglia fempre contr' acqua s' incotra to from time to time, we will at once make known to the Reader the more important ones.

- I. Tadusac is the first port, which is usually set down as being about three hundred miles up the river Saint Lawrence. It is deserted except at the arrival of the ships; and then a Mission is held there. and the wandering Barbarians - who assemble there from various countries, at a distance of 300 miles, and over - are instructed for the space of two or three months.
- 2. Kebek is 120 miles further inland, and is a Fortress of the French, [5] which commands the same river, on whose bank it is constructed upon a mountain, at the narrowest point on this river, which is here about a mile wide. There is a French Colony there, and, quite recently, a Huron one; and the Barbarians called Algonquins spend several months of the Year there before going to their hunt.
- 3. Four miles distant from Kebek, on the shores of the same river, there is a Residence of the Society, called Saint Joseph, where the Algonquin Christians spend half of the Year, with some French families: it is otherwise called Sylleri, from the founder, who was the Chevalier de Syllerì.
- 4. Ninety miles beyond, still up stream, there flows into this King of rivers, - which at its mouth is 60 miles in width, and here more than a mile and a half, with both flow and ebb of the tide, although more than 400 miles distant from the sea,—there flows into it, I say, a tributary which we call the three rivers, because it issues as if from three mouths, by reason of two Islands, which divide it into three streams. At that place is the second fort of the French on the river Saint Lawrence, and a il lago detto di S Pietro di 24. miglia di longo, e 10 ò 12 di largo famoso per l'incursioni de gl' Hiroquesi, il fiume lo continua, e sei miglia più oltre era alla bocca del fiume (che chiamano de gli Hirochesi per venire dal loro lago) il forte di Richelieu.

6 Cinquanta miglia più auanti è la grand' Ifola di Mont Reale 180. miglia lontana da Kebek altre volte habitatissima da Barbari, hora ve ne fono pochissimi. V' è vn forte de Francesi con alcune famiglie, che principiano vna terza Colonia. Questa Ifola hà circa cento miglia di circuito, e quì s' vniscono i due rami, che formano il nostro gran siume. E questo basti per l' intelligenza di quel che diremo in questa historia.

second Colony of theirs,—and, during a certain time of the Year, of Algonquin Barbarians.

- 5. Then, ten miles further, still up stream, is the lake called St. Pierre,—24 miles in length and 10 or 12 in width,—famous through the incursions of the Hiroquois. A river prolongs it; and six miles beyond, at the mouth of this river (which is named after the Hiroquois, because it comes from their lake), was the fort of Richelieu.
- 6. Fifty miles beyond is the great Island of Mont Reale, 180 miles distant from Kebek,—which was formerly thickly inhabited by Barbarians, while now they are very few. There is a fort of the French, with some families, who are founding a third Colony. This Island is about a hundred miles in circumference; and there the two branches unite which form our great river. And let this be sufficient for the understanding of what we shall say in this history. 18

CAPITOLO SECONDO

DESCRITTIONE DEL PAESE DE GLI HURONI.

L Paefe de gli Huroni è vna parte della nuoua Francia, che è tra li 44. e 45. gradi di latitudine, e di longitudine circa tre quarti d' hora più verso 1' Occidente di Kebek, ma di Roma più di fei hore intiere. Dalla parte dell' Occidente estiuo hà vn lago di [6] 1200. miglia di giro in circa, che chiamiamo il mar dolce, doue si nota flusso, e rislusso cosa rara fuori del mare. Hà innumerabili Ifole, & vna tra l'altre di 200. miglia di circuito habitata da alcuni Barbari, che chiamano ondatauauat. Dalla parte di Ponente nelle spiaggie di questo lago era la natione, che chiamauamo del Tabacco, perche iui se ne faceua in abbondanza, e non era da noi lontana più di 35. ouero 40. miglia. Dalla parte di Mezzo di vn poco verso l' Occidente s' incontraua la natione neutra; i primi borghi della quale no erano lontani da gli Huroni più di 100 miglia, e questa natione si stendeua per lo spatio di 150. miglia. Di là dalla natione neutra tirando vn poco verfo l' Oriente fi andaua alla noua Suetia, doue habitano ancora gli Andastogenronons popoli confederati de nostri Huroni, che parlano vna lingua non molto diuerfa dalla loro lótani da noi di dritto circa 500. miglia. Dall' istessa natione neutra tirando quafi al Mezzodì fi troua vn lago di 600. miglia di circuito detto Herie formato dal mar dolce, che in quello fi fcarica, e di quì per mezzo d' vn' altiffima

CHAPTER SECOND.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COUNTRY OF THE HURONS.

HE Country of the Hurons is a part of new France, which is between the 44th and 45th degrees of latitude, and in longitude about three-quarters of an hour farther toward the West than Kebek, but more than six whole hours from Rome. In the direction of the summer Sunset, it has a lake of [6] about 1200 miles in circumference, which we call "the fresh-water sea," where the flow and ebb of tides can be observed,—a rare thing away from the sea. It has innumerable Islands,—and, among others, one 200 miles in circumference, inhabited by some Barbarians, whom they call ondatauauat. 19 At the West, along the shores of this lake, was the nation which we called "Tobacco," because this plant was produced there in abundance; this nation was not distant from us more than 35 or 40 miles. Southward, a little toward the West, came the neutral nation, whose first villages were not more than 100 miles distant from the Hurons; the territory of this nation extended through the space of 150 miles. Thence, moving from the neutral nation a little toward the East, one reached new Sweden, where also dwell the Andastogenronons, who are allied to our Hurons, and speak a language not very different from theirs, - distant from us, in a direct route, about 500 miles. Beyond that same neutral nation, in a direction nearly South, there is cafcata in vn terzo lago ancora più grande, e più bello chiamato Ontario, ò Bel lago, noi lo chiamauamo il lago di S. Luigi. Il primo di questi due laghi era altre volte habitato verfo il Mezzo di da certi popoli, che noi chiamamo la natione del Gatto, ma furno costretti ad inoltrarsi più nelle Terre per schiuare i nemici, che hanno verfo l' Occidente. natione hà diuerfe Terre, coltiua i campi, e parla vna lingua fimile all' Hurona. Il fecondo lago lontano da gl' Huroni di dritto circa 100. miglia, ne hà quafi 250. di longhezza tirando dall' Oriente verfo l' Occidente, e di larghezza circa 50. dal Mezzo di al Settentrione. Si fcarica in vn gran fiume, che fà vn braccio di quello, che chiamamo di S. Lorenzo. Di là da questo lago di S. Luigi vn poco nelle Terre habitano le cinque nationi Hirochefe nemiche de nostri Huroni in postura quasi paralelle alla lunghezza di questo lago. Dalla parte Boreale de gli Huroni fono molte nationi Algonchine, che non coltiuano la terra, ma viuono folamente di caccia, e pefca, e vanno fino al mare detto del Nord, dal quale ci stimauamo distăti di dritto circa 1000. miglia. I nostri Barbari trafficauano con essi ogn' anno le pelli di Castoro, de quali hanno grandissima abbondanza. L'altre nationi à noi conofciute, che habitano questo lago sono ancora Algonchine, e coltiuano, benche poco, i campi, fono almeno al numero di noue, vna delle quali è la natione del Salto, ò cafcata [7] lontana da noi più di 300. miglia, dalla quale sperauamo il passaggio per andare ad altre nationi più lontane, che habitano vn lago più grande, che il mar dolce, che hà da effo la fua origine, e si stende tra l' Occidente, e la tramontana. Vna Penifola, ò Stretto di terra diuide questo lago

a lake 600 miles in circumference, called Herie, formed by the fresh-water sea, which discharges into it, - and thence, by means of a very high cataract, into a third lake, still greater and more beautiful: it is called Ontario, or Beautiful lake, but we were wont to call it the lake of St. Louis. The former of these two lakes was at one time inhabited toward the South by certain peoples whom we call the Cat nation; but they were forced to proceed farther Inland, in order to escape the enemies whom they have toward the West. This nation has various Territories, cultivates the fields, and speaks a language similar to the Huron. The second lakedistant from the Hurons, in a straight course, about 100 miles - is nearly 250 miles in length, extending from the East to the West, and about 50 in width, from the South to the North. It discharges into a great river, which makes an arm of the one which we call St. Lawrence. A little Inland thence from this lake of St. Louis, reside the five Hiroquois nations, enemies to our Hurons, in a situation almost parallel to the length of that lake. North of the Hurons are many Algonquin nations, who do not cultivate the earth, but live exclusively by hunting and fishing, and go even to the so-called Northern sea, from which we reckoned ourselves distant about 1000 miles, in a straight line. Our Barbarians traded with them every year in Beaver skins, of which they have an enormous abundance. The other nations known to us, which inhabit that lake, are also Algonquin, and cultivate the soil, although but little. They are at least as many as nine,—one of them being the nation of the Sault, or cascade, [7] more than 300 miles distant from us, through which we da quello, che chiamano de Puzzolenti, gente così detta per hauer altre volte habitato le fpiagge del mare, che loro chiamano Puzzolente, & hanno vna lingua à noi affatto fconofciuta.

Hor fotto il nome della Miffione de gli Huroni comprendeuamo tutti questi vastiffimi paesi, & il disegno era di non fermarsi mai nell' inquisitione de nuoui Popoli, de quali sperauamo, che vna Colonia nel paese de gli Huroni sarebbe la chiaue, se gli inscrutabili giuditij di Dio non hauessero altrimente disposto.

hoped for a passage in order to reach other nations farther on, who dwell along a lake larger than the fresh-water sea, which takes its origin thence, and extends between the West and the north. A Peninsula, or Strip of land, divides this lake from the one which is called "lake of the Stinkards",—people so named by reason of having formerly inhabited the shores of the sea, which they call Stinking water, and who have a language altogether unknown to us.

Now, under the name of "Mission of the Hurons," we comprehended all these vast countries; and our design was, never to stop in the seeking out of new Peoples,—to whom we hoped that a Colony in the country of the Hurons might be the key,—had not the inscrutable judgments of God otherwise disposed.

CAPITOLO TERZO.

DEL SUOLO, VIUERE, VESTIRE, E NATURALE DE BAR-BARI DELLA NUOUA FRANCIA.

VESTO capo richiederebbe da fe vn libro intiero, e si farà come spero col tempo, ma come questo scritto non è tanto per la curiosità, come per l'edificatione, e la breuità, mi è à cuore; dirò folo, che il paese è pouerissimo, ma non sterile, fe fi coltiua rende con grande auantaggio quel che riceue. Hà molte spetie d' Alberi, che quì non habbiamo, e tra gl' altri molti cedri fimili à quelli del Libano, molti femplici à noi fconofciuti, animali, & vccelli diuersi da nostri, vno tra gli altri, che miaula come vn gatto, e canta come vn' vccello che è, & vn' altro vaghifs, che p la fua piccolezza fi chiama vccello mofca; vn lepre, che canta, & è al gusto miglior de nostri, & vn' animaluccio, che perseguitato si difende con vna puzza infopportabile, e di longhissima durata, che perciò i Francesi han chiamato figlio del Diauolo, hanno ancora de Scoriattoli volanti, ma fenza ale, e molti altri de più groffi, come Orignacchi, ò Gran Bestie, Vacche, & Asini saluatichi, come si vedrà nell' historia. I cani stessi domestici sono differenti da nostri. Noto folo, primo, che la natura prouida madre per i gran freddi dell' Inuerno gli veste quasi tutti anche i nostri, che nascono nel

OF THE SOIL, FOOD, DRESS, AND CHARACTER OF THE BARBARIANS OF NEW FRANCE.

THIS chapter would in itself require a whole book, and that will be asset and that will be composed, as I hope, in course of time; but,—as this writing is not so much for curiosity as for edification, and as brevity is a chief concern with me, - I will merely say that the country is very poor, but not sterile; when cultivated, it gives back with great abundance what it receives. It has many species of Trees which we do not have here; and among others, many cedars similar to those of Lebanon, many simples unknown to us, animals and birds different from ours. Among these last is one which mews like a cat and sings like a bird, which it is; and another, very dainty, which for its diminutive size is called oiseau-mouche [humming-birdl. There is a hare which sings, and is more palatable than ours; and a small animal which, when pursued, defends itself with a stench which is insufferable and continues very long,—the French therefore have called it "son of the Devil." They have also flying Squirrels, but without wings; and many other animals of greater size,—such as Elks or Great Beasts, Cows, and wild Asses,—as will be seen in the history. Even the domestic dogs are different from ours. I merely note: first, that nature, that provident mother, on account of the great cold of the Winter, clothes them almost all, - includpaese, come cani, porci &c. di doppio pelo interiore, & esteriore, il primo de quali è foltissimo, e delicatissimo.

Secondo, che i Lepri mutano come nell' Alpi l' inuerno il colore [8] effendo bianchi come la neue, tra la quale viuono, e l'estate ripigliando il colore de nostri. La terra hà miniere di ferro, e certe pietre, che si liquefano come metallo, che pare, che habbino qualche vena d'argento. V'è vna miniera di Rame purissimo, che no hà bisogno di passare per il fuoco, ma è in luoghi molto lontani, e difficili, che ne fanno il trasporto quasi impossibile. L' habbiamo vista nelle mani de Barbari, ma niuno l' hà visitata. Oltre le Zucche, che durano da due mesi, e sono bonissime cotte fotto le ceneri non vi è altri frutti, che faluatichi. Li migliori fono le frauole di due forti, i mori, che nascono ne i spini, le nocchie, e qualche lazzarola, e brugna faluatica. Le noci non hanno quasi altro, che la pelle, e le cerafe non fono più groffe d' vn cecio, non hanno quafi altro, che l' offo, e la fcorza, e fono agriffime. V' è delle lambrusche, ma in poca quantità, nè si stimano da Barbari stessi, ma sì bene vn certo frutto di color pauonazzo groffo come vna bacca di ginepro, che non hò mai visto in questi Hò ben' iui visto in vn sol luogo vna pianta fimile al Melon d' India col frutto groffo come vn limoncello. Vi è in qualche luogo abbodanza d'agli, e cipollette, & in altri alcune radici di affai buon guito, che feruano, come anche le ghiande in tempo di fame.

ing ours which are born in the country, such as dogs, swine, etc.,—with double fur, inner and outer, the former of which is very thick and very soft.

Secondly, that the Hares, as in the Alps, change their color in winter, [8] being white like the snow in which they live, - while, in summer, they resume the color of ours.20 The earth contains iron ores. and certain rocks which melt like metal, with an appearance of having some vein of silver. There is a Copper ore, which is very pure, and which has no need of passing through the fire; but it is in places far distant and hard to reach, which render its transportation almost impossible. We have seen it in the hands of the Barbarians, but no one has visited the place. Besides the Pumpkins, which last for two months, and are very good baked under the ashes, there are no other fruits but wild ones. The best are the strawberries, of two sorts: the blackberries, which grow on briars; the hazelnuts, and certain haws, and the wild plum. The walnuts have scarcely anything but the shell, and the cherries are no larger than a pea, - being little else than stone and skin, and very sour. There are some wild vines, but in small quantity, nor are they esteemed by the Barbarians themselves; but they do esteem highly a certain fruit of violet color, the size of a juniper berry, which I have never seen in these countries. I have also seen, once, a plant similar to the Melon of India, with fruit the size of a small lime. There is also, in a certain place, abundance of garlic and cives; and elsewhere there are found some roots of fairly good savor, which serve - as also do acorns in time of hunger.

The Inhabitants reflect the poverty of the Soil, in nel viuere, vestire, habitare, letto, e nauigatione, I Barbari erranti prima di conoscere i Francesi non viueuano d'altro, che ò di caccia, ò di pesca, e digiunauamo più della metà dell'anno per necessità, non hauendo nè l'Economia, nè spesso la commodità di conseruare longo tempo la caccia, ò la pesca, quando buona gli riusciua non hauendo fale, & il sumo, del quale si feruano in vece di fale, non essendo capace di conseruare i viueri longo tempo; onde ne moriua spesso di fame, ò gli ammazzauano talhora per pietà. Ma doppo, che hanno il commercio con i Francesi, quelli che stanno vicini al mare con il cambio delle loro pelli di Castoro hanno de viueri per qualche tempo dell' Anno.

Ma gli Huroni, e gli altri Popoli lontani dal mare, che fono stabili hanno la caccia folo per delitia, ò per straordinario, non hanno però ne pane, ne vino, ne fale, ne carni, ne legumi; ne alcun' altro cibo commune nell' Europa, ma si contentano del gran Turchefco cotto nell' acqua pura, ò condito quando poffono di qualche pesce, ò carne fresca, ò fumata, senz' alcun vío di fale, ò d'altro condimento. E di questo grano fono feminati i campi che [9] coltiuano. Doppo il nostro arriuo vi seminauano anche qualche faua, ò fagioli. Il vestire degli huomini è libero, ma eccetto vna natione d'alcuni Algonchini, tutti coprono almeno quello, à che l' honestà gli obliga: ma le donne fono molto più coperte; le Hurone nelle cafe steffe, almeno dalla cintura fino al ginocchio; l' Algonchine, più, che le più religiofe in Europa. Queste vesti their food, dress, dwellings, sleeping accommodations, and manner of travel. The roving Barbarians, before knowing the French, lived solely by hunting or fishing, and, through necessity, fasted more than half the year—having no notion of Economy, and frequently lacking the means of preserving game or fish a long time, when these abounded, as they had no salt; while the smoke which they used in place of salt, was not adequate for preserving provisions a long time; whence they frequently died of hunger, or sometimes inflicted death out of pity. But, since they have had commerce with the French, those who are situated near the sea have, by the exchange of their Beaver skins, provisions for some part of the Year.

But the Hurons and other Peoples distant from the sea, who are sedentary, hunt only for pleasure, or on extraordinary occasions; yet they have neither bread, nor wine, nor salt, nor meat, nor vegetables, nor any other food usual in Europe. They content themselves with Turkish corn cooked in pure water, or seasoned, when possible, with some fish or meat, fresh or smoked, without any use of salt or other condiment; and with this grain are sown the fields which [9] they cultivate. After our arrival, they also planted there beans, both large and small. men's clothing is light, but - excepting a certain nation made up of a few Algonquins - all cover at least that which decency demands; but the women are much more covered,—the Huron women, even in the house, at least from the waist to the knee; the Algonquin women, more than the most religious women in Europe. These garments are commonly of skins of various kinds of animals, sewed together, in size, five or six palms square; 21 and they serve as fono comunemete di pelli di diuerfe forti d' animali, cucite insieme, della grandezza di cinque, ò sei palmi in quadro, e feruono la notte di coperta. Fanno delle stesse pelli senza grande artificio e maniche, e calzette per l' Inuerno. Vna delle nostre coperte seruirebbe per vestir il dì, & coprir la notte due Barbari tutto vn' inuerno. Le nauigationi, che fanno affai lunghe, e pericolofe in fiumi, e laghi vastissimi à nationi lontanissime, per il traffico del castoro, le fanno in barchette di fcorze, no più groffe d' vn testone, capaci al più d'8. ò 10. persone, ma comunemente non più, che di tre, ò quattro: e le gouernano destramente, e quasi fenza pericolo. Per cafe hanno tanto gli Algonchini, quanto gli Huroni non altro, che capanne; ma li primi di fcorze fottili come pergameno, che ftendono hor quà, hor là fecondo il bifogno fopra alcune pertiche, che fanno, come l' offatura della capanna; li fecondi fanno terre, ò castelli fortificati di pali incrociati, e trauerfati di tronchi d'alberi per ripararsi da colpi de' nemici, e fanno le loro capanne di 10. 15. 20. 30. e 40. canne di longo di groffe fcorze fostenute da traui, che seruono per fostentare i loro grani per feccarli l' inuerno. Ma nè gli vni, nè gli altri hanno altro letto, che ò qualche ramo d'alberi, come i primi, ò qualche fcorza, ò ftora, come i fecondi, fenza tauole, banchi, ò cofa fimile; la terra, ò qualche fcorza feruendoli di tutto. E questo era il viuere, & albergare de nostri in queste missioni, che però fono state stimate da molti le più penose della nostra Compagnia.

cover at night. They make of the same skins, in rather crude fashion, both sleeves and stockings for Winter. One of our blankets would serve to clothe by day and cover by night two Barbarians, during a whole winter. The somewhat long and dangerous navigation which they conduct, on rivers and enormous lakes, with very distant nations for the beaver trade, is effected in little boats of bark, no thicker than a testone, 22 — holding at the most 8 or 10 persons, but commonly not more than three or four; they manœuver these dexterously, and almost without danger. For houses, both the Algonquins and the Hurons have nothing else than cabins; but the former make them of bark, light as parchment, which they stretch now here, now there, according to need, over certain poles which form, as it were, the skeleton of the cabin. The latter build enclosed towns, or fortified strongholds, with crossed stakes, traversed with trunks of trees, to protect themselves from attacks of enemies; and make their cabins 10, 15, 20, 30, or 40 cannes 23 in length, of great pieces of bark supported by beams, which serve to hold up their corn, to dry it in winter. But neither of them have any other bed than either some branches of trees, used by the former, or some bark or matting, used by the latter, - without tables, benches, or anything of the kind, the earth or some bark serving them for every purpose. And this was the living and lodging of ours in those missions, - which, indeed, were thought by many to be more arduous than any other missions of our Society.

But, in this almost unexampled poverty, there are nevertheless among them both poor and rich, noble and plebeian; and they have their ornaments,—

Ma in questa quasi estrema pouertà non lascian d'esser tra di loro e poueri, e ricchi, nobili, & ignobili, & hãno i loro ornameti, massime le donne, per le publiche feste, e cerimonie di giuoci, balli, e festini, che hãno poco più, che il nome comune con quelli d'Europa. I loro costumi son differeti da' nostri, e in pace, e in guerra, e in publico, e in particolare: no si scuoprono per salutare, essendo prima di conoscere i Fracesi, sepre scoperti. Ma il siletio, e l'obedieza de' giouani verso gli attepati seruono di riuereza, e p saluto ordinario si cotetano d' vn buo dì, ch' in lingua loro s' esprime dicedo. Quoe.

[10] Le donne portano i capelli tutti vniti in vna treccia, che gli cade dietro le fpalle; gli huomini diuerfamente; altri si radono la metà della testa: altri tutta, lasciandoci solo alcuni siocchi di capelli quà, e là; altri nutriscono longhissima la chioma, & è il più comune; altri li lasciano in mezzo, ò nella fronte, dritti come setole; quindi i primi Francesi diedero à nostri Barbari il nome di Huroni per la hure, cioè per i crini dritti come setole di cignale, che portauano in mezzo al capo; che questo significa in Francese, hure Ma tutti gli hanno comunemente neri, & odiano grandemete i ricci, cosa tra essi affatto rara, se pure ve n' è alcuno.

Pingonsi in diuerse maniere, & in varie occasioni la faccia, e molti il corpo tutto; alcuni superficialmente, e di passaggio, altri per sempre, i primi hora di nero, hora di rosso, hora di diuersi colori; questi comparisce artificiosamente barbato, quegli pare porti gli occhiespecially the women,—for the public feasts and ceremonies of games, dances, and feasts, which have little more than the name in common with those of Europe. Their customs are different from ours, both in peace and in war, both in public and in private; they do not uncover in making salutation, having been always uncovered before knowing the French. But silence and obedience of the young men toward the elders, serve as marks of respect; and, for ordinary salutation, they content themselves with a "good day," which in their language is expressed by saying Quoe.

[10] The women wear their hair in a single braid, which falls behind their shoulders; the men, in various ways. Some shave half of the head; others, all, leaving only some tufts of hair here and there; others allow the hair to grow very long, and this is the most common: others leave it, in the middle, or on the forehead, straight as bristles. From this the first Frenchmen gave our Barbarians the name of Hurons, because of the hure,—that is to say, because of the straight locks, like bristles of a wild boar, which they wore on the middle of the head, as this is what hure signifies in French. They all commonly have black hair, and greatly hate curls—something exceedingly rare among them, if indeed they are found at all.

They paint their faces in various styles, and on sundry occasions; and many, their whole bodies,—some superficially and temporarily, others permanently. The former paint themselves, now black, now red, now various colors: these appear artistically bearded, those seem to wear spectacles; some have the whole face striped with various colors, ali; questi hà tutta la faccia rigata di varij colori; quegli vna sola metà; tutti però lucente per l' olio, ò grasso, che mescolano ne' lor colori: il nero lo pigliano comunemente dal sondo delle pentole; gli altri colori sono di varie terre, come lacca, ò di certe radiche, che rendono il colore d' vn finissimo scarlatto: e si pingono sì bene, che alcuni à prima vista han creduto esser veramente vestiti alcuni Barbari, che persettamente nudi, altra veste non haueuano, che di puro colore.

Ma quei, che si pingono permanentemente, lo fanno con estremo dolore; seruendosi per questo di achi, di acute lesine, ò di pungenti spine, con le quali forandosi, ò facendosi da altri forar la pelle, si formano ful vifo, ful collo, ful petto, ò altra parte del corpo qualche animale, ò mostro, per esempio vn' Aquila, vn Serpente, vn Drago, ò altra figura, che più gli aggrada: e passando poi fopra il fresco, e sanguinoso difegno poluere di carbone, ò altro nero colore, che si mescola col sangue, e penetra ne' fatti buchi; imprimono indelebilmente nella viua pelle le difegnate E questo in alcune nationi è sì commune che in quella, che chiamauamo del Tabacco, & in quella, che per hauer pace con gli Huroni, e con gl' Hirochesi si chiamaua Neutra, non sò se si trouasse vn solo, che non fosse in questo modo, in qualche parte dipinto. E vero, che quando la pittura è d' vna gran parte del corpo, è pericolofa, massime in tempo freddo, & ò per qualche spetie di spasimo, ò per altra ragione, hà causata à più d'vno la morte: facendolo martire others, only half,—but all, shining with oil or grease, which they mix in their colors. Black they commonly take from the bottom of the pots; the other colors are of various earths, as lake, or are derived from certain roots, which yield a very fine scarlet color: and they paint themselves so well that some, at first sight, have supposed certain Barbarians to be clothed, who were perfectly naked,—their clothes consisting only of paint.

But those who paint themselves permanently do so with extreme pain, - using, for this purpose, needles, sharp awls, or piercing thorns, with which they perforate, or have others perforate, the skin. Thus they form on the face, the neck, the breast, or some other part of the body, some animal or monster,—for instance, an Eagle, a Serpent, a Dragon, or any other figure which they prefer; and then, tracing over the fresh and bloody design some powdered charcoal, or other black coloring matter, which becomes mixed with the blood and penetrates within these perforations, they imprint indelibly upon the living skin the designed figures. And this in some nations is so common that in the one which we called the Tobacco, and in that which - on account of enjoying peace with the Hurons and with the Hiroquois - was called Neutral, I know not whether a single individual was found, who was not painted in this manner, on some part of the body. And indeed, when the painting covers a great part of the body, it is dangerous, especially in cold weather; and either through some sort of convulsion, or for some other reason -- it has caused the death of more than one, making him a martyr to vanity and a fantastic caprice, [10 i.e., 11] in the fulfillment of which they della vanità, e d' vn bizzarro capriccio: [10 i.e., 11] nell' adempimento del quale non danno comunemente fegno di dolore, ancorche lo fperimentino acutiffimo.

Le ragioni, che hanno di pingerfi, massime di paffaggio non fono certamente barbare. Questa Pittura: l'inuerno gli ferue di maschera contro il freddo, & il ghiaccio: in guerra impedifce, che il volto non li tradifca, palefando l' interna paura; gli fa più terribili al nemico, e cela l' età ò troppo tenera, ò troppo caduca, che aggiungerebbe con l'animo le forze all' auuerfario. Serue d' ornamento nelle publiche feste, e asseblee. Pingono ache i prigioni destinati al foco, come vittime confacrate al Dio della guerra, e gli ornano come gli antichi ornauano le loro. Il medesimo fan anche a lor morti p le stesse raggioni, per le quali orniamo i nostri. E perche il pingersi è proprio degli homini; è delli stessi, e no delle done il proprio portare ache in guerra specchietti attaccati al collo, ò ne loro facchetti doue tegono il Tabacco, del quale in fumo víano perpetuamente, nelle affemblee, e da per tutto. Hanno l' vso delle stufe; ma Barbaro: chiudono groffe pietre infocate in piccola capannella, doue si ragunano 15. e 20. persone assise da Scimie, che si toccano insieme, e vi stano le hore intiere procurando anche con vn canto incomposto, che v' aggiungono, eccessiuo sudore, ed indi vscedo, anche nel principio dell' inuerno, si gettano in qualche lago, ò fiume talhora mezzo agghiacciato, d' onde no sò come ne ritornino feza putura. Le fano per commonly give no sign of pain, although they experience it most acutely.

The reasons which they have for painting themselves, - especially for a temporary purpose, - are certainly not barbarous. This Painting serves them in winter as a mask against the cold and the ice: in war, it prevents their countenances from betraying them by revealing inward fear, makes them more terrible to the enemy, and conceals extremes of youth or age, which might inspire strength and courage in the adversary. It serves as adornment at the public feasts and assemblies. They also paint the prisoners destined to the flames, as victims consecrated to the God of war, and adorn them as the ancients adorned theirs. They do the same also to their dead, for the same reasons for which we adorn ours. And as painting themselves is peculiar to the men, so it is the custom of men, and not of the women, to wear even in war little mirrors about their necks, or in the small pouches in which they carry the Tobacco which they smoke perpetually,at the assemblies, and everywhere. They use hot baths, but in a very Barbarous manner; they inclose large stones, red-hot, in a little cabin, where 15 or 20 persons come together, seated like Apes, who touch one another closely, and remain there during whole hours, - working themselves, while singing violently, into an excessive perspiration; and on issuing thence, even at the beginning of winter, they plunge into some half-frozen lake or river, from which, inexplicable though it seem, they return without distress. They do this from superstition, for cleanliness, for health, and for pleasure; it is thus that they refresh and invigorate themselves in the fuperstitione, p politia, per fanità, e per delitie; così fi rinfrescano, e rinuigoriscono nel mezzo de' lughi viaggi, e rimediano alla stanchezza nel ritorno. Ne' lor cõuiti, oue conuengono à centinaia, si publican tutte le viuande ad vna, ad vna, & à ciascuna si rifponde alta, e fortemente con voce di ringratiamento oh, oh. con la H. che gl' Italiani difficilmente pronuntiarebbero. Si canta le hore intiere prima di mangiare. Vno canta, e tutti rifpõdono con voce forte di petto, alla cadeza; oh oh. Ma fuccedono nel canto gli vni à gli altri, e chi hà prefa qualche fiera, ò fa il festino, non ne mangia; ma ò canta, ò discorre mentre gli altri ne godono. Prima di conofcer gli Europei, non hauendo caldaie per cuocere i viueri, massime ne' viaggi, faceuano vna fossa in terra, e 1' épiuano d' acqua, che faceuano bollire con estinguerui dentro diuerfe pietre à questo fine prima infocate. I loro balli fono men varij, ma più graui de nostri, de quali lodano la destrezza, ma negli huomini li condanano di leggierezza, che non si nota tra essi, che da giouani s' auuezzano ad vna forsi troppo feria maturità.

[12] I Matrimonij fono fimili à quelli degli antichi Giudei, pigliando affai communemente il fratello la moglie del morto fratello, mai contrahendo con i confanguinei, benche remoti, ma preferendo fempre gli affini ad ogn' altro. L' huomo dota la Donna, la quale porta tutto il pefo della cafa, coltiua i campi, fà, e porta le legna, prepara la cucina, e fi carica ne' viaggi de' viueri &c. per il marito; proprio degli midst of long journeys, and obviate fatigue upon returning. At their feasts, where they assemble by the hundred, all the dishes are announced, one by one; and at each the answer is made in a loud and strong voice, with this expression of thanks: "oh, oh,"uttered with an H, which the Italians would pronounce with difficulty. There is singing for whole hours before eating. One sings, and all respond in a strong voice, from the chest, in measured time: "oh, oh." But they succeed one another in the song; and he who has taken some wild beast, or who makes the feast, does not eat of it, but either sings or talks while the others partake thereof. knowing the Europeans, as they had no kettles for cooking victuals, especially on their journeys, they made a ditch in the earth, and filled it with water, which they caused to boil by cooling in it a number of stones, first heated red-hot for this purpose. They have not such a variety of dances as we have, but these are more grave than ours, - which they praise for dexterity, but regard them as too frivolous for men. This fault cannot be imputed to them; since, even as young men, they accustom themselves to perhaps a too serious maturity.

[12] Their Marriages are similar to those of the ancient Jews: the brother quite commonly taking the deceased brother's wife,—never contracting marriage with blood-relatives, however distant, but always preferring affinity to any other connection. The man endows the Woman, who bears the whole burden of the house, cultivates the fields, cuts and carries the firewood, does the cooking, and loads herself, on the journeys, with provisions, etc., for the husband. The part of the men is only war, hunting, fishing,

Onde non fono Barbari quafi, che di nome. Ne bifogna concepirli come mezze bestie, pelosi, neri, difformi. Sono fenza barba, ò pelo altro, che i capelli, come gli Americani della Zona torrida; forsi perche i due estremi di caldo, e di freddo fanno gl' istessi effetti: così gli animali fanno la concottione, tanto per la forza del freddo, quanto del caldo naturale: l' hò sperimentato nel merluzzo pefce auidiffimo, e che digerifce quasi ogni cosa; l' hò aperto ancor viuo, e trouato il freddo del fuo ftomaco quafi infopportabile alla mia mano. E fe il freddo dell' Europa non fa lo stesso ne' paesi più settentrionali, è forsi per i molti rimedij de' vini, acqua vita, spetie, sale, stufe &c. ch' adoprano, delle quali cofe tutte i nostri Barbari non fanno ne anche il nome. Non fono molto bruni, particolarmente quando fon putti; fon forti, alti di statura, e proportionati, più fani di noi, no fapendo ne anche il nome di quatità di malatie comuni in Europa, come di pietra, podagra, rottura &c. Non si vedono nè gobbi, nè nani, nè molto corpulenti, nè di groffa gola &c. fono affabili tra di loro, e si visitano spessissimo, e vorrebbero paffare per liberali, e difintereffati, ma fon certo degni d'ammiratione particolarmente in trade, in various countries, and the preparation of the things thereto necessary, - as offensive and defensive weapons, boats, oars, and snowshoes for going over the snows; and in these industries every one succeeds so well that the Europeans themselves would not know a better way of devising the things necessary to them for journeys, for lodging in the woods, and for navigation. Wherefore, they are hardly Barbarians, save in name. There is no occasion to think of them as half beasts, shaggy, black, and hideous. They are without a beard, or other hair than that of the head, like the Americans of the torrid Zone, perhaps because the two extremes of heat and cold produce the same effects: thus animals accomplish digestion both by the action of cold and by natural heat. I have tested this in the cod,—a very greedy fish, which digests almost everything; I have opened it, while still alive, and found the cold of its stomach well-nigh unendurable to my hand. And, if the cold of Europe does not have the same effect in the more northern countries, it is perhaps because of the many palliatives of cold, such as wines, brandy, spices, salt, stoves, etc., which they employ,—all of which things our Barbarians do not even know the name. They are not very dark, especially in their youth; they are strong, tall in stature, and well-proportioned: more healthy than we, - not even knowing the name of many diseases common in Europe, such as the stone, gout, rupture, etc. They are not found either hunchbacked or dwarfed, or very corpulent, or with goiters, etc. They are affable to one another, exchange visits very frequently, and like to be regarded as liberal and disinterested. They are certainly worthy of parquattro cofe, primo ne' fensi quali hanno perfettissimi; e benche passino quasi sei mesi senza veder di fuori altro, che neue, e nelle capanne altro, che fumo, hanno con tutto ciò vna vista acutissima; vdito eccellente, & harmonico: odorato raro, differente folo dal nostro, che stimano il muschio puzzolente, & indifferenti gli odori di cofe, che non fono comestibili, e con questo senso scuoprono spesso il fuoco molto prima di vederlo, massime la notte. Hanno il tatto, e la pelle delicatissima, à che forsi anco feruono l' vntioni tra di loro comuni, come anticamente tra li Gentili. [11 i.e., 13] e gli Hebrei Le fanno di tutto il corpo, quando hanno di che farla, e massime de' capelli per diuerfe, e buonissime ragioni. Secondo hanno vna costanza ammirabile ne' disagi; soffriranno dieci, e quindeci dì di fame, qualche volta per superstitione, il più per necessità; il fuoco senza gridare, à che i giouani fi accostumano dall' età di dieci, ò dodici anni, legandofi due di effi le braccia infieme, e poi mettendo vn carbone tra le due braccia per vedere chi lo scuoterà il primo per sprezzarnelo; freddo, caldo, dolori, malattie fenza lamentarfi, e fe trà i dolori la ferittura facra stima i maggiori quelli del parto, le donne per massima di magnanimità partoriscono senza dar alcun fegno di dolore, e fe gridaffero farebbono ftimate codarde, disprezzate, e non trouarebbero più marito.

Terzo la loro imaginatione è prodigiofa in riconofcere i luoghi, e descriuersegli gli vni à gli altri & in condursi ne' boschi, doue quasi mai si perdono. Io ticular admiration in four things: first, their senses. which are most perfect, - so that, although they spend nearly six months without seeing anything but snow outside, and in their cabins, nothing but smoke. they have, nevertheless, exceedingly acute vision, excellent hearing, an ear for music, and a rare sense of smell, - differing from ours only in this, that they esteem musk ill-smelling, and are indifferent to the odors of things which are not eatable. With this sense they frequently discover fire long before seeing it, especially at night. Their touch and skin are very delicate, their sensibility being perhaps increased by the ointments commonly used among them, as anciently among the Gentiles [11 i.e., 13] and the Hebrews. They anoint, when they have the means, the whole body, and especially the hair, for various and most excellent reasons. Secondly, they have an admirable fortitude in hardships: they endure hunger for ten or fifteen days, -- sometimes from superstition, mostly by necessity; fire they endure without crying out. The youth accustom themselves to this from the age of ten or twelve years, two of them binding their arms together, and then putting a coal between the two arms, to see who will shake it off the first; they despise him who loses. They endure cold, heat, pains, or diseases, without complaining; and while, among physical pains, the sacred scripture esteems those of childbirth the greatest, the women, to set an example of courage, bring forth without giving any sign of pain; for, if they cried out, they would be despised and deemed cowardly, and could not again find husbands.

Thirdly, they possess a marvelous faculty for remembering places, and for describing them to one hò fperimentato più volte in tempo nuuolo ò di notte di condur qualche Barbaro in difparte feruendomi di buffola per prouare di fargli perder l' idea delle quattro parti del Mondo, e doppo interogarlo, doue foffe l' Oriente, doue il mezzo dì, doue il paefe de' nemici, doue il nostro; mai hò trouato, che s' inganaffero conducendosi così sicuri con la loro idea, che io con la mia buffola; e questo è vn talento come naturale, del quale li giouani stessi, e le donne si feruono nelle occasioni, e particolarmente per fuggire quando sono prigioni nelle mani de' nemici, e fare le tre, e 400. miglia ne' boschi, doue non è alcun camino per ricourarsi alle nostre habitationi, di che vediamo ogn' anno molte volte l' esperienza.

Quarto vna memoria tenacissima, non hanno ne libri, ne scritture, i negotij si trattano per ambasciate, nelle quali io mi sono stupito di vedere di quante cose, e di quante circostanze mai si ricordano. Ma spicca ancor più ne' Capitani, i quali si seruono in vece de' libri di bastoncelli, che alle volte notano con certi segni, alle volte nò con aiuto de' quali diranno i nomi di cento, e più presenti, le conclusioni prese ne' consegli, e mille altre particolarità, che noi non sapressimo ridire senza scriuere.

Intendono, e difcorrono bene, hanno vna eccellente narratiua, e grand' eloquenza, e delle materie delle quali hanno i principij trattano sì bene, che li Europei i più fenfati. In Francia hanno creduto finti i loro difcorsi, e concioni, che nelle nostre relationi another, and for guiding themselves in the woods where they hardly ever lose their way. I have several times tried, in cloudy weather, or by night, to lead some Barbarian astray,—using the compass, in the endeavor to confuse his notions of the four quarters of the World, and then questioning him where was the East, where the south, where the country of the enemy, where our own; yet I have never found that they were deceived, for they guided themselves just as securely by their senses as I by my compass. Indeed, this is a talent in a manner natural, which even the youths and the women use on occasion,—and particularly, to flee when they are prisoners in the hands of the enemy, and to travel three or 400 miles in the woods, where there is no road, in order to take refuge in our settlements: the proof of this we see many times every year.

Fourthly, a very tenacious memory. They have neither books nor writings; negotiations are carried on through embassies, in which I have been amazed to see how many things and how many circumstances they recollect. But this faculty shines forth still more in the Captains, who use little sticks instead of books, which they sometimes mark with certain signs, sometimes not. By the aid of these they can repeat the names of a hundred or more presents, the decisions adopted in the councils, and a thousand other particulars, which we could not rehearse without writing.

They have a clever understanding and good judgment, also an excellent style of narration, and great eloquence; and matters, of which they possess the fundamental elements, they handle just as well as the most sagacious Europeans. In France, people riferiuamo; ma io afficuro, che la maggior parte, come traflatate [12 i.e., 14] in altra lingua fono ancora men forti che nella loro.

Ci hanno fpeffo perfuafo in negotij d' importanza, e fatte cangiar le rifolutioni, che doppo diuerfi effami haueuamo prefe per il bene del paefe. Non dubito, che fiano capaci delle fcienze, hanno l' orecchia armonica, & eccellente per la mufica, ma la loro è diuerfa, & in qualche modo più martiale, che la nostra.

Non s' infegna con arte, ma i più efperti l'ammirano trà gli effetti della natura. Noi l' habbiamo fperimentati capaciffimi non folo della fede, che è più eccellente di tutte le fcienze, ma ancora della vera fcienza de' Santi, cioè à dire d' vna fodiffima, e teneriffima deuotione.

have believed that their speeches and addresses, which we reported in our relations were fictitious; but I can assert that most of these, when translated [12 i.e., 14] into another language, are much less powerful than in their own.

They have often persuaded us in affairs of importance, and made us change the resolutions which, after mature deliberation we had taken for the weal of the country. I doubt not that they are capable of the sciences: they have a harmonious and excellent ear for music; but their music is different from, and in some degree more martial, than ours.

It is not taught as an art, but, as the most expert declare, is admired as a natural accomplishment with many. We have proved them to be most capable not only of faith, which is more excellent than all the sciences, but also of the true science of the Saints,—that is to say, of a most constant and most tender devotion.

CAPITOLO QVARTO.

POLITICA DE BARBARI CANADESI.

Non parlo di tutte le nationi di questi paesi, nè di tutta la loro politica, che è mirabile in questo, che essendo differentissima dalla nostra, e per tanto à molti sconosciuta, non lascia di fare gl' istessi, e migliori essetti, che questa, vedendosi in vna somma libertà pochissimi disordini. Parlo solo delle nationi, che noi conosciamo, e particolarmente degli Huroni.

Non hanno questi popoli nè Rè, nè Prencipe affoluto, ma certi come capi di Republica, che noi chiamiamo Capitani, differenti però da quelli di guerra; questi hanno comunemente la carica per successione da parte di donna, alcune volte per elettione. S' impossessano dell' offitio morto il predecessore (il quale diconfi refufcitare) non fenza qualche folennità. Ouesti Capitani non hano vim coactiuam, la quale i Padri stessi non effercitano verso i figli per correggerli, feruendosi folo di parole, & i figli così alleuati, quanto più crefcono in età, tanto più amano, e rifpettano i loro padri, ottengono dunque tutto tanto i primi, come i fecondi precario con eloquenza, effortatione, e prieghi, e come signatum est super nos lumen vultus Domini per inculti, che fuffero, prima del nostro arriuo non lafciauan di conofcere, & il vitio, e la

CHAPTER FOURTH.

GOVERNMENT OF THE CANADIAN BARBARIANS.

DO not speak of all the nations of these countries, nor of all that concerns their government, which is admirable in this, that, being very different from ours, and therefore to many unknown, it is nevertheless quite as effective as our own, and even more so, since there appear, amid conditions of extreme liberty, very few disorders. I speak only of the nations which we know, and particularly of the Hurons.

These peoples have neither King nor absolute Prince, but certain chiefs, like the heads of a Republic, whom we call Captains, - different, however, from those in war. These hold office commonly by succession on the side of the women, sometimes by election. They assume office at the death of a predecessor (who, they say, is resuscitated in them). This is celebrated with certain ceremonies. These Captains have not vim coactivam, which even the Fathers do not exercise over their sons in order to correct them, as they use words alone; and, thus brought up, the more the sons increase in age, the more they love and respect their fathers. Therefore both the former and the latter obtain everything precario by eloquence, exhortation, and entreaties; and, as signatum est super nos lumen vultus Domini, rude though they were before our arrival, they were nevertheless acquainted with both vice and virtue;

virtù, e liberi, & indisciplinati quanto dir si possa poneuamo al primo qualche rimedio. Anzi tra loro certe virtù erano sì communi, che non si stimauano tali, come l' hospitalità sì grande, che riceueua ogn' vno fenza cacciarlo mai di cafa, feruendolo, e dandogli à viuere, come a' più domestici, senza chiederne alcun pagamento. Vna patienza inuitta ne' difaggi, vna costanza in riceuere intrepidi le nuoue più acerbe, come quella della morte. Vna tranquillità [13 i.e., 15] imperturbabile contro de paesani, che gli offendono, con pregiuditio anche de' loro beni; & vna certa honestà esteriore nel trattare, che impedisce mille leggierezze, che fono affai communi ne' giouani Europei, massime di diuerso sesso, se niun' altro rispetto li ritiene. Ma con queste apparenti virtù haueuano veri vitij interni, & esterni. Ad interna fuperbia attribuifco il detto di vn Capitano, che ferito da vn giouane, e vedendo i fuoi folleuati per farne vendetta gli ritenne con dire basta, non hauete sentito tremar la terra per horrore di questa temerità? questa li fa da stoici diffimulare le passioni massime di fdegno, & è gran rimprouero il dire à chi comincia ad adirarsi, dunque tu t'adiri? tra gli esterni vno de' più communi era il furto, del quale si sono sempre vantati, come d' vna grand' industria potedolo fare senza esser fcoperti. Ogni cofa li feruiua di materia, e non fapendone altr' vfo, fe ne feruiuano per ornarfi. Rubbauano con le mani, e co' piedi in prefenza, & in affenza del padrone, non per vtil proprio, ma per puro vitio. Hanno alcune volte rubbato istromenti and although free and undisciplined to the last degree, we soon wrought some improvement. On the other hand, certain virtues were so common among them, that they were not esteemed as such: for instance, a hospitality so great that they received every comer, - never driving him from the hut, but serving him and giving him whatever he needed just as to the most intimate members of the household, without asking any pay for it. They also show an invincible patience in trials; a fortitude in receiving unmoved the most bitter news, as that of death: an imperturbable tranquillity [13 i.e., 15] when wronged by fellow-countrymen, even when they suffer personal loss; and a certain external seemliness in their behavior, which prevents a thousand levities that are quite common among European youth, especially when both sexes mingle without any external restraint. But, with these apparent virtues, they have genuine vices, within and without. To internal pride I attribute the saying of a Captain, who, being wounded by a young man, and seeing his people aroused to take vengeance therefor, checked them by saying: "Enough; did you not feel the earth shake with horror at that audacity?" This causes them stoically to dissimulate their passions, especially that of resentment; and it is a great reproach to say to one who begins to grow angry, "So you are getting angry?" Among the external vices one of the most common was theft,—they always priding themselves on their great skill, when able to accomplish it without being discovered. They turned everything to account, using for the adornment of their persons whatever was not available otherwise. They used to steal with both their hands and their di diuersi mestieri à loro affato inutili, stili d' horologij &c. & vna volta ad vn Padre de' nostri, che diceua l' Officio al lume d' vna apertura della capanna leuorno per l'ifteffa il breuiario dalle mani fenza poter' egli vedere, nè giungere il ladro. Io ne trouai vno, che rubbaua la porta d' vna nostra cappella. Ma non è impunito, e la pena è, che chi n' è conuinto, può esfer giustamente sualigiato lui, e tutta la casa; e si pratica in modo tale, che vn' huomo, che hauerà per essempio rubbato vn' accetta, ò simil cosuccia, perderà, fe si troua reo tutti i suoi beni, accette, caldaia, vesti, viueri, reti, canoa &c. fino à lasciarlo, se l' attore vsa di rigore, lui, la moglie, e i figli in vna perfetta nudità d' ogni cofa: e per euitare in questa materia le liti, hanno stabilito, primo, che vna cosa perfa, ò caduta, quando non farebbe, che di tre passi, e presa da chi che sia non è furto, che è solo quando è presa nelle capanne, ò casse; secondo, che colui, à chi qualche cofa è stata rubbata, riconoscendola in mano di chi che sia (nel che sono marauigliosi, distinguendo, non sò come, quasi ouum ab ouo) non lo deue fubito fualigiare, ma interrogarlo, chi ti hà dato per essempio questa spada? se l'altro nó risponde, è stimato conuinto di furto; se dice di hauerla riceuuta in dono, ò copra da qualcheduno, deue dire il nome di chi glie l' hà data, ò venduta, & all hora l' altro và à trouare il veditore, e gli fà la stessa domanda, e se questo gli nomina vn' altro, và [14 i.e., 16] à trouarlo, & essamina fin tanto, che ne troui vno, che non l' hà da nessuno, & in questo, & in cose simili hanno vna feet, in the presence and in the absence of the owner.—not for actual utility, but from pure vice. They have sometimes stolen implements of various trades, wholly useless to them, the hands of clocks, etc.: and once, when one of our Fathers was saying the Office by the light of a hole in the cabin, they took through that hole the breviary from his hands, without his being able to see or to catch the thief. I found one of them who was stealing the door of a chapel of ours. But theft is not unpunished, - the penalty being, that he who is convicted of it may be justly despoiled, he and all his house; and this is carried out in such a way that a man who may have stolen an axe, for instance, or a similar trifle, loses, if he is found guilty, all his goods, -axes, kettles, clothes, provisions, nets, canoe, etc., -until, if the prosecutor use rigor, he, his wife, and his children are left in a total destitution of everything. To avoid contest in this matter, they have established, first, that if a thing, lost or dropped, even though it should be but three paces away, be taken, by any one whomsoever, this is not theft,—that it is so only when an object is taken from the cabins or huts; secondly, that the one from whom anything has been stolen, on recognizing it in the hands of another (wherein they are wonderful, distinguishing, I know not how, almost ovum ab ovo), must not suddenly seize it, but must question him, - for instance, "Who gave you that javelin?" If the other make no answer, he is deemed convicted of theft; if he say that he has received it as a gift, or bought it of some one, he must tell the name of him who gave or sold it to him. Then the other goes to find the seller, and puts the same question to him; and, if this one name gran fincerità non nominando mai vn' innocente & il colpeuole con il silentio confessandosi reo. Ci sù à questo proposito proposto vn caso. Vna pouera donna, che non haueua altra ricchezza, che vna collana di certi grani di conchiglie di mare, che i Francesi han chiamata porcellana, che è come la moneta, e le perle del paefe, per paura, che coltiuando il fuo campo, non gli fuffe rubbata nella capanna, la portò feco in vn facco, il quale acciò non gl' impedisse il lauoro attaccò al tronco d' vn' albero con intentione di ripigliarlo al partire. Se n' auuidde vna vicina, che lauoraua in vn' altro campo, e dubitò, che la buona vecchia fe ne fcordarebbe, e non lo perfe mai di vista. La vecchia dopo qualche tempo lascia il fuo campo per andare in vn' altro vicino, e la vicina, che non afpettaua altro piglia alla fua prefenza il facco, e grida al modo del paefe: Io, hò fatto vn buon' incontro, e fe ne và. Hora il dubbio è, fe può questa in conscienza ritenerlo, e se la prima ha ius di fualigiarla. L' intentioni fono nafcoste, chi sà se la padrona l' haueua di ritornare, come ella diceua nel campo fe non l' haueua il facco fecondo la conuentione del paese si stima abbandonato, & primo occupantis, noi ci rimettemmo à i Capitani, de' quali notamo la prudenza. Se la cofa si riguarda in rigore, rifpofero la prefa è buona, almeno la vecchia non hà ius di fualigiare l' altra, ma l' altra deue fe non vuole effer stimata scortese, litigiosa, & auara rendere il facco, e contentarfi di qualche cortesia, ò mancia, che l'altra le deue.

to him another, he goes [14 i.e., 16] to find him, and continues the investigation until he finds one who has it from nobody. In this, and in similar things, they display great sincerity,—never naming an innocent man; while the guilty one, through his silence, confesses himself the culprit. A case in point was brought before us. A poor woman, who had no other wealth than a collar of certain beads made of sea-shells,—which the French have called porcelaine, and which are, as it were, the money and the pearls of the country,—for fear lest while cultivating her field it might be stolen from the cabin, carried it with her in a pouch, which, in order that she might not be hindered in her work, she attached to the trunk of a tree, intending to get it again upon going away. A neighbor of hers, who was at work in another field, espied it, and, suspecting that the good woman would forget it, she never lost sight of The old woman, after a while, leaves her field to go to another, near by; and the neighbor, who waited only for this, takes the pouch before her very eyes, and exclaims, after the manner of the country, "I have made a good find!" and goes away. Now the uncertainty is, whether this woman can legitimately keep it, or whether the other has the right to dispossess her. The intentions are obscure: for who knows whether the owner intended to return, as she said, into the field? If she did not, the pouch, according to the accepted usage of the country, is accounted as abandoned, et primo occupantis. We referred the matter to the Captains, of whose prudence we took "If the matter is considered with strictness," they answered, "the prize is good, -at least the old woman has not the right to dispossess the other

Ma la politica, che hanno per impedire gli homicidij che fono rarissimi è degna d'esser quì riferita, e si vedrà in vn caso seguito li 28. d' Aprile dell' anno 1648. nella persona d' vn Francese, che per diuotione ci feruiua iui gratis vecifo dagli Huroni. Era questi vn giouane di 22. anni chiamato Giacomo Douart, che fù incontrato da due affaffini, che cercauano qualch' vno di noi, ò de' nostri, il primo, che hauessero trouato folo in difparte per veciderlo, l'ordine n'era stato dato da fei Capitani di tre Terre diuerfe, nemicissimi della fede, che pretendeuano per questo mezzo d' impedir la buona intelligenza tra noi, & i nostri Chriftiani, fpaurirci tutti, e costringerci ad abbandonar il paefe, e così impedir la predicatione dell' Euangelio, che stimauano cosa di pregiuditio à gl' interessi loro. L' vecifero d'un colpo d'accetta verso il tramontar [15 i.e., 17] del Sole, e la mattina feguente i nostri Christiani hauutane la nuoua vennero dalle contrade vicine per dirci, che questo colpo era vn' inditio certo di qualche congiura contro di noi, mà eccoci, foggiunfero tutti pronti à morire per la difefa de' nostri Padri, e della fede. Tutto il paese si commosse, onde i principali della natione conuennero ad vn confeglio generale, doue gli autori dell' homicidio mostrandosi quali erano nemici della fede, non mancarono di dire non folo, che non bifognaua far conto di quel, che era paffato, mà di più ferrarci in faccia le porte de' lor borghi, e cacciarci dal paefe, & altri aggiunfero, che era necessario mandar in esilio tutti i Christiani, & impedire, che il lor numero non crefcesse. Ma il zelo woman; but the latter, unless she wishes to be thought unmannerly, litigious, and avaricious, should give back the pouch, and content herself with some civility or gratuity, which the other owes her."

But the policy which they observe for preventing murders, which are very rare, is worthy to be reported here, and it will be seen in a case which occurred on the 28th of April in the year 1648. A Frenchman, who from devotion served us there for nothing, was killed by the Hurons. He was a young man of 22 years, called Jacques Douart. He was met by two assassins, who were seeking some one of us or of ours, with the intention of killing the first whom they should find alone. The order for this had been given by six Captains, from three several Villages, who were very hostile to the faith, and who intended, by that means, to hinder the good understanding between us and our Christians, to terrify us all, and to constrain us to abandon the country, and thus to prevent the preaching of the Gospel, which they deemed a thing prejudicial to their interests. They killed him with a hatchet-blow, toward [15 i.e., 17] Sunset: and on the following morning, our Christians, having received the report of it, came from the neighboring districts to tell us that this crime was a sure sign of certain plots against us: "But here we are," they added, "all ready to die for the defense of our Fathers and of the faith." The whole country became aroused: wherefore the leaders of the nation assembled in a general council, at which the authors of the murder, showing themselves to be enemies of the faith, did not fail to say, not only that it was necessary to make no account of what had happened, but further, that the gates of their villages di questi buoni neofiti spiccò grandemente in questa occasione; alcuni diceuano, che volentieri haurebbero lasciati i parenti, che amano teneramente, e la patria più tosto, che fare vn minimo torto alla lor fede; altri, che non stimauano punto la vita presente, dopo hauer conofciuti gli auantaggi della futura. Io non temo diceua taluno il foco de gl' Hirochesi, purche mi troui fenza peccato, molto meno d'effer fcannato per la fede, e di dar la mia vita à chi me la renderà immortale; altri altrimenti, ma tutti con vn zelo, e libertà veramente christiana, biasmauano gli autori, e complici dell' homicidio fenza però nominarli, ancorche li fapessero Questa gente, diceuano, vuole la rouina del paefe, è stata fenza dubbio con prefenti corrotta per tradirci, la fede non li piace, perche riprende i lor vitij che comparifchino, e si vedrà. Due, ò tre giorni si passarono in queste sante contese, le quali feruirono e per accrefcer maggiormente il feruore de' nostri Christiani, e per far vedere l'amore, che portauano alla fede & à i loro maestri, & in fine ad ottenere da' Capitani, e da' principali del paefe anche infedeli, che al nome del publico ci fosse pienamente fodisfatto, che è la loro politica in fimili casi.

Sarebbe tentar l'impossibile e rouinare ogni cosa più tosto, che rimediare proceder con i Barbari secondo la giustitia di quasi tutte le nationi, condannando alla morte l'homicida; il publico è quello, che sodissa a' missatti del particolare, ò il colpeuole sia conosciuto, ò nò, in somma il missatto solo si castiga, e non il malsattore, e questo, che altroue parrebbe vn'ingiustishould be shut in our faces, and that we must be driven out of the country. Others added that all the Christians should be sent into exile, and their number kept from increasing. But the zeal of some good neophytes shone forth brightly on this occasion: some said that they would gladly have forsaken their kindred, whom they tenderly loved, and their native land, sooner than do wrong, in the least degree, to their faith; others, that they esteemed the present life as nothing after having learned the blessings of the future one. "I do not fear," said one, "the fire of the Hiroquois, provided I be found without sin: much less do I fear to be slain for the faith, and to give my life to one who will restore it to me. immortal." Others spoke otherwise, but all, with a zeal and freedom truly christian, censured the authors and abetters of the murder, - without naming them, however, although they knew them. "These people," they said, "wish the ruin of the country, and have no doubt been corrupted with gifts to betray us: the faith does not please them, because it reproves their vices; let them appear, and this will be seen." Two or three days passed in these holy contests, which served to increase still more the fervor of our Christians, and to show the love which they bore to the faith and to their teachers; and finally, to obtain from the Captains and the chief men of the country, although infidels, that, in the name of the public, such full satisfaction should be accorded to us, as their law prescribes in similar cases.

It would be attempting the impossible, and ruining everything, rather than affording a remedy, to proceed with the Barbarians according to the judicial usage of nearly all nations, by condemning the murtia, è mezzo efficacissimo tra loro per impedire il corso di fimili difordini. Hò creduto, che farebbe curiofità ragioneuole il fapere in questo i loro costumi particolari, però feguitarò l' Historia incominciata [16 i.e., 18] in poche parole. Rifoluti dunque di fodisfarci, ci chiamarono in vn configlio generale, che haueuano fatto, doue vn vecchio Capitano in perfona di tutti cominciò à parlare al Superiore della Missione in questa guisa. Fratello (sono quasi le sue stesse parole) ecco quì tutte le nationi radunate insieme per fodisfarti, le nominò tutte ad vna ad vna; noi non siamo più che vn pugno di gente, tu solo fostenti questo pouero paese, e lo porti nelle tue mani, vn fulmine l' ha colpito, e diuiso in due, ci hà aperto vn precipitio, doue fe ci abbandoni, ficuramente ci abissiamo. Habbi dunque pietà di noi, che quì siamo per pianger la tua perdita, e la nostra più tosto, che per parlare. Questo paese altro non è, che vn scheletro fenza carne, fenza vene, fenza nerui, fenza arterie, fiamo come offa fecche, che erano legate con vn filo affai delicato infieme, il colpo fcaricato fopra la testa del tuo nipote, che piangiamo, hà rotto questo legame, è stato il Demonio, che hà messo l'accetta in mano dell'affaffino. Fosti tu forsi ò Sole, che lo conducesti à sì infelice misfatto? Perche non ofcurafti il tuo lume, affinche egli stesso hauesse horrore della fua temerità? N' eri tu forsi complice? Non per certo, poiche caminaua nelle tenebre, e non fapeua doue andaffe. Si penfaua l'infelice di dar dritto fopra la testa d' vn giouane Francese, e colpì derer to death: it is the public that gives satisfaction for the crimes of the individual, whether the culprit be known or not. In fine, the crime alone is punished, and not the criminal; and this, which elsewhere would appear an injustice, is among them a most efficacious means for preventing the spread of similar disorders. I have believed that it might be a reasonable curiosity to wish to know, in this matter, their particular customs; howbeit, I will continue in a few words the Story begun above. [16 i.e., 18] Having, then, resolved to make satisfaction to us, they called us to a general council which they had convened; at which an old Captain, in the name of them all, began to speak to the Superior of the Mission in this wise: "Brother" (these are almost his own words), "thou seest here all the nations assembled together to make satisfaction to you,"-he named them all, one by one; "we are no more than a handful of people; thou alone sustainest this poor country, and bearest it in thy hands. A thunderbolt has struck it, and rent it in two; it has opened a chasm before us, wherein, if thou abandon us, we shall surely be swallowed up. Have therefore pity on us, who are here to lament thy loss, and ours, rather than to speak. This country is nothing but a skeleton, without flesh, without veins, without sinews, without arteries; we are like dry bones, bound together with a very delicate thread. The blow dealt upon the head of thy nephew, whom we mourn, has broken that bond; it was the Demon who put the axe in the hand of the assassin. Was it perchance thou, O Sun, who didst lead him to commit so wretched a crime? Why didst thou not darken thy light, that he himself might be horrified at his own

I nostri nimici si rallegraranno di questa morte, e faranno la folennità d' vn gloriofo trionfo, vedendo, che l'armi nostre distruggon noi stessi, e fanno sì bei colpi à lor fauore. temerity? Wast thou, perhaps, his accomplice? No, forsooth, since he was walking in the darkness, and knew not whither he went. The unhappy man thought to strike directly upon the head of a young Frenchman, and struck his own country with a mortal wound: the earth opened to receive the blood of the innocent, and has made a chasm to ingulf us all, now that we are all guilty. Our enemies will rejoice in this death, and will celebrate a glorious triumph, on seeing that our arms destroy ourselves, and deal such telling blows in their favor." He continued in this strain a long time, and then added: "Brother, have pity on this country; thou alone canst give life to it. To thee it pertains to gather together these scattered bones: thou must close the mouth of this chasm which stands ready to ingulf us; have pity on thy country, which we call thine, because we make thee the master of it. We are here like criminals, to receive condemnation, if thou choose to treat us without mercy; have pity on those who, accusing themselves, come humbly to ask thy pardon. Thou hast given stability to this country by establishing thy dwelling here; if thou go away, we shall be like uprooted straws, which serve only as sport for the winds. This Land is an unstable Island, and is likely to be submerged in the first storm: do thou establish it, and posterity will praise thee, and hold thine act in perpetual remembrance. At the first news of this death, we forsook everything; and [17 i.e., 19] we bring with us nothing but tears and repentance, - ready to execute, by way of reparation for the crime perpetrated, whatever thou shalt command us. Speak, therefore; what wilt thou have? Thine are our lives, and, much more, our goods; we nostri sdegni, e per te altro no hauerem mai, che amore, e veneratione Per rifposta se gli diede vn fascetto di bastoncelli vn poco più lunghi, e grossi de folfaroli, che coteneuano il numero de preseti, che dimadauamo per fodisfattione dell' homicidio. I nostri Christiani ci haueano informati di tutti i loro costumi, & effortati ad offeruarli esattamete, se no voleuamo pregiudicare non foloànoi, ma anco alla caufa di Dio, & alla fede. I Capitani diuifero tra loro i bastoncelli, accioche ogni natione cocorresse à i presenti, che addimandauamo. Andò per questo ogn' vno alla fua terra. Niuno in particolare è costretto à questa cotributione, ma à gara tra di loro, secodo che fono più, ò meno ricchi, procurano tutti di partecipare à questi publici pesi, per mostrarsi più affettionati al ben comune. Fù duque destinato vn giorno per il ritorno, e per fare la cerimonia con tutte le folennità del paese, e fù li 11. di Maggio. La sera innanzi 4. Capitani furono deputati dal confeglio generale per abboccarci, dui erano Christiani, e dui infedeli. Si prefentarono alla porta, ma come no fi parla in queste occasioni fenza prefenti, fecero all' entrata il primo, che fù, acciò fe gli apriffe la porta. Il fecondo acciò fe gli permettesse l' entrata, e quante porte haueuano da paffare, altretanti prefenti haueressimo potuto da loro esigere. Entrati che furono, cominciarono à parlare con vn presente, che chiamano asciugamento di lagrime, accioche non li riguardassimo più con occhio torbido. Il fecondo chiaman vna potione medicinale per rimetterci la voce, che will gladly despoil ourselves of them to satisfy thee; we will despoil our children, to content thee; nor will we accuse thee herein, but only him who involved us in guilt. Against him shall we direct our resentment, and for thee we shall never have anything but love and veneration." In answer, there was given him a parcel of small sticks, a little longer and thicker than matches, which indicated the number of presents that we required by way of satisfaction for the murder. Our Christians had informed us of all their customs, and exhorted us to observe them exactly, unless we would arouse prejudice not only against ourselves, but also against the cause of God and the faith. The Captains divided the sticks among them, so that every nation should contribute toward the presents which we asked. For this purpose every one went to his own village. No individual is obliged to make this contribution, but they vie with one another, according as they are more or less rich, in sharing these public burdens, in order to show their devotion to the common weal. A day was therefore set for the return, in order to perform the ceremony with all the solemnity of the country. This was the 11th of May. On the eve of this event, 4 Captains were delegated by the general council to confer with us: two were Christians, and two infidels. They presented themselves at the door: but as there is no speaking on these occasions without gifts, they made the first one at the entrance: which was to the end that the door might be opened to them. They made a second, that they might be permitted to enter; and, as many doors as they had to pass, so many gifts we might have required of them. When they had entered, they began to speak, offering us a present haueuamo pería, e per farla vícire per l'auuenire più dolce. Il terzo per placar la mente agitata da penfieri di dolore. Il quarto per addolcire il cuore giustamete irritato. Questi presenti sono la maggior parte di que' granelli di cochiglie marine, che i Francesi han chiamati, come habbiamo detto, porcellana, e fimili cofuccie. vera pouertà in Europa, ma molto stimate in que' paesi. Aggiunsero à questi altri noue presenti per alzare vn sepolcro al defonto, ogn' vno con il fuo proprio nome, quattro per le 4. colonne, che doueano fostenere il sepolchro, e quattro per li quattro trauersi, che fanno il cataletto del morto, il nono per feruirgli di guanciale. [18 i.e., 20] otto Capitani delle otto nationi Hurone portorno ciascuno vn presente per le otto ossa più principali del corpo humano, come de' piedi, gambe, braccia &c. E quì il costume loro ci obligò di parlare, cioè di fare vn presente di 3000. di que' granelli per rimetter in piedi il paese rouinoso, e stabilirlo, accioche potesse sostenere i rimproueri, che gli faressimo per il misfatto commesso.

La mattina feguente alla prefenza d' vn gran popolo concorfo da ogni parte fecero come vn teatro in vna piazza publica, oue fofpefero 50. prefenti, che fono la fodisfatione principale, il refto già riferito non effendo che come vno accefforio. Per vn' Hurone ammazzato da vn' altro Hurone fi contentano per l' ordinario di 30 prefenti. Per vna donna ne dimandano 40. sì perche effe non fi poffono difendere come gli huomini, sì anche perche popolano i paefi, onde la vita loro which they call "the drying of tears," in order that we might no longer regard them with clouded eyes. The second they call a medicinal potion for restoring our voice to us, which we had lost, and for causing it to sound more softly in future. The third, to appeare the mind agitated by thoughts of grief. The fourth, to soothe the heart, justly provoked. These gifts are mostly of those beads of marine shells which the French, as we have said, have called porcelaine, - and similar trifles, utterly valueless in Europe, but much esteemed in those countries. They added to these, nine other gifts, to erect a sepulcher to the deceased, - every one with its own peculiar name; four were for the 4 columns which were to support the sepulcher, and four for the four stretchers which form the coffin of the dead: the ninth, to serve him as a pillow. Afterward, [18 i.e., 20] eight Captains of the eight Huron nations brought each a present for the eight principal bones of the human body: those of the feet, legs, arms, etc. And here their custom obliged us to speak,—that is, to make a present of 3000 of those beads, in order to put the ruined country on its feet again, and strengthen it so that it could bear the reproaches which we might make against it for the crime perpetrated.

The following morning, in the presence of a great multitude assembled from every direction, they made a sort of stage in a public square, where they suspended 50 gifts, which form the principal satisfaction: the remainder, already referred to, being only a sort of accessory. For a Huron slain by another Huron, they usually content themselves with 30 presents. For a woman, they ask 40. This is partly because they cannot defend themselves like the deue effere più pretiofa al publico, e la loro debolezza deue hauere più grande appoggio dalla giustitia. Per vn forastiero ne domandano più, perche altrimente dicono gli homicidij farebbono continui, il commercio si perderebbe, e si farebbe facilmete guerra con le nationi straniere. Non è finita ancora la cerimonia Il corpo, à cui fù alzato il fepolcro, non vi deue ripofar nudo; bifogna riuestirlo, come era in vita, e per questo fecero tre presenti per vna camicia, vn giuppone, calzoni &c. e per vn' archibugio con poluere, e palle, che il morto hauea; e per ritirare dalla piaga l' accetta mortale aggionfero anche vn presente. Quanti colpi hà riceuuto il morto, tanti prefenti haurebbero douuto fare, per rifaldarli vi aggionfero ancora tre altri prefenti; il primo per chiuder la terra, che si era aperta, il secondo per affodarla, e quì tutti incominciarono, fecondo il loro costume, à ballare in segno d'allegrezza; il terzo per impedire con vna groffa pietra (come dicono) che quell' abiffo non s' apriffe mai più: e fette altri, primo per rendere la voce à missionanti, secondo per esortare i nostri domestici à non riuolgere l'armi contro l'homicida, ma contro i loro nimici; il terzo per riaccendere il fuoco, che teneuamo fempre acceso per commodo de paffaggieri, il quarto per riaprir la porta dell' Hospitio de' nostri Christiani che frequentemente alloggiauamo, il quinto per rimettere nell' acqua il batello, del quale ci feruiuamo per farli paffare il fiume quando veniuano à visitarci, il sesto per rimetter il remo nelle mani d' vn giouane, che haueua cura di men, partly, too, because they people the countries, on which account, their lives should be more precious to the public, and their weakness should have greater support from justice. For an alien they ask more; because otherwise, they say, murders would be continuous, trade would be ruined, and war would easily occur with foreign nations. The ceremony is not yet finished. The body for which the sepulcher was erected must not repose there naked; it is necessary to clothe it as it was in life. Accordingly they made three presents, for a shirt, a doublet, breeches, etc., and for an arquebus with powder and balls, which the deceased had; and, to withdraw from the wound the deadly hatchet, they added a further present. As many blows as the dead has received, so many gifts they would have been obliged to make, in order to heal the wounds. Thereto they added three more presents: the first, to close the earth, which had opened itself; the second, to make it solid, - and here all began, according to their custom, to dance in token of gladness; the third, to prevent, with a great stone (as they say), that chasm from ever opening again. There were also seven others: the first, to restore speech to the missionaries; the second, to exhort our domestics not to turn their arms against the murderer, but against their enemies; the third, to rekindle the fire which we kept always lighted for the convenience of travelers; the fourth, to open again the door of the Hospice for our Christians, whom we frequently lodged; the fifth, to put back in the water the boat which we used for conveying them across the river when they came to visit us; the sixth, to restore the paddle to the hands of a young man who had charge of that quel passaggio, il settimo per l' Illustrissimo Signor Gouernatore, che chiamano Onontio. [19 i.e., 21] N' haueressimo potuto esigere due altri per riedificare la nostra Casa, e Chiesa, e per ereggere quattro Croci, che erano nelli quattro angoli del nostro distretto, ma ci contentammo di quelli, che spontaneamente ci offersero. Tre de' primi Capitani conclusero la cerimonia con tre presenti gratuiti, che secero per esortarci ad esser sempre costanti in amarli. Tutti questi presenti arrivarono à cento.

Per rifposta facemmo ancor noi de presenti à ciascheduna delle otto nationi per rinodare, e cosermare l'antica amicitia, per esortarli à star sempre vniti, e d'accordo, e tra di loro, e con i Francesi, per meglio resistere a' loro nemici, per impedire le maledicenze, che correuano contro la fede ed i Christiani, i quali incolpauano d'ogni sinistro accidente per consolarli della perdita di alcuni de'loro vecisi da gl'inimici, & in sine assicurarli, che l'Illustriss. Sig. Gouernatore, che era il Signor Caualiere di Montmagnì, e tutti i Francesi si foordarebbero per sempre di quell'homicidio, per il quale haueuano secondo i loro costumi pienamente sodissatto.

Ecco come punifcono gli homicidij, e quando i prefenti mancano al fecondo, ò al terzo fi dichiarano le guerre tra le nationi.

passage; the seventh, for the most Illustrious Signor Governor, whom they call Onontio. [19 i.e., 21] We might have required two others, to rebuild our House and Church, and to erect four Crosses which were at the four corners of our territory; but we contented ourselves with those which they offered us voluntarily. Three of the first Captains concluded the ceremony with three gratuitous gifts, which they made to exhort us to be always constant in loving them. All these presents amounted to a hundred.

In return, we also made gifts to each of the eight nations, to bind up again and to confirm the old friendship; to exhort them to be always united and at peace, both among themselves and with the French, in order the better to resist their enemies; to prevent the slanders which were current against the faith and the Christians, whom they accused of every disastrous accident; to console them for the loss of some of theirs, killed by the enemies; and finally, to assure them that the most Illustrious Signor Governor, who was the Signor Chevalier de Montmagnì, and all the French, would forever forget that murder,—for which they had, according to their customs, made full satisfaction.

It is thus that they punish murders; and, when presents are not forthcoming at the second or the third time, wars are declared among the nations.

In reprinting Bressani's Breve Relatione we follow the original Italian text, from a copy in the library of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. It is not described in Harrisse's Notes; but the omission is evidently unintentional, as he refers to it in the note appended to no. 475. The volume is dedicated to Cardinal de Lugo "Di Macerata li 19. Luglio 1653."

Collation: Title, with verso blank, I leaf; dedication, with privilege dated "Romæ 26. Martij 1653" on the verso, I leaf; text, beginning with the "Proemio" or introduction, pp. I-127 (for pp. I-129), with "Tauola de' Capitoli" on verso of p. 127. The signatures are: Two preliminary leaves, A in four, B in five, C-Q in fours. The insertion of a leaf between sig. B, and B₂ is responsible for the omission of two pages of the pagination, namely on the verso of B, and on the verso of the inserted leaf.

Copies have been sold or priced as follows: Quaritch (1860), no. 3930, priced at £3. 3s; Leclerc (1867), no. 209, sold for 70 fr., and (1878), no. 684, priced at 350 fr.; Murphy sale (1884), no. 343, sold for $16; Barlow (1890), no. 333, sold for $27; Silvio Bocca, of Rome, priced (1892) at 200 lire, and (1896) 100 lire; Dufossé (1891–96), priced at 150 to 200 fr.; Maisonneuve, of Paris, priced (1898) at 200 fr.; and Jacques Rosenthal, of Munich, priced (1898) at 175 marks. There are copies in the following libraries: Lenox, Brown (private), Ayer (private), State Historical Society of Wisconsin, Provincial Parliament (Ottawa), St. Mary's College (Montreal), Laval University (Quebec), British Museum, and Bibliothèque Nationale (Paris).

In 1852, the Rev. Felix Martin, S.J., published a French translation of Bressani, in which he included some important additions. It collates as follows:

Relation abrégée, | de | Quelques Missions | des | Pères de la Compagnie de Jésus | dans la | Nouvelle-France, | Par le | R. P. F.-J. Bressany [sic], | de la même Compagnie. | Traduit de l'Italien et augmenté d'un avant-propos, de la Biographie de l'Auteur, | et d'un grand Nombre de Notes et de Gravures, | par le | R. P. F. Martin, | de la même Compagnie. | Montréal: | Des Presses à Vapeur de John Lovell, Rue St. Nicolas. | 1852.

Engraved title, with verso blank, I leaf; printed title, with verso blank, I leaf; "Avant-propos du Traducteur," pp. 5-II; p. 12, blank; "Biographie du P. François-Joseph Bressany," pp. 13-45; p. 46, blank; "Épitre dédicatoire," p. 47; privilege, p. 48; "Introduction," pp. 49 and 50; text of Bressani, pp. 51-290; "Appendice," pp. 291-336; a separate slip of "Errata."

The appendix contains several important documents, among them Father Jogues's "Novum Belgium;" a note on "Wampum;" a list of the Fathers who served in the mission to the Hurons; a "Précis historique sur la Mission Huronne" (9½ pp.); and "Notes sur la Géographie ancienne du Canada" (11 pp.). The book is illustrated with numerous cuts and maps, many of which are in the text. An "Explication des Gravures," on pp. 330-333, will sufficiently locate them for the book-collector.

The French translation is common enough, and may be found, generally, in collections of Canadiana. The market value may be estimated from the following data: Thomas W. Field sale (1875), no. 197, fetched $1.62; O'Callaghan (1882), no. 377, sold for $2.75; Murphy (1884), no. 342, sold for $3.50; Dufossé, priced (1891) at 10 fr.; Chadenat, priced (1896) at 12 fr.

Martin's work was made the basis for a popular account of the early Jesuits in Canada, published at Montreal, in 1877, by Rev. Theodore Fleck, S.J., under the title, Les Jésuites Martyrs du Canada.

NOTES TO VOL. XXXVIII

(Figures in parentheses, following number of note, refer to pages of English text.)

- I (p. 35).—Reference is probably made here to John Winslow, one of the Plymouth 'merchants engaged in the Kennebec trade (vol. xxxvi., notes 7, 14).
- 2 (p. 39).—The "Acadian Patriarchs" were the Capuchin Fathers (vol. xxx., note 22).
 - 3 (p. 49). High mightinesses: see vol. xxii., note 14.
- 4 (p. 109).—Jean Bagot was born at Rennes, France, in 1591, and at the age of nineteen entered the Jesuit novitiate. After his ordination, he was successively a teacher of theology, censor of books for the Jesuit general at Rome, and head of the Congregations of the Blessed Virgin in France. Bagot wrote various controversial works, especially those attacking Jean Rousse, of Paris, regarding the obligation of confession.
- 5 (p. 145).—The Feuillants were a reformed congregation of Cistercians, founded in 1577 by Jean de la Barrière. The latter order, a branch of the Benedictines, was founded in 1098, at Citeaux (Cistercium), five leagues from Dijon, by St. Robert. It was from this monastery that St. Bernard went forth to found that of Clairvaux (vol. xxxi., note 5).
- 6 (p. 149).—Banquier: according to Littré, a broker, or agent, employed at the court of Rome to expedite the despatch of bulls, dispensations, etc. Cf. Marie de l'Incarnation's remark as to a bull desired by the Ursulines—Lettres (Richaudeau's ed.), t. i., p. 429.

Father Jones remarks upon this passage in our text, "It means that she would not hear of any mitigation of the austerities of religious life, or of any exceptional expense in her case, or of dispensations, . . . for, of course, in cases like the above, there was no need of applying to the Pope, or to bankers."

7 (p. 171).—Claude Charron, born 1621, was a merchant of Quebec, of which town he was elected an alderman in 1663. In that year also, he was a member of the Tadoussac trading company. The date of his death is not recorded, but was after 1686.

8 (p. 171).—Louis Couillard, eldest son of Guillaume (vol. xii., note 27), bore the title of Sieur de l'Espinay. His wife was a daughter of Nicolas Després (vol. xxxvii., note 4); they had six children.

9 (p. 173).—See Lalemant's commendation of this donné in vol. vi., pp. 55-57.

10 (p. 175).—A son of Jean Guyon (vol. xxvii., note 16); Simon was born in 1621, and died in 1682.

11 (p. 175).—François Boulé (vol. xxviii., note 20) was a farmer at Cap Rouge, as was also Pierre Garemand (vol. xxvii., note 12).

12 (p. 181).—Skia, & was the Huron name of the Sault Ste. Marie; by the Enskia, e'ronnons are doubtless meant the tribe there resident, better known as Sauteurs (vol. xviii., note 16). The rendezvous mentioned in the text was evidently located on the east shore of Lake Michigan. As this was a gathering of Algonkin tribes, it was probably the Nipissings, not the Winnebagoes, who were intended by the term Aweatsiwaenronnons (vol. x., note 7).

Sken'chio,e, the place where the remnant of the Neutrals spent the winter, seems to be mentioned only in this place; but the etymology of the name, and the location of the Skenchiohronons (vol. viii., p. 302), would suggest that this place was, or had been, the residence of that tribe. Coyne says (Country of Neutrals, p. 19): "This is probably the last we hear of the Neutrals under their own name. Some of the survivors united with the remnant of the Hurons at Mackinac and on Lake Superior; and under the names of Hurons and Wyandots they appear from time to time on the page of history. Their removal to Detroit, on the establishment of the latter trading-post by Cadillac, is perpetuated by the name of Wyandotte, to the south of that city."

13 (p. 185).—Ragueneau's handwriting ends here, and is followed by that of Jerome Lalemant, until Aug. 21, pending the arrival of the new superior, Le Mercier.

Christophe Crevier, sieur de la Meslé, came from the vicinity of La Rochelle, France, with his family to Quebec, about 1638; soon afterward, he settled at Three Rivers,—where he acquired (1655-60) the fief of St. Christophe. One of his daughters, Jeanne, became (1650) the second wife of Pierre Boucher, governor of Three Rivers, by whom she had sixteen children. Two of Crevier's sons were killed by the Iroquois.

Guillaume Pelletier (Peltier), a native of Perche, is first mentioned as a colonist in 1646; his wife was Michelle Morille. He died in November, 1657.

François Belanger, a native of Normandy, came to Quebec as early as 1636. In the following year, he married Marie, daughter of Jean Guyon (vol. xxvii., note 16), by whom he had thirteen children.

Pierre Picard, born 1616, married Renée Suronne, by whom he had one son; he died at Ouebec in 1676.

From this point there is no record in the Journal for five days (August 10-14); but there is, in the archives of St. Mary's College, Montreal, an interesting document of this period,—a formal request (dated Aug. 10, 1653) by the governor, De Lauson, to the Jesuits to fortify their house in Quebec for defense against the Iroquois, "since it is necessary to provide for the refuge and Safety of the Habitants of Quebecq, in case the Enemies make a Raid thereon, and as the place is entirely open and without defense,—the house of the Reverend Jesuit Fathers being the only building which can afford shelter to many persons and families, in such an emergency."

14 (p. 189).—Concerning the relations of Canada and Rouen, see vol. xvi., note 5. The purpose of Vimont's journey in 1647 is more fully stated in vol. xxx., p. 191. The "inquiry into the lives and holy deaths of our Fathers" had at least one result—the preparation by Ragueneau (vol. ix., note 40) of the MS. of 1652 upon the above subject.

From this point, the Journal is written by Le Mercier, until Feb. 5, 1654.

15 (p. 213).—Caraffa (vol. xxx., note 9) was succeeded, as general of the Jesuits, by Francesco Piccolomini (December, 1649), who died June 17, 1651. In the following January, Alessandro Gottifredi was elected general, but lived only two months thereafter. Mar. 17, 1653, Goswin Nickel was raised to this dignity, which he retained eight years,—resigning his office (June 7, 1661) in favor of Jean Paul Oliva. Three years later, he died.

16 (p. 217).—Martin (Bressany, p. 49, note) thinks that this is a reference to Du Creux's Hist. Canadensis; but Bressani's own statement in the text, and one or two other allusions of his, rather indicate that he himself contemplated writing a book, similar in scope to Du Creux's.

17 (p. 227). — For meaning of name Canada, see vol. ii., note 48.

18 (p. 233).—Detailed information concerning these localities, the early settlements on the St. Lawrence, and the history of Canada up to Bressani's time, is given in preceding volumes of this series.

19 (p. 235).—Regarding these tides, Martin says (Bressany, p. 62, note 1): "This geographical error has long been prevalent, and Chateaubriant himself adopted it. It is now known that all the great lakes of Canada have neither flow nor ebb, properly speaking. They are subject, however, at times to considerable variations of level. These must be attributed, it would seem, to local and accidental causes,—to the violence of the persistence of winds, to the abundance or the force of certain currents of water."

Ondatawawat: the Ottawas (vol. xiv., note 9).

20 (p. 243).—Cf. descriptions of Canadian fauna given by Le Jeune (vol. vi., pp. 295-317), and Sagard (Grand Voyage, Tross ed., pp. 209-230).

21 (p. 245).—For value of the measure known as "palm," see vol. xxix., note 7. Martin says (Bressany, p. 69, note): "The Italian palm measured 8 pouces, 3 lines" of French measure,—equivalent to 8.8 inches, English measure; but this is considerably less than the value given by Littré.

22 (p. 247). - Testone: see vol. ix., note 39.

23 (p. 247).— Canne: a measure of length used in various countries, especially in Italy, the value of which is not constant; that of Naples is equivalent to two meters, twenty-nine centimeters.
